

STUDENTS CHOSEN FOR "WHO'S WHO"

SHERWOOD EDDYS TO HOLD FORUM TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Eddy will speak at a joint meeting of the Freeman Religion Club and the IRC this afternoon from five to six in First Jones Social Parlor. Any students who are interested may attend and join the discussion.

Mrs. Eddy, the former Louise Gates, has been working and traveling with her husband for the past few years and has been in great demand as a public speaker. She spoke in the chapel period here last Monday.

Dr. Eddy, who has traveled extensively, has served in India as national secretary of Y.M.C.A. He has worked among students of India, Japan, Korea, China, and Near East, and Russia. He is author of Revolutionary Christianity, India Awakening, The New Era in Asia and about thirty other books. His work has brought him into contact with leaders all over the world. Dr. Eddy was the chapel speaker on Wednesday.

Basketball

The long-awaited basketball season at Meredith has finally arrived. Miss Cunningham reports that more students have turned out for all practices for each of the four classes than in the years previous to this. Practices are being held every night, Monday through Thursday.

The freshmen have turned out in largest numbers for practice; the senior team is reportedly much improved, although all classes will have to play their best games in order to beat the strong juniors, who have won for the past two years. Jean Johnson is basketball manager on the A.A. Board.

Badminton

Badminton practices started recently for the tournament, held in the individual sports class to determine the winner in the sports. Ten monogram points per hour are given for practices, ten points for entering the tournament, and five points for each match won. Fifty points will be given to the tournament winner.

Riding

The Hoofprint Club started the New Year off right with a moonlight ride during the first week after return from vacation. Those taking the night

Pribbles and Prabbles

By MICKY BOWEN

You know, there are people who delight in responsibility, either from a perverted desire to feel important, or a fear of having nothing to do, or even perhaps because they feel it is everyone's duty to contribute to the life of those about them. They are often thrown into an ecstasy of work and usually do things far ahead of the time they are expected to and are very fine ones to have around. Also, there are those who do about half of what is positively required and expect a worried expression or a self-confident smile to fill in the rest or else help whomever completes the job to adjust himself to his fate. And then—there are the rest of us. What our trouble is, I don't know; but I'm sure it's more serious than any of the preceding. However, rest easy, I'm working on the problem.

Well, now that the emotional blocks are cleared, we can proceed to important things.

The speech, choir, or Meredith Liturgical group, if you prefer, is becoming quite popular, she said. We were regarded by the Canterbury Club recently and have been successful in forcing our talents on several groups here at school since Christmas.

Meredith is really being put on the map this week. Porterfield's theatre is the best of its kind in the country and I'm sure we may say the same for the Creative Rhythm Group.

You can bet your life the old leg-line will be back this week, just when it would be advisable to remain inconspicuous. Always the way, isn't it?
