M. Martin Chosen To Head Classical Club

At the Classical Club meeting on May 11 the following new officers were chosen: Mary Martin, president; Virginia Lee Watson, vice president, and Frieda Culbertson, secretary-treasurer.

After the election of officers was held, several classical poems were read and a baseball game of mythological names was played. In conclusion a short talk was given by Dr. Price.

Time used to profit today will accumulate power for you tomorrow.

It is well to know; it is better to try.

Woe to the man who becomes old without becoming wise.

Strong reasons make strong actions.

The worst never overtakes those who pursue the best.

Do your work NOW. Idlers work "later."

Every man is a book if you know how to read him.

Until you try you don't know what you can't do.

A full day is often empty—when it is misused.

Going around in circles never squared accounts.

Fear is the bad habit of anticipating the worst.

Nothing in the world can take the place of patience.

Save the energy that goes into worry and put it into work.

Study of Technique and History Made of Puppetry

At 6:45 Tuesday evening, May 10, a puppet show was presented by members of the Art Education Class of Meredith College.

The class has been studying the history and technique of puppetry for the past several weeks, and made the settings, stage, costumes, and puppets. They also adopted the dialogue and operated the puppets.

The puppets in this show were first-puppets operated by the following girls: "Little Red Riding Hood," Saralee Hurrill; the wolf, Bernice Ricks; the grandmother, Beatrice Elchman, and the woodsman and children by various other members of the class. Elsie Miller wrote the adaptation of the story.

The second skit was "Little Black Sambo." This time string puppets were used and were operated by: Marjorie McFayden, Sambo; Sara Olive, Jumbo; Evelyn Williams, Mumbo. Dot Byrum, Branda McLendon, and Eloise Guy operated the tigers. Geraldine Tuttle adapted the story for the skit.

Dorothy Haywood and Margaret Lanier had charge of the staging and were assisted by the entire class.

Miss Mary Tillery, art instructor, directed the entire production.
