University Professor Takes As Topic "Discerning the Signs of the Times"

Two juniors will be received as new members of Kappa Nu Sigma, honorary scholastic society, tonight at the annual banquet in their honor preceding the college lecture at 8:00 p.m. Dr. Arnold Nash, head of the department of religion at the University of North Carolina and James Gray, professor of history of religion, will deliver the lecture in the new auditorium on "Discerning the Signs of the Times."

Immediately following the lecture tonight a reception for the new members and the speaker will be held in the Blue Parlor, to which faculty members and members of the senior class are invited. The Kappa Nu Sigma banquet at the Woman's Club preceding the lecture will be attended by the eleven members of the society at Meredith, the sponsor, Dr. Helen Price, Dr. and Mrs. Nash, and all faculty members belonging to either Kappa Nu Sigma or Phi Beta Kappa.

The lecturer tonight was born in England and was educated at the University of Liverpool, Ripon Hall, Oxford, and the London School of Economics at the University of London. He holds graduate degrees in chemistry, philosophy, and sociology.

Career in England

From 1932 to 1935 Dr. Nash was secretary of the London Council of the British Student Movement, and after his ordination he became joint-secretary of the Church of England Council on Marriage and the Family. He lectured frequently in the United States, and, before coming to the University of North Carolina, was professor of church history in McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

Having attended the Commission of the World Council of Churches in 1946, Dr. Nash later made a tour of Europe, speaking in 1948 at the Quadrennial Conference of the British S.C.M.

Dr. Nash was editor of and contributor to "Education for Christian Marriage" in 1939 and 1940; his best known book is

Dr. Arnold Nash

The University and the Modern World, published in 1943. Along with John Dewey, Kenneth Sills, and Alexander Meiklejohn, he contributed to the symposium in "The American Scholar" in 1944 on the future of higher education in North America.

Mary Bland Josey, president of Kappa Nu Sigma, will announce the two new junior members having the highest scholastic average at the lecture. Betsy Goldston, vice-president of the society, is in charge of arrangements for the reception.

Senior members include Dot Allen, Frances Almond, Beverly Batchelor, Jennett Bramble, Betsy Goldston, Mary Bland Josey, Martha Stough, Jean Taylor, Jean Olive, Evelyn Wilson, and Nancy Walker. Members are admitted on the basis of high scholastic standing over a period of two years.

The honor society takes its name from three Greek words meaning beauty, soundmindedness, and intelligence. In the spring the society awards to the freshman having the highest scholastic standing a scholarship for the following year.

Jennett Bramble was recently elected treasurer of the organization, replacing Martha Stough, who was graduated in January. Dot Allen serves as secretary.
