

Trio, Orchestra, and Quartets Included in Chamber Music Series

The Raleigh Chamber Music Guild will open its program for the current season on Saturday, November 3 with the Alden Trio. In the Trio, with Thomas Nichols at the piano for an additional composition, will appear Dorothy Alden, violin; Edgar Alden, viola; and Ernst Peschel, violoncello. Diverse enough to interest every listener, their program is already in the making.

Quartets

Included also in the Chamber Music series are two very famous quartets, the Quartetto Italiano and the Hungarian Quartet which is pictured above.

The Quartetto Italiano scheduled to appear on Saturday, December 8, is made up of four young artists who interrupted successful careers as soloists to create this ensemble in 1945. Hailed by critics as the most important new musical organization since the war, the youthful quartet has appeared numerous times in England, France, Switzerland, Austria, Germany, Czechoslovakia, Holland, Spain, Portugal, and Sweden. They play entirely without notes and have recorded for both Decca and Telefunken.

The Hungarian Quartet, making its first appearance in Raleigh on Friday, February 8, is ten years older than the Quartetto Italiano. Organized in 1935 by four young Hungarian musicians, this quartet then called themselves "Nouveau Quatuor Hongrois." The four artists are Messrs. Z. Szekely, A. Moskowsky, D. Koromzay, and V. Palotai. Their rise to fame in Europe has been phenomenal; there is no part of the European continent in which the highest critical praise has not been lavished on them. The Hungarian Quartet, first coming to this country in 1949, had so great a reception that it returned in 1949 for a forty-nine concert series; and for the current season is booked solidly from coast to coast.

The final presentation in the series will be on Saturday, March 1, when the North Carolina Chamber Music Orchestra will be heard. Although the Chamber Music Orchestra was one of the favorite programs of many listeners several years ago, it was abandoned because of the cost involved in having such a large group. The orchestra has been refounded this year, especially to play some of the Brandenburg Concertos, and will be especially appreciated by those who have heard past performances of this group.

In spite of rising costs, memberships this year have not been advanced in price, but, on the contrary a greater effort than ever before has been made to bring to Raleigh a series which will be the finest ever offered. Student membership is $1.80, faculty, $3.60, and patrons, $10.00. These can be obtained at the Music Store or from any Sigma Alpha Iota member.

ties. If we take advantage of these opportunities, we will be better qualified to take our places in the world.

The North Carolina State Student Legislature will hold its Fifteenth Annual Assembly in Raleigh on November 29, 30, and December 1. I sincerely hope that many of you will be able to attend at least one of these sessions.

Sincerely,
Lynette Adcock.

Dear Editor,
A lot of us take the English courses as something we have to do, and we do only what is required of us in class. Really, there is a lot more in that field. We have a club, the Colton English Club, that provides excellent entertainment. This past Thursday Miss Mayes of our faculty read to us. Her program was excellent. For those of you who missed that, but look forward to others, I'll let you in on a secret. One month away, Dr. Poteat will read us some of his poetry. This ought to be excellent entertainment. And for those of you who don't know where we meet—the browsing room on second floor Jones is our home. Please come!

We also have book teas. Here we get a chance to talk about the books we have read and those we would like to read. If you haven't read anything, don't hesitate to come, for one can always benefit from listening.

And please don't think that you have to be an English major or an upperclassman to come. You don't even need a special invitation, because I'm inviting you all now.
Sincerely,
Pat Dula.

SURVEY OF SHOPS AND MAGAZINES REVEALS FASHION SUGGESTIONS

By CELIA WILLS

If you are planning to get some new clothes in the near future to fill the gaps you left in your wardrobe for a Christmas gift, or because of some immediate need—here are some suggestions which a survey of magazines and the nicer shops has revealed.

Winter Coat

If you haven't bought a winter coat yet, they range from poodle cloth to bright red velvetene dusters. Oxford grey flannel is the material for your new suit, trimmed in velvet if you like it dressy. And you can wear brown with the grey suit if you like—it's quite the style.

I can think of no nicer Christmas gift than a cashmere sweater—you can get them in any color of the rainbow, but natural is probably still the favorite. If you don't know just what you want Santa to bring you in the way of clothes, just tell him "anything purple," and you will be safely in style with whatever you get, whether it be a cotton blouse with corduroy collar and cuffs or a skirt and sweater in dyed-to-match wool.

chairman of rush week, and Dallas, all very sophisticated young ladies, want Liz to become a member of their sorority but are not very concerned about Becky and Ad. Casey, the misfit in the sorority, is not concerned about what anybody does. Mother Apple and Mrs. Bellows provide the motherly atmosphere for the play, while the rest of the girls represent all types to be found in any sorority.

Joe, the veteran, and Chad, the fraternity man, provide the love interest in the story. Liz is forced to decide between these two boys and to pick a sorority at the same time.

The Set

French doors will be added to the set used in last year's productions thus making a room in the sorority house. There is still a great deal of work to be done on the set to create the proper atmosphere, and anyone who helps with the work will earn points for Alpha Psi Omega.

Evening Dress

If you need an evening dress for the Germans next weekend or for the holiday parties at home, do get a short one with a strapless top and a wide bouffant skirt. If you are tall or don't dance well in high heels, you can get low-cut pumps with medium-that-look-like high heels in all colors. Informal party dresses which have a bare top and a little cover up jacket are very versatile.

Just to satisfy the urge for something new, I suggest one of the little velvet coolie hats—they're darling. Or if you want to buy just a little something for yourself, get one of the big coat-of-arms pins in gold or in colors of red, cubite, and blue.

WHAT BRINGS ME HERE?

(Used with permission of the B.S.U. Council.)

What is that force behind the fact that I am now in college?

Is it an insatiate mental thirst which lures me to this reservoir of learning?

Is it the ambition of another who, denied what is mine to have, has stinted self that through me those ambitions might be realized?

WHAT BRINGS ME HERE?

Is it disguised desire for earthly things which prompts me now to fortify my mind with knowledge that I might acquire that which "moth and rust" corrupt?

Is it a secret lust for power to control the actions of my fellowmen that I might gain through their subserviency?

WHAT BRINGS ME HERE?

Is there within my soul a motive, pristine pure, which draws me to these hallowed halls to learn more that I might serve best?

Is it a sense of mission which burns within and will not let me be content with limitations which are mine today?

Is it that Christ, my Saviour, is also Lord of all I am and hope to be, and he commands that I expand my mind and soul that I might enlarge my ministry to humanity?

WHAT BRINGS ME HERE?

Oh, Christ, whatever forces have converged to bring me to this place, this now is my conviction:

Thou hast a work for me to do . . . and in the words of one of old I cry for all the world to hear,

"Here stand I" with God within to motivate my life—
