Plain gals take note!

Boston University News declares a beauty expert, a human relations professor, and university students of both sexes to be of the opinion that American men don't care if their women aren't beautiful, in fact, prefer them natural rather than all painted up; "brains win over beauty" is the report.

Louisburg College

From a freshman—Murmuring Meditation: I am too tired to study; so I shall write a theme for Miss Meritt.

Maroon and Gold, Elon College.

Most people look for something all day and never find it. That something they're looking for is the time they planned to use yesterday today, and the time they won't find until tomorrow when today will be yesterday and tomorrow, today.

And this:

More than 75 babies were dragged into a baby show in Florida. It was a crying shame.

FORMAL DINNER

(Continued from page one) Christmas tree will give the hint that holidays are just around the corner, and a program of special Christmas music will add to the gaiety of the occasion. The carols sung by the students as they are filled with the excitement of events to follow will also add to the prevailing spirit.

THREE GIRLS TO MARRY CHRISTMAS

During Christmas three Meredith students will be married. THE TWIG wants to wish each of them the very best of luck.

Jean Daniels and A. G. Scarborough will be married December 21 in the Tabernacle Baptist Church of Raleigh.

On December 22, Frances Hollis and Paul Wilson will be married in the First Baptist Church at Laurinburg, North Carolina.

In the First Baptist Church in Denton, North Carolina on December 19, Virginia Lee Snyder and Bob Butchart will be married.

SOCIOLOGY CLUB HEARS DR. ODUM

Dr. Howard Odum, head of the department of sociology at the University of North Carolina, spoke Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Sociology Club, to which all members of the faculty and students of Sociology were invited. Dr. Odum's topic was "What Is Sociology?"

The speaker was the guest of the Meredith sociology department and Sociology Club at dinner at the Reinlyn House preceding the meeting. Others attending were Dr. Clyde N. Parker, professor, and Misses Leslie Syron and Betty Street, instructors in Sociology, Barbara Francis and Doris Lee, club officers.

Club Sends Boxes To German Class

"My girls have to visit my school one year, beginning after the Easter holidays and ending the following March," writes Mrs. Marta Eberle, head of the German school adopted by the Meredith Home Economics Club. "These girls," she continues, "have eight cooking lessons, ten needlework, four domestic, two infant, one mathematics, one gymnastics, and one sanitation class each week." She states that equipment and supplies for these classes are very limited. Further news of conditions in Germany was received by Dorrie Atkins, freshman home economics student from Raleigh, who read a letter from a friend in Germany during the November meeting of the club.

For the November meeting of the Home Economics Club, the girls met in the clothing laboratory to pack boxes for the German class. Gifts were comprised of bags made from gay bath cloths filled with stationery, candy, combs, pads, and pencils, and individual gifts from the twenty-six girls who are corresponding with the German

EDUCATION CLUB PLAYS SANTA CLAUS

The younger girls and boys of Methodist Orphanage were entertained at a gala Christmas party on Tuesday evening in the Hut.

Each child was given a gift from the Christmas tree by Santa Claus. Games were played and refreshments were served to about thirty guests.

President Joyce Moore was in charge of the party.

students and from other members of the club.

CLUB SEES COOKING DEMONSTRATION

Marianna Morris really proved her talent on Tuesday evening when she gave a demonstration for the Home Economics Club.

Marianna very deftly created holiday sweets into attractive Christmas decorations.

"How come you're late this morning?" asked the Prof.

"I overslept," came the reply.

"What, do you sleep at home as well?" retorted the savant.—
