

MOVIE REVIEW

Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer presents the most unusual picture of the year. . . . "Three Wise Fools." Enchanting little Margaret O'Brien will steal your heart in the most delightful picture you have ever seen. She stars with the year's outstanding dramatic cast including Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold, Lewis Stone, and Thomas Mitchell. "Three Wise Fools" is the delightfully different story of a little Irish colleen who walked uninvited into the lives of three crusty, old bachelors and walked off with their hearts. The amusing dialogue, realistic staging, and expert direction help make another triumph for the remarkable Miss O'Brien.

For excitement, laughs and heart-warming tenderness, see the new comedy-drama that will put a smile in your heart . . . coming soon to the Ambassador Theatre as one of the season's outstanding productions.

BSU ELECTS JORDAN

Virginia Highfill, president of the B.S.U. has announced that Louvene Jordan, a transfer from Mars Hill College has been elected second vice president of the B.S.U. to fill the place vacated by Hilda Austin Highfill who did not return to Meredith after her recent marriage.

IN THE LIBRARY

Have you been up to the library? You have? Well, do you realize just what a blessing it is? Our school has a choice selection of almost every type of book imaginable—books for reference, for relaxation, books for study, and for leisure. All of these are at your disposal. Speaking of having access to books reminds one of an excellent feature of the Meredith College Library. If you have ever been to a library that has closed stacks, you will realize what it is—yes, our library has open stacks! Each student here should realize what a blessing it is to be able to go to the stacks and get her own books. Just in case you can't find what you want, there are library assistants who can and do want to help you. You say you want to know the regulations? They really aren't complicated. The proper way to get a book is just to sign out for it—whether for use in the library or outside. If you take books off the shelves, turn them down when you replace them. Inter-library loans are requested through the librarian's office. These regulations, while simple, need to be observed. So come on up, let's use our library!

Meredith Adds Speech Dep't

Something new has been added on the Meredith College campus. A brand new department in speech and play has been added to the curriculum. The speech course, speech 23, 24 and the course in play production, or speech 25, include the study and application of the fundamentals of correct speaking and a general survey of the technicalities of play production.

Included in the speech course are the survey of proper production of speech sounds, the physiology of speech general relaxation exercises, an emphasis on the development of chest expansion and a pleasing voice, improvement of diction, assimilation of the various consonants and normal sounds, and practice of good breathing, the latter being the basis of a good speaking voice, according to Miss Hilderman, the new speech instructor. As the courses progress, reading for the projection of sounds will be practiced along the stress being put on interpretation, rhythm, and phrasing. Later on public speaking will be practiced with records being made to record progress.

In the survey of the play, an interpretation of the production will be studied from the standpoint of the director. The students will be led in mastering the technical elements by means of which the students can stage a play. Reading of various types of 1 and 3 act plays will be included with emphasis on the production of the play. There are nine enrolled in the play course and in the two sections in speech, are 12 and 15.

Phi's Win Struggle For New Members

With a count of 72 to 55, the Philaretian Society was victorious over the Astros in gaining new members. Climaxing Rush Week fun was the hilarious chapel exercise on Decision Day last Saturday. The victory for the Phi's compensated for their loss last year. New girls had been rushed strenuously during the week, and the breakfast Saturday morning gave indications of the Phi victory.

Mexican Tenor Comes To City

The same concert that is going to be heard on the stage at the Memorial Auditorium, October 18 when Tito Guizar and his Pan-American Ensemble introduce audiences here to the "Romantic Mexico of Yesterday" and "The Gay Mexico of Today," will be given at Carnegie Hall on October 12. Earlier Guizar had appeared in the great Hollywood Bowl with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra and won new acclaim.

Tito Guizar is the internationally famous tenor, star of stage, screen, concert and radio, whose voice has sold more records south of the border than any other artist with the exception of Caruso.

In his concert here he will head a distinguished company of singers, dancers and musicians all of whom are outstandingly well known in the South American countries and who have been brought to this country by Tito Guizar for the first time.

The program this year is an innovation in Latin-American entertainment. From the arias and folk songs of his native Mexico which Tito Guizar will sing to the Spanish Sinfoneta orchestra and the colorful costumes of fiesta time of the cast and the $8,000 Charro costume Tito Guizar himself will wear, every detail of the presentation will be just as the audience here might see and hear it if the concert were given in Rio, for instance, and we North Americans were vacationing down there.

Those who like Tito Guizar in the popular vein will not be disappointed either, for he sings many of the popular numbers he has made famous including

TITO GUIZAR

"Brazil" and "El Rancho Grande."

A native of Guadalajara, Mexico, Tito Guizar is a graduate of the Mexican National Conservatory and of St. Mark's Academy in Milan. He has been starred in Mexican grand opera and with the Chicago Opera Company. He often appears with famed Mexican conductor Chavez as guest soloist in those most brilliant Mexico City musical affairs that are the rage of the international set in that cosmopolitan capital.
