

B. S. U. NOTES

BIG DOINGS

Seems as though the B. S. U. had been doing some big and outstanding things during the past few weeks. Too, we've heard some very favorable comments from the people 'round about here and Raleigh. Keep up the good work "B. S. U.ers!"

PAGEANT AT TABERNACLE

The same group of girls that gave the impressive Y. W. A. pageant at the first school were asked to present the same one at the Tabernacle Baptist church. This pageant served as an appropriate conclusion to the week of prayer that has been observed by the members of Tabernacle.

Y. W. A. TEA ROOM

One of the best tea rooms ever had here at school, in our estimation (and many others), was held here Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday in the social room of Jones Hall. This tea room was sponsored by the Y. W. A. and is an annual tradition. Everyone seemed to be hungry enough—much to the joy of the Y. W. A. members. The money this year will be used for the support of the Japanese girl, which the B. S. U. is keeping in school this year.

"STAR GAME" PRESENTED

A very lovely pageant, "Star Game," was given by the B. Y. P. U., Wednesday night. Christmas season seems to be in reality now, since concerts and Christmas pageants are being given.

PROGRAM AT WAKE FOREST

The B. S. U. of Meredith had complete charge of the church service at the Baptist Church in Wake Forest last Sunday night. Melba Hunt, president Meredith B. S. U., presided over the exercises which dwelt on the subject "Gifts." Martha Stack gave a reading "Meditations On a Christmas." "What may I as a Student Give this Christmas" was the subject of a very splendid talk by Dixie Lee Bole. Miss Knight told a very fitting Christmas story. Of course, appropriate and lively special music was furnished by the following girls: Hazel Martin, Ella Lee Yates, Eleanor Hunt, Elizabeth Lee, and Marguerite Warren.

We'll be at the Cally!

Soda : Lunches
Candies

CALIFORNIA
FRUIT STORE

111 Fayetteville Street

POTEAAT TALKS TO
MEREDITH ALUMNAE

"A dramatization of a clash of two different expansions—China and Japan" was the subject of the lecture delivered before the regular meeting of the Wake County Chapter, of Meredith Alumnae, Friday, December, 9th, by Rev. E. McNeill Poteat, Jr., pastor of Pullen Memorial Baptist Church.

Rev. Poteat, having taught for a number of years in the Baptist College of Shanghai, China, was able to give very interesting and informing facts concerning the situation in the far Eastern Countries. He told of the Chinese and Japanese situation as explained by the background and traditions of these nations. He spoke, too, of the general characteristics of the Chinese and Japanese as a people, and gave an insight into their so-called national situation.

The International Relations Club members were guests of the alumnae at their meeting.

The Christmas issue of the Acorn was distributed Wednesday afternoon, December 14. Its color scheme on the cover is green and white—for Christmas, not for the junior class. There are a number of Christmas features, poems by Virginia Farris, Nancy McDaniel, an editorial by the editor, and "Candles" by Virginia Farris. Grace Lawrence, Evelyn Barker and Frances Maynard, regular contributors, also have poems and essays. "The Tragic Life of a Proctor" is told by Susan Emma Sloan, '36.

Special Collection of

GIFTS
FOR MEN

½ OFF

WHITING-HORTON COMPANY

10 E. Martin Street

CHRISTMAS
FLOWERS

Solve the Christmas Gift problem by sending Flowers—to your loved ones and friends.

J. J. FALLON CO., Inc.

"We grow the Flowers we sell"

CLASSICAL CLUB MEETS
AT HOME OF MISS PRICE

(Continued from page one)

portrayed by Helen Rivers, and Martial, as Sarah Elizabeth Vernon, distributed Latin fortunes to everyone before returning home.

After the program the ex-presidents who were present were introduced, Miss Hester Kitchin, '29, Miss Ellen Bradsher, '30, and Miss Lucy Glenn Gill, '32. The present president, Dorothy Merritt, then presented "The Cheerful Cherub" to Miss Price as a Saturnalia gift from the club.

