Student League of Women Voters

The Student League of Women Voters met Thursday, December 9, at 8:15 o'clock. In order to teach the marriage laws of North Carolina a mock wedding was held, bringing out these laws. Susie-Q, the girl around whom all the programs are based, married John Citizen. After the wedding the club had a Christmas party.

McDowell Music Club

Tuesday evening, December 7, at 8 o'clock, the McDowell Music Club held its regular meeting in the Hut. Mary Elizabeth Wrenn, program chairman, had the program centered on the folk tunes of the southern mountains. Elizabeth Teachey and Ruth Miller gave two discussions of this kind of music, and Jean Davis sang Sourwood Mountain and Green Willow, two of the folk tunes from the North Carolina and Virginia mountains. Records which included The Hangman's Tree, Ballad of Mary Hamilton, and some Christmas carols were heard.

After the meeting the club held its Christmas party. Dorothy Shealy, social chairman, and her committee provided a social hour with folk dancing and refreshments.

Education Club

The Education Club had an informal party on December 3 in the Hut, with fifteen children from the first grade of the State School for the Blind as their guests. The group sang carols, told Christmas stories, played games and was served punch and cookies.

I.R.C.

The I.R.C. held its regular meeting Thursday night, December 2, in the Hut at 6:45. The program consisted of a panel discussion followed by a general discussion led by the girls who attended the inter-racial, inter-denominational convention in Salisbury. The topic for discussion was "The Importance of the Race Problem in the Post War World" with special emphasis on India, South America, and United States. The girls leading the discussion were Marilyn Ferrill, Eleanor Lofton, Rachel Strole, and Grace Alexander. Refreshments of ginger ale and cookies were served.

Barber Science Club

The Barber Science Club held its December meeting and a Christmas party in the Hut on Thursday night, December 9. Marty Jeffreys was in charge of the program. Refreshments were served.

Colton English Club

The Colton English Club met November 26, in the Browsing Room. Lois Edinger read and summarized "The Little Prince," by Saint Exupery. This book is relatively new and is written in a charmingly simple style. The club discussed the book after the reading.

Granddaughters' Club

The Granddaughters' Club met Wednesday afternoon, December 8, in the Game Room. A Christmas program was given by senior members of the club.

HOME ECONOMICS STUDENTS' PROJECTS

Recent activities of the home economics department have included three field trips, each terminating in a meal at Miss Brewer's cabin. Of particular interest to the class in house planning and furnishing was the observation of architectural styles as seen in the residential section of Raleigh and a study of the interior of a well planned home. The foods and cookery classes concluded their study of food preservation with a tour of cold storage plants and freezer lockers, ending their tour at the Cedar Chest where they served a Victory Garden dinner featuring home-canned products.

Two groups of students have completed their stay in the Home Management Apartment. In addition to their usual problems of keeping within the budget, they have had real housekeeping experience this year in stretching points.

The Home Economics Club at its first meeting in the fall decided to divide the club into three major groups, each group having a specific function. The community service committee was to undertake various projects which would be of aid to the community. The conservation committee was to have charge of the collection of scrap materials helpful to the war effort, and the campus service committee had as its goal the improvement of various places around the campus.

The club held its last meeting in the clothing laboratory where all the members helped the community service committee with its immediate project—the making of lap robes for the wounded soldiers as specified by the Red Cross. The club enjoyed Russian tea and ginger bread served by members of the foods and cookery class. A group meets on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon to carry on this Red Cross work, and others interested, whether home economics majors or not, are urged to come and help in this important project.

Guess Who?

Contrary to popular belief, the last baby was not Betty Miller, but Charlotte Green. As a special Christmas treat, we present this three year old item. Who is she?

Phis and Astros Meet

The Astro Society held its regular meeting Monday night, December 6, in Astro Hall. Caroline Jones had charge of the program—an amateur hour. A social hour followed.

The Phi Society held its meeting Monday night, December 6. Lib McNeil gave a poem, "The Night Before Christmas," and Lois Edinger, "The Night After Christmas." Judy Bryan gave the Christmas story, Jane Watkins a song and there was a community sing of carols led by Jane Watkins and accompanied by Mary Elizabeth Wrenn. A social hour followed in which there was an impromptu debate with Olene Sinclair, Evelyn Gwaltney, Dot Turner and Evelyn Straughn taking part. Kitty Monteth had charge of the games.

Business Club Organized

Tomorrow's Business Women, the most recent organization on the campus, had its first regular meeting Friday evening, November 19, at seven o'clock in the Hut. Gertrude Mills, president of the organization, presided over the meeting. A guest speaker, Mr. Tom Brimson, former president of the Young Business Men's Club of Raleigh, brought a message on the projects that might be undertaken by the club.

Tomorrow's Business Women was organized for the purpose of encouraging high standards of efficiency and achievement, and to acquaint the members with modern progressive business organization methods, systems, materials, and equipment, with special emphasis upon the commercial life of Raleigh.

The charter members of Tomorrow's Business Women are the following junior and senior business majors: Gertrude Mills, Ruth King, Mary Susan Crump, Mildred Jenette, Margaret Duckworth, Dorcas Stanly, Rachel Baker, Mary Currin, Doniphan Gilkeson, Cornelia Griggs, Caroline Jones, Elizabeth Moore, and Hattie Ward. Dr. Estelle L. Popham, and Miss Amanda Lee Thrasher are faculty advisers for the club.

The second meeting was held on December 9, at seven o'clock, in the Browsing Room. A demonstration of hair-dressing and make-up was given by a professional beauty operator from the Carolina College of Beauty Culture.

Have a Coca-Cola = What's the good word?

. . . or how to get along with folks

Have a "Coke", says the returned soldier and his friendly gesture is understood in Newport or New Zealand, at home or in far-off places. Around the world Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the gesture of good will, saying Let's be friends.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY CAPITAL COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".
