

JOINT SUMMER SCHOOLS MAKE ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Wake Forest-Meredith Summer School and the Mars Hill Summer School will begin the nine-week and six-week sessions on June 10. Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin and Dr. Charles E. Brewer, Dr. E. B. Earnshaw, and Mr. Grady S. Patterson will compose the administration board of the former, and Mr. B. Y. Tyner will be director of the latter. Mrs. Bolling, of Campbell College, will act as dean of women at Wake Forest, and Miss Valeria Maynard Schaible, of Chowan College, will serve as dean of women, in the absence of Miss Biggers, at Mars Hill.

Bulletins for both summer schools have come from the press and announce the faculty for the coming session. This year there will be no members of the Wake Forest-Meredith Summer School from Meredith, but at Mars Hill the following will represent Meredith: Miss Lena Barber, biology; Mr. E. F. Canady, mathematics; Miss Ethel Day, french; Miss Ethel English, education; Miss Ragna Ottersen, public school music; Mr. S. G. Riley, history; and Mr. B. Y. Tyner director and education.

At Wake Forest besides a good number of the Wake Forest College professors, there will be Mr. Paul S. Daniel, superintendent of City Schools of Raleigh; Mr. Edward L. Best, superintendent of schools, Franklin County; Miss Nell Hanna, instructor in music, State School for Blind; Dr. Marvin L. Skaggs, department of history, Campbell College; Dr. Rosser H. Taylor, professor of history, Furman University; Mrs. A. R. Wilson, principal, elementary schools, Durham, and Miss Velma Webb, former art student of Meredith, now teaching in Zebulon, will be instructor in art.

Among the professors who will teach at Mars Hill are: Dr. J. Allen Easley, of Wake Forest; Dr. Edwin McKoy Highsmith, of Furman University; and Dr. Burt W. Loomis, of Limestone College. Dr. Easley has secured a leave of absence for nine weeks from his duties at the church and college at Wake Forest and will be head of the religion department of the Mars Hill Division.

Director Tyner says, "The present indications are that the enrollment in the Mars Hill Division will be practically double that of the 1935 session."

The Summer School Bulletin states that students in the nine-week session generally register for three courses, totaling nine or ten hours; in the six-week session, for three courses, totaling six or seven hours. Twelve hours is the maximum allowed under any circumstances for the nine-week students and eight for the six week students. Thirty-six weeks are required in residence of those who wish to meet degree requirements in summer session.

"The Summer Law School is in its forty-first year and the academic division in its fifteenth. The Summer School which is conducted as a regular part of the college year, has given instruction to more than 6,000 students.

Twenty-five men and two young women received degrees at the close of the last session." The Mars Hill Division was started two years ago and has shown rapid progress.

Sociology-Economics

Meredith offers a major and minor in the department of economics and sociology, of which Miss Nettie Herndon is head. Courses in the principles of sociology and economics and in special problems are available. Seniors taking a major in this department have the opportunity of getting experience in the field by studying a family in or near Raleigh. Miss Herndon took her A.B. and A.M. degrees from West Virginia University, and has been a graduate student at the University of Chicago and Duke University.

English Department

The English Department is offering the following new courses during the year 1935-1936: Advanced Composition, Contemporary Drama, and Contemporary Prose Fiction. Besides the regular courses which are offered every year, a course in Wordsworth, Shelley, and Keats is being given.

The English faculty is headed by Dr. Julia H. Harris, Ph.B., A.M., Ph.D., who is assisted by Dr. Mary Lynch Johnson, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., Miss Mary Spruill, A.B., A.M., and Miss Elizabeth Foster, B.A., M.A. This department tries to give a few fundamental courses which will prepare the student for any further work she may do. Majors in English here have made good records at Wellesley, Yale, Oberlin, Duke, University of North Carolina, Columbia, and Cornell.

English Speech

Two of the most popular classes offered at Meredith are those in the fundamentals of Speaking and Reading and in Dramatic Production. Dr. Florence M. Hoagland, of the Philosophy and Psychology Department, conducts these classes. In Dramatic Production, work is done in directing, acting, stage-setting, and make-up. In the Fundamentals of Speaking and Reading, debating, after-dinner speaking and various sorts of extemporaneous speaking are taught. In this class, stress is also laid on pronunciation, enunciation, breathing and voice control.

Art Department

The Meredith Art Department is headed by Miss Ida I. Poteat with Miss Mary Paul Tillery as associate. The system of instruction in this department seeks to make the student become acquainted with the various forms of art and to stimulate an appreciation for art.

Miss Poteat is a graduate of the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts and has attended Cooper Union Art School, New York, and The School of Applied Design in Philadelphia. Miss Tillery holds a diploma in art from Meredith, has done graduate study in The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, The New York School of Fine Arts, Paris, and The Breckenridge School of Painting.

Education Department

The Education Department, headed by Mr. B. Y. Tyner offers both excellent opportunities for a thorough academic training and splendid facilities for those interested in preparing to teach in primary, grammar and high school grades. Mr. Tyner received his A.B. degree at Wake Forest College and A.M. at Columbia University, and is a graduate student of George Peabody College for Teachers. Mrs. Lillian Parker Wallace is assistant professor of education. Miss Ethel English, instructor, has an A.B. degree from Meredith and an A.M. degree from the University of N. C.

Latin and Greek

Meredith offers thorough courses for those wishing to study the classic languages. Both the Greek and Latin Departments are headed by Dr. Helen Price, who received her A.B. from Swarthmore College and Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania. Miss Carolyn Wray, of Gastonia, who received her A.B. from Meredith instructs in Latin.

Elementary courses are offered in both Latin and Greek. For courses in Roman Private Life, Roman Religion and Philosophy, and Greek Life and Thought no reading knowledge of either Greek or Latin is required.