A number of Latin songs, some of the English equivalents of which are "Jingle Bells," "Oh, Come Let Us Adore Him," and "Silent Night," were sung by the club, with Nancy Vicellio as leader.

The prize for the highest number of words made from Martial's complete name went to Carolyn Wray. Iris Humphrey, who came second in this contest, won the prize later as the "Worst Gambler." She was given some hand-painted Christmas cards by Mrs. Edith Cook.

Other guests besides the ex-presidents were Miss Biggers, Miss Mary Tillery, and Miss Louise Craven. Club members present were Iris Humphrey, Isabelle Morgan, Inez Poe, Alyne Reich, Kathleen Sears, Peggy Tilghman, Sarah Elizabeth Vernon, Martha and Nancy Vicellio, Carolyn Wray, Norma Rose, Anne Bradsher, Helen Rivers, Katrina Beasley.

The Ladies Shop

Has Moved to

12 West Hargett Street

(Formerly at 136 Fayetteville St.)

The Newest Styles at Popular Prices

THIS COUPON AND

15c

WILL ADMIT ANY
MEREDITH COLLEGE STUDENT
to the

PALACE

Matinee or Night

Monday—Tuesday—Wednesday

JOEL McCREA

— in —

"Most Dangerous Game"

With

FAY WRAY - ROBT. ARMSTRONG

Also

COMEDY : SOUND NEWS

Thursday—Friday—Saturday

RALPH BELLAMY

— in —

"AIR MAIL"

With

PAT O'BRIEN - GLORIA STUART

Also

COMEDY : SOUND NEWS

Dr. Peacock Speaks to
Colton English Club

The members of the Colton English Club were very fortunate in having Dr. J. L. Peacock speak to them on the subject "Robert Burns," at their regular meeting on Friday afternoon, December 2.

Dr. Peacock first gave a brief sketch of Burns' life in which he stated that Burns was born in 1759 in Ayr, Scotland, only seven miles from where he himself was born. "Burns' birthday is to Scotland what Washington's is to America," said Dr. Peacock. The speaker further stated that Burns was a man of thoughtful character, possessing keen insight and an open mind, Burns was also a lover of humanity and was at home with the peasants as much as the gentry. "Burns was no saint but had noble aspirations and will inspire as long as the English language is read," said Dr. Peacock. He further stated that in 1786 Burns' first book of poems was published, for which he received 20 £. In 1788 he married Jean Armour and in the same year wrote "Tam O'Shanter."

Dr. Peacock also read several of Burns' poems some of which were: "To a Louse," "To a Mouse" and a part of "The Cotter's Saturday Night." Dr. Peacock then concluded his talk by singing "A Man's a Man for a' That," "Ye Banks and Braes O' Bonnie Doon," and his mother's favorite song, "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton." The members of the club then joined in and sang with him "Auld Lang Syne."

Professor Leslie P. Spelman and Miss Charlotte Armstrong will present an organ and violin recital over W. P. T. F. on December 18, at 8:00 o'clock.

Merry Christmas

May Christmas come bearing
More Gladness than ever;
And renew the old friendships
That time cannot sever.

★

There is nothing that compares with the joy that comes with giving

★

Visit Our Gift Department,

Third Floor

THOUSANDS OF GIFTS
THE BEST OF NEW YORK

Artificial Flowers
Silver
Glassware
China
Electric-ware
Leather-ware

Service Trays
Boudoir Lamps
Table and Floor Lamps
Make-up Boxes
Dresden Figures
Novelty Furniture

READY-TO-WEAR SECTION

Second Floor

Sweaters
Coats
Dresses
Hats

Bath Robes
Pajamas
Negligee
Dance Sets

NOTIONS

First Floor

Gloves
Hose
Hand Bags
Toilet Sets

Scarfs
Metal Jewelry
Handkerchiefs
Christmas Cards

Then Men's Neckwear, Sox, and Thousands of Timely Gifts and Toys

Hudson-Belk Co.

RALEIGH'S LARGEST DEPARTMENT STORE