

Romance Between Baker and Salad Maker Begins With Bread and Butter

By BOBBIE ADDY

Bread and butter may not sound like very romantic fare, but it was the cause of at least one romance—that of the Lang Hintons. It is quite fitting that these two foods were involved in the case because the boy of the story is now the chief baker here at Meredith.

It was on June 1, 1931, that Georgia Hinton met Lang Hinton on her way home from the store with the mentioned items. Lang was working at State College at the time, and he recognized that Georgia was new in Raleigh. At first she thought that Lang was just another boy trying to be fresh, but he soon convinced her that he was not, and that night they had their first date. Georgia claims that she knew almost as much about her husband that night as she does now after 20 years of married life. It seems that when she returned to her employer's home, that careful woman made numerous telephone calls to learn the background of the young man that Georgia had met. These calls proved that Lang was a very dependable person of good character, and so the date was approved. When asked about this date, Georgia states that, "He was so handsome that I couldn't help but have a good time. I saw him every night after that." As with all good things, that first date and the ones following were supposed to end at 11 o'clock (sound familiar girls?), but Georgia smilingly confessed that she did not always meet this deadline.

Courtship

Theirs was a case of love at first sight, and the whirlwind courtship of six months ended in marriage in December 1931. The choice was a good one however, and Georgia claims that during the years of their married life she and Lang have never had a serious argument. "He just doesn't get mad at anything, and I can't fuss at him all the time," she says. There was to have been the conventional marriage ceremony in church, but Lang, according to his wife, "... got cold feet, so we eloped." The couple were married in South Carolina on the same day that the ceremony was to have taken place in this state.

Despite the fact that Mrs. Hinton had 25 children, including one set of twins and three sets of triplets, Lang and Georgia had no ambitions to equal her record; their only son, Henry Lang, was born May 7, 1933. Like his paternal grandmother, Henry set a record of his own—100 visits to the hospital in 9 years. Now in good health, Henry is a student at the Berry O. Kelly High School and works part time at Meredith with his parents.

At present, there are four members of the Hinton family employed at the college (Mozelle Fields, Lang's sister, being the fourth), but at one time there were seven Hintons working here.

Although Lang is the chief baker, Georgia points out that her husband's specialty is, bread and rolls, and that Willie Morgan is really the cake-baker. Georgia also likes to cook, and here at school she makes the salads. We may safely presume that in the house at 611 Tower Street, Georgia Hinton is the chief cook and baker because Lang's favorite hobby, according to his wife, is sleeping.

Baptist

Georgia attends the Oberlin Baptist Church where she is active in church groups. During the years that she has done work in the church, the Meredith girls have appeared in many programs for Georgia, and this year Betty Jo Smith will sing at a meeting on the first Sunday in October. Georgia states that the girls here at Meredith are "the finest girls I have met anywhere."

The Hintons are only three of the interesting and capable people working in the Meredith kitchen. The rest of the staff includes (with their years of service) the following persons: Harry Dunston, 25 years; Ruth Beckwith, 10 years; Mary Ann Ligon, 10 years; Mozelle Fields, 5 years; Leroy Stewart, 5 years; Thomas and Lelia Smith, 5 years; Willie Morgan, 5 years; Joe Leake, 4 years; Amelia Hall, 2 years; Wesley Pope, 1 year; Thomas King, 1 year; Lottie Mae Kearney, 1 year; Wiley Rogers, new this fall.

CURTAIN UP

some very good shows lined up for this year. The first production will be "Darkness at Noon" opening on October 7. This play depicts the struggle between the people of the old communist party and those of the new party. I believe that everyone will enjoy the play. There will be four other plays during the year.

Alpha Psi Omega, the dramatics fraternity on the campus, reminds all you Little Theatre members with nearly enough points to enter Alpha Psi to work hard this fall so that you

SENIORS ELECT CLASS PRESIDENT

A Business major from Charlotte, North Carolina was elected president of the Senior Class on Friday, September 21. Dot Fisher defeated Jean Miller Sally Clark, and Peggy Poole in a close contest to command one of the most important campus offices. Other senior class officers are: vice-president, Ruth Ann Simmons; secretary, Mary Evelyn Hensley; treasurer, Lynette Adcock.

Dot has had previous experience in office holding and other campus activities. In her sophomore year she was a member of the May Court. During the past year she was transfer counselor, reporter for the Psi Chi Club, and vice-president of the Philaretian society.

This year in addition to being president of her class, Dot has membership in the Meredith Student League of Women Voters, Meredith Little Theater, Chorus, Tomorrow's Business Women, and Psi Chi Club. Dot has chosen Psychology as her field of concentration.

The Music Box

By SHELLEY MILLICAN

You can walk by the music building any time and hear anything from Bach to Boogie. (well—not quite!!!) This year there are about thirty new enthusiastic music students which, added to the old students makes a total of sixty-seven students. Among the new students are two seniors, Pat Sullivan, a voice major who transferred from Ward-Belmont, Nashville, Tennessee, and Phillis Strickland, an organ major who transferred from Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

The Raleigh Oratorio Society has issued invitations to the senior voice majors to sing with them this year. The girls began last Monday night and will continue throughout the year. At the first concert, November 18, 1951, Brahms' Requiem will be presented.

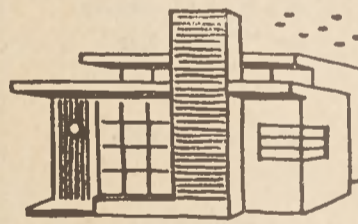

The music department is sorry to have lost two of their faculty, Mrs. Eustler and Mrs. Howerton, but they are happy to welcome into their midst two very capable instructors, Miss Janet Anderson, assistant piano and voice instructor from Minnesota, and Miss Phillis Weyer, violin instructor from Iowa. They are sure to prove excellent additions to the faculty.

Jean Miller, president of the chorus this year, came through with a wonderful idea when she decided to have a weiner roast for the chorus to start the year off right. The weiner roast was held in the hut Thursday afternoon September 27, and everyone is said to have "enjoyed themselves."

Miss Donley is well pleased with the chorus this year, which has seventy-seven members. She

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

Which of these four house styles do you like best? Cozy Cape Cod — Ranch-Type — Colonial? Or functional Modern?

Most people prefer one of the traditional styles... yet everyone wants the most modern convenience there is—electric service, built-in and available in every room, in any quantity, at any time!

It's a modern miracle that even the most modest American homes do have wired help, ready at the flick of a switch, for washing, cleaning, sewing, cooking—for refrigeration and entertainment and a host of other jobs.

Within a man's lifetime, sound, business-managed companies have electrified an entire nation. And the cost to you? About the cost of a pack of cigarettes a day! You'll admit that's a power-full bargain!
