

PHIDO SAYINGS

The new officers of the Philare-tian Society are: Carolyn Belton, president; Dorothy Swisher, vice-president; Nancy Reese, secretary; Ann Cashwell, treasurer; Mary Bryan Reid, sergeant-at-arms; Jo Bond Brock, chaplain; Joanne Brown, chief marshal; Bootsie Renfro, senior marshal; Jane Spence, junior marshal; Pat Helmick, sophomore marshal.

The officers have begun plans for next year's programs, particularly for Rush Week. Pictures to be sent to new students were made recently.

Betty Winchester Attends Teachers' Meet

Betty Winchester represented Meredith College at a Student Teacher's Meet in Durham on April 10. The meeting was made up of representatives from every school in the state that trains teachers and each school in which students do their student-teaching. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss problems in the area of student-teaching. The program of the meet consisted of three panel discussions which brought these problems and offered possible solutions. The first panel was made up of individuals from college education departments, the second of public school superintendents, and the third of student teachers. Betty took part in this last discussion. She states that many difficulties were ironed out and a great deal was accomplished in the meeting.

MEREDITH ALUMNAE MEET

The Granddaughters Club helped with the registration and conducted an all-day nursery for children of the alumnae.

STAR GAZINGS

The evening of entertainment sponsored by the Astro Society was a big success. The theme for the evening was a French Night Club. Ann Seagrove, Ann McGougan, Ruth Cole and Sally Smith furnished the decorations of candle-lit tables, arrangements of greens, and a backdrop of a French scene. Ann Ipock was in charge of the food which consisted of assorted sandwiches and punch. The Parisian waitresses for the affair were selected by Pat Lofton. Mary Cobb Dickens was entertainment manager. The entertainment consisted of songs — "I'm in the Mood for Love," "Mamselle," "Laura," and "April in Paris,"— sung by Phoebe Barnhardt, Kay McCosley, Margie Thor and Frances Carr while Susie Rucker accompanied them at the piano. Becky Barnhardt, the chairman of the committees, was the hostess. The admission was ten cents per person. There were also French menus which added a touch of the "oo, lah, lah" of the French.

The new officers for next year are: Betty Lane, president; Mimi Royster, vice-president; Mickey Kimbrell, secretary; and Kay McCosley, treasurer. The new marshals are: Lib Crenshaw, chief marshal; Shirley Graham, senior marshal; Carolyn Riddick, junior marshal; and Pat Riley, sophomore marshal.

State Convention of International Relations Club Met Here April 18

"The Student Faces World Tensions" was the theme of the tenth annual state convention of International Relations Clubs held at Meredith, April 18. Following registration in the lobby of the auditorium, the convention was informally welcomed by Barbe White, president of the Meredith I.R.C., and formally welcomed by Dr. Carlyle Campbell, president of the college. Knut Heise, president of N.C.I.R.C., gave opening remarks and announcements, after which the convention was adjourned for lunch, at which time many of the delegates made a tour of the campus and the city. During the afternoon session a movie, Boundary Lines, was shown as a springboard for the discussion period following. The discussion group, "The Foreign Student Looks at the U.S.A.," was led by George Gazmararian, a student at Warren Wilson, from Palestine; "Problems of Imperialism," led by Kitty Barbe-henn of Meredith; "World Racial Conflicts," led by Sonnya Hamilton of Meredith; and "Strengthening the N.C.I.R.C.," led by Knut Heise. The purpose of these groups was to make objective criticisms of problems facing the student of today and to outline ways by which he can meet these problems as a constructive citizen of the world. Following reports and evaluations of the group discussions, the convention added an amendment to the Constitution concerning the financing of the convention. Adjourning until supper, the groups were given an opportunity to become better acquainted and to discuss the activities of their clubs during the year. A picnic supper in the Hut was followed by informal reports of individual club activities. All clubs indicated their scope of activities as they reported contributing to the European Flood Relief, the sending of groups to national seminars, the bringing of speakers and movies to their campuses, the holding of joint meetings with other related clubs, and the participation of foreign students in the activities of the clubs. The election of officers for the coming year was held at this time. Barbe White, of Meredith, was elected new president of N.C.I.R.C., and Jim MacJunkins, of Western Carolina Teachers College, vice-president.

The convention was concluded by a stimulating address by Mr. R. Mayne Albright, a prominent citizen of North Carolina. Mr. Albright reminded the convention that students must set their goals high, and always keep in mind the idea of one world, for every step in international relations is a step toward unity, peace, and prosperity.

MEREDITH IS HOST TO HOME EC TEACHERS

On April 16 and 17, Meredith was hostess to a meeting of the home economics teachers of the Baptist colleges in North Carolina.

Guest speakers for the occasion were alumnae who told of the work in which they are engaged. They were Mrs. Jolene Weathers Edwards, head of the Home Economics Department at Hugh Morson High School; Mrs. Betsy Jordan Goldston, assistant home demonstration agent in Wayne County; and Mrs. Albertine Roger Hooks, homemaker and former assistant dietician at Rex Hospital. Ann Partin, a senior, also spoke on the future in home economics from a college student's view point.

MODEL UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY PLANNED

Chapel Hill—Want to increase your knowledge of international affairs? You can do this by coming to the Model UN General Assembly slated for May 1 and 2 in Memorial Hall on the UNC campus.

Sponsored by the UN Committee of the University YMCA, the Model Assembly is being held to give participants and observers a better understanding of the functions and structure of the United Nations. Carolina students representing dormitories, fraternities, sororities, and campus organizations will act as delegates from each of the 60 UN member nations. Each nation will be represented by four or more delegates.

The opening session of the Model Assembly will begin at 2:30 Friday afternoon, May 1. During the first plenary session, an Assembly president will be elected.
