WELCOME VISITORS

Each year the faculty and students look forward to the Hospitality Week-end, when the students from the high schools are their guests. Although the time this year falls on April 1st, we hope to give them a really good time—and that's "no fooling."

LITTLE THEATRE PLAY

The second production of the Little Theatre, "Milestones," will be given in the auditorium to-night.

The club produced a good play in the fall. The cast has been working for some time under the direction of Miss Ethel English, so the spring production promises to be equally as successful.

The complete success of the play, however, will depend with the attendance of the entire faculty and student body.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

The senior class play, which is to be given next Saturday night, could hardly have been better chosen. Any play of Barrie's is always popular and well received. This is particularly true of the present play, "What Every Woman Knows." By having the play early this year instead of during exam. week, the class hopes to have a large audience.

The Twig expresses the sentiments of all faculty and students in extending the deepest sympathy to the family of Genevieve Fales. As an active member of the freshman class and a member of the Glee Club Genevieve was well known at Meredith, and her death has been keenly felt.

PERHAPS YOU'VE HEARD

The encouraging news about education in North Carolina. The Senate has just passed a uniform eight months school bill with an appropriation of $16,000,000. This is even more than the governor asked for—$500,000 more in fact. And regardless of what the merchants think about it, it looks as if a sales tax of some kind will have to follow.

The Communists down in Mexico have been causing quite a bit of agitation recently on account of the appointment of Mr. Daniels as ambassador to that republic. Their objection is based on his landing American marines at Vera Cruz during the time he was Secretary of the Navy. The Communists accuse Mr. Daniels of being an imperialist.

Chancellor Hitler of Germany has ordered a boycott against the Jews effective Saturday, April the first. This boycott has produced a protest by the general public everywhere. Recently a meeting in New York City was attended by sixty thousand Jews and their sympathizers. Alfred E. Smith was one of the principal speakers who voiced his displeasure at the treatment the Jews were receiving. The Jews furnished fifty-five thousand soldiers in the German armies during the World War and have ever been loyal to the country in which they live. Albert Einstein has decided to renounce his citizenship in Germany due to the fight of the Nazis against his people.

So the newspapers say. And, incidentally, one learns a good deal about world—and home affairs from the newspaper. If you've been reading the papers, you'll know most of the important news of the day; and if you haven't, this column wouldn't help you, anyway.

UNUSUAL VARIETIES OFFERED IN MILESTONES

dramatics as a lover over Virginia Garnett, who must need be in her stocking feet, since height is playing such a big part in this drama!

In fact, we've heard this is to be more than a one ring circus—we promise there'll be at least three. Peg LeGrand shows great promise in becoming the future "America's Sweetheart" as she is the lover, husband, and—the inevitable grandfather. Of course, Cornelia Atkins uses her wiles and well known "it" in holding her lover's attentions.

All in all, we think the show is sure to be full of fun, and certainly the all star cast is worth our support. Remember! Saturday night—8:15.

TWIGLETS

Did you hear about Sophie's saying she thought she ought not to have to pay but half fare on the new bus because she wasn't sitting down (except where there were no bumps, which is half the time)?

Did you hear about the freshman who told an inquirer she supposed this must be "a finishing school" because it was nearly finishing her? Maybe that's why the epidemic of nervous breakdowns.

And then there's the biology student who thinks a blizzard is something you find in a chicken.

And perhaps Miss Johnson and Miss Brewer would be interested in learning that some people think a cataract is a trained cat.

Did you hear that a certain faculty member went to sleep in church once and woke up to a dead quiet and started to applaud?

Did you hear about the chemistry teacher who had a faculty meeting postponed because she wanted to see Greta Garbo's newest picture?

Did you know Pat ("Patrick Henry") Abernethy recently won an orator's medal for her eloquence in public speeches?

And of course you heard that Grace Lawrence suggested Sunday was no holiday for a certain one of Browning's characters because she would have to go to church.

And speaking of medals, some one is going to give Poodle Barker one for organizing a society of fellow sufferers to console each for saying un tactful things they had better left unsaid. And some one else is planning to organize a club of Baroness Munchausens to think up clever bedtime stories to entertain our poor, over worked S. G. Council every Monday night. But we can't tell you who that is, because it's a "deep, dark secret," but maybe Eliza Briggs could tell you—after the way she scared a certain freshman by saying she was on the council.

Emily Miller is thinking of opening a "style shop" she's acquired so many new clothes recently. Just get her started on the subject and see.

And while we're handing out prizes let's give the platinum brick to Dement for the champion bone.

From Other Colleges

The Dramatic Club of Converse College recently presented a three-act play, "Road to Rome," by R. E. Sherwood. This was the club's first full-length production and proved very entertaining to a large and enthusiastic audience.

Wake Forest College boasts this session of the largest enrollment ever recorded in its 99 years of history. In the body of 814 students are representatives of eighty-two North Carolina counties, nineteen states and China.

Hard times? I'll say! Why, in another week or so the President will be issuing an ultimatum declaring all people having gold-filled teeth guilty of hoarding.—The Duke Chronicle.

The students of W. C. U. N. C. who made the honor roll for the first semester were recently entertained at a tea given by the faculty. The students' parents were invited also.—The Carolinian.

W. R. Chambers, Marion attorney, will deliver the commencement address at Mars Hill College this year. Diplomas will be awarded to 141 seniors.

The average student at Agnes

Scott College spends six days a year in the infirmary. However, there are approximately fifty girls who go through the entire year without missing a day on account of sickness.

It is reported that a student at the University of Alabama flunked a course entitled "How to Study," and passed all his other subjects with an average of "B."—The Alabamian.

The students of Greensboro High School recently made $121 by selling subscriptions for the Curtis Publishing Co. This money will be divided among the publications and the student council. Good work! students!

"The only magazine in the world that comes alive" was "published" recently at Rollins College, when twenty famous authors, and men and women of affairs, contributed manuscripts "in person" to the "table of contents" of the seventh annual issue of the Rollins Animated Magazine, a feature of Founders' Week.—Rollins Sandspur.

No official excuses for cuts are now required at the University of Kansas because the maintenance cost of the absence file in the dean's office was too great.—Lehigh Brown and White.
