LITTLE THEATRE TO GIVE "IPHIGENIA IN TAURIS"

Greek Tragedy Directed By Dr. Florence M. Hoagland and Dr. Helen Price

The Little Theatre presents Iphigenia in Tauris, by Euripides, in the court this evening at 6:30 o'clock. A synopsis of the play is as follows:

When the Greek fleet was on its way to Troy it was delayed by calms at Aulis and the seer Calchas declared that it could not sail until Agamemnon sacrificed his daughter to Artemis. Years before he had vowed on one occasion that he would sacrifice to Artemis the fairest thing born in his domains that year. It was the year in which Iphigenia was born, and the vow must now be fulfilled. Iphigenia was brought to Aulis on the pretense that she was to be married to Achilles, but at the moment of sacrifice the goddess substituted a deer which was slain in her place, while Iphigenia was transported to the land of the barbarian Taurians and made a priestess. No one knows of the change, and Iphigenia is supposed to be dead. Such is the situation at the opening of the play.

The scene is laid in front of the temple of Artemis in the Taurian land. Iphigenia has had a bad dream which she interprets to mean that her brother Crestes has at some time come to the country and been sacrificed by her. She decides to pour a solemn libation to his departed spirit, accompanied by her attendant women who form the chorus. While she is within the temple Orestes and Pylades enter and examine the surroundings. They have been told by Apollo that if they carry off the statue from the temple Orestes will be freed (Please turn to page three)

Katherine Davis' Paintings On Exhibit in Parlors

The Senior Art Exhibit was held Friday afternoon in the parlors. The paintings of Katherine Davis, who is the only senior getting a diploma in Art, were displayed. DR. BERNARD C. CLAUSEN

Class Day Exercises to Be Presented in Grove

The annual class day program will be presented in the grove in the front campus at four-thirty on Saturday afternoon, on May 26.

The first feature will be the daisy chain, carried by the sophomores, who will sing the traditional "Even Class" song to their big sisters. The seniors then walk down through the daisy chain, and present a play in which is given the history of the class.

Katherine Davis, president of the senior class, presents to the school the amphitheatre which the class of '34 is giving, after which she gives the crook to Elizabeth Poplin, president of the incoming senior class, along with her cap and gown, thus leaving the symbols of seniorship to the incoming class.

The graduating class of 1933 then presents its gift to the school, its spokesman being Pat Abernethy, president of the class.

The seniors sing to their little sisters, the sophomores, who respond. After this, everyone sings the Alma Mater, and the procession makes its way back up the hill, with the seniors leading.

Athletic Trophy Awarded to Katherine Davis

At a meeting held Saturday night, May 19, the officers of the Athletic Association and the class managers for hockey and basketball unanimously chose Katherine Davis as the recipient of the All-Round Athlete Trophy for the year 1933-34.

The All-Round Athlete Trophy is a silver statuette of "Winged Victory," which is presented yearly to that girl who most nearly represents "Meredith's Ideal Athlete." In selecting the recipient of the trophy, the board considers sportsmanship, sportsman-like conduct in all college activities, service to the Athletic Association in maintaining and spreading interest in athletics, character, teamwork, loyalty to practices, attitude, and proficiency and versatility in athletics.

Katherine is the fifth Meredith student to whom this award has been given. The custom of presenting an athletic trophy each year began in the spring of 1930 at the suggestion of Miss Anderson, who was athletic coach (Please turn to page two)

Well-Known Baptist Preacher Returns for Fourth Time to Speak Here

One of the best-liked speakers ever heard at Meredith, Dr. Bernard Chancellor Clausen, of Pittsburgh, Pa., will address the graduating class Monday morning. He has spoken here at Commencement four times: in 1927, 1930, 1931, and 1932. His "texts" are taken from slang expressions and popular song hits and his presentation is unusual and impressive.

Dr. Clausen recently became pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh. Previously he held pastorates in Mt. Vernon, Hamilton, and Syracuse, New York.

He was born in Hoboken, N. J., in 1892 and resided there several years. He received his A.B. and M.A. from Colgate University; he studied at Union Theological Seminary and Syracuse University, receiving the D.D. degree from the latter in 1922. During the last two years of the war he was a chaplain of the U. S. Navy in anti-submarine service on board the U. S. S. North Carolina.

A number of books have been written by Dr. Clausen. Some of the most widely known are: "Preach It Again," "The Miracle of Me," "The Door That Has No Key," "Pen Portraits of the Prophets," "Pen Pictures of the Prophecies," "Pen Pictures on Calvary," "Pilgrim's Progress in Pagant," "The (Please turn to page two)

Senior Vespers Held in Auditorium Here

Traditional Step Singing to Take Place Sunday

Step-singing, a traditional part of Meredith's commencement exercises, will be carried out this year on a slightly different plan from that of former years.

Each class while singing its class song, will march up the steps and into formation, the senior and junior classes forming their respective numerals, and the sophomores and freshmen the letters S and F. In addition to its class song, each group will sing a selected college song.

After the senior class has marched off into the grove singing "You're the Queen of Our Hearts, Alma Mater," the remaining classes will move up the steps, signifying their advancement to the place of the class ahead of them.
