Merry Christmas

Chorus Presents Annual Christmas Concert

Counsellors Plan Socials for Freshmen

For the purpose of "pushing back the walls of the suite and allowing more people to join in the spirit of fun and fellowship that spontaneity creates," a new committee has been formed. This committee is called the Informal Sociability Committee and is composed of a group of freshmen counsellors. Members of this committee have been concerned with planning helpful and entertaining periods of relaxation for freshmen. These informal social gatherings are held each Monday night from 10:00 to 10:45 p.m. in the social halls of the freshman dormitory.

At the beginning of this semester, questionnaires were given to new students on which they indicated the types of recreation they would enjoy. Tabulation of these questionnaires indicated that students would like to spend time learning to play bridge, to knit, to cook, and

Dean Peacock Visits High Schools

Meredith College has been represented throughout North Carolina this fall at high school College Day exercises. Dean L. A. Peacock visited R. J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem, High Point High School, Durham High School, Greensboro High School, Fayetteville High School, Charlotte High School, East Mecklenberg High School, and Concord High School. Miss Louise Fleming and Miss Mae Grimmer visited Burlington High School and John Marshall High in Richmond, Virginia.

The high schools often had special assemblies for the occasion, at which they introduced the representatives of schools all over North Carolina and surrounding states. The representatives spent most of their time talking to persons interested in their particular school. Dean Peacock said that he talked to many girls interested in Meredith, answering their questions concerning our school. He has had many more invitations to College Days, but will be unable to attend any more of them.

Meredith Students Introduce Bill in Student Legislature

By ALYCE EPLEY

Students from at least 25 different colleges and universities in North Carolina acted as representatives and senators in the sixteen session of the Student Legislative Assembly of North Carolina held in the capitol building November 20-22.

Meredith sent six delegates and three alternates to this mock legislature. The Senators were Betty Winchester, Jean Journigan, Betsy Cannady, Juanita Ipock, and Doris Knott. The delegates and alternates to the House of Representatives were Eleanor Henry, Alyce Epley, Georgeanne Joyner, and Betty Smith. As a member of the Interim Council, Eleanor Henry was in charge of registration.

The bill which was introduced by Meredith College, a bill for North Carolina to provide at the state's expense, attendance workers for the enforcement of the compulsory school attendance law, was presented in the Senate by Betty Winchester and in the House by Alyce Epley. It was passed in both houses.

ALUMNAE PICK SITE FOR HOUSE

Approximately twenty-five Meredith alumnae met in the faculty parlor on December 6, to pick a site for the proposed Alumnae House. Mrs. Zeno Martin, chairman of this committee, led the representatives from association chapters in selecting a spot west of Vann dormitory. Plans for its construction are proceeding.

The Wake County chapter of the Meredith Alumnae Association met on December 8 in the home of Dr. Campbell. At this quarterly meeting, Clairry Gouma spoke on Christmas customs in Greece.

President and Dean Attend Convention

Dean Peacock and President Campbell have just returned from the convention of the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges in Memphis, Tennessee.

Alumnae Magazine Features History of Founders' Day

The fall issue of The Alumnae Magazine, which has been sent to former Meredith students, had an unusual and interesting cover. Thirty-six members of the Granddaughters' Club were pictured in an informal pose on Johnson Hall steps. This cover opened to an array of many articles that would interest Meredith alumnae. In the issue are snapshots of campus events, a list of new faculty members, a list of 1952 graduates and their occupations, and chapter reports. Highlighting the issue is an article by Dr. Mary Lynch Johnson concerning the first ten Founders' Days held at Meredith. This short history shows the changes in times and customs of our birthday celebrations.

Phis Sponsor Fashion Show Tonight at 8

Models to Wear Party Dresses from Ellisberg's

The Philaretia Society is sponsoring a Christmas fashion show tonight at 8:00 p.m. in the Meredith College Auditorium. Ten models will wear the latest fashions — for the most part, party clothes suitable for dress-up holiday festivities — furnished by Ellisberg's of Raleigh.

In charge of the show will be Lyn Belton. Becky Calloway is in charge of the script and narration. Staging and publicity are under the direction of Anne Bruton, and Dot White is in charge of the programs. Shirley Cliatt is directing the lighting.

This fashion show will be the third in a series of projects in order to raise funds for the Phis to redecorate their hall. Previously, a Halloween tea and a square dance have been given.
