Vocational Guidance Work

Conferences, Bulletins Aid Students in Choosing Vocations
The vocational guidance committee is continuing work along the general lines begun with the initiation of the program during the second semester of last year.

With the cooperation of Dr. Carlyle Campbell, the committee is arranging for vocational talks during the Wednesday morning chapel periods.

Last year the committee developed a vocational guidance form which was filled out by all four classes in order to help the faculty and administration better to advise the students along vocational lines.

Another activity of the vocational guidance committee is to inform students concerning the announcements of Civil Service examinations for which they can qualify.

Last year the committee worked out with the heads of the different departments a list of the fields for which Meredith College gives special preparation.

The members of the vocational guidance committee for last year were Dr. Ellen Winton, chairman, Dr. Mary Yarborough, Dr. G. Norman Price, Miss Ethel English, and Miss Sallie B. Marks.

DAY STUDENTS INTEGRAL PART OF S. B.

By Mattie Irene Baugh

Have you noticed the improvements that have recently been made in the Day-Students' Rooms? These innovations are some of the more visual changes which have been made by the group.

Just three years ago the only organization of the non-resident students was The Town Girls' Club. This group had regular monthly meetings and occasional social gatherings.

No longer was there a Town Girls' Club; when they acquired a representative on the Student Council, the group was organized as a unit of the student body.

Because there were special problems which resident students did not have it seemed necessary for the day students to have this separate organization within the larger group.

Shown above are the newly elected campus leaders, Sarah Jackson of Mt. Airy, Baptist Student Union President; Ione Kemp Knight of Madison, Athletic Association President, and Carolyn Duke of Henderson, Student Government President.
