

JUNIORS ENTERTAIN FRESHMEN SISTERS

The Junior Class gave their little sisters, the Freshman Class, a party Friday, Oct. 16, in Society Hall. The fun centered around the Halloween theme.

Mary Alice Simmons and her committee decorated the room with lighted jack-a-lanterns, huge spider webs in the corners, and orange and black crepe paper hangings at the door.

The entertainment, planned by Susie Rucker, was led variously by Ellen Moore, Ruth Jeanne Allen, Effie Sneed and Carolyn Riddick. There was special music by Frances Carr and a story, with group participation, told by Mr. Wendt.

Peggy Bennett planned the refreshments of apples, coffee and doughnuts.

Other committee chairmen were Ernestine Cottrell, in charge of invitations and Earline Martin in charge of clean-up.

DR. TILLEY IS DELEGATE TO ALTRUSA MEETING

Dr. Ethel Tilley was a delegate of the Raleigh Altrusa Club to the Second District Conference of Altrusa International held at Greenville, South Carolina, October 15-17. Representing North Carolina, she carried the North Carolina flag in the flag ceremony and made a two-minute speech.

Altrusa is the oldest of the women's service clubs in the country, its membership being composed of women in executive positions. The Second District Conference is comprised of Virginia, the District of Columbia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

A Meredith alumna, Clarissa Poteat, sister of Dr. E. McNeil Poteat, gave the Atlanta report. The president of Altrusa International, whose residence is in St. Louis, Missouri, attended the conference as a guest speaker.

"TWIG" EDITOR REPORTS

Perhaps the most interesting of these contacts was with the editor of the Berea College paper, Nan Hendricks. She is the girl who was featured in a Life article last October, though Lorette didn't realize this fact until the two of them had had dinner and spent the night together.

Represented at the convention were 159 colleges and universities in 36 states. The total number of delegates was approximately 530.

The climax of the conference was the banquet speech by Eddie Gilmore, an Associated Press Correspondent, who had very recently returned from Russia. His power as a speaker is evidenced by the fact that the delegates were most reluctant to adjourn the banquet for the dance which followed.

Psychology Students Visit Graphologist, Palmist at Fair

Approximately thirteen advanced psychology students and Miss Tilley of the psychology department visited a graphologist and palmist at State Fair with a group of State College psychology students and their professor Dr. Barkley, on October 23.

Several girls had their hand writing analyzed and their palms read. The general conclusion of the group was that such readers are quacks.

Yale Releases Report On College Drinking

College students drink, all right, but nowhere near as much as has been supposed. That's the conclusion of a 214-page report just published by two Yale professors who've spent the last five years studying the drinking habits of nearly 16,000 students of 27 representative United States colleges.

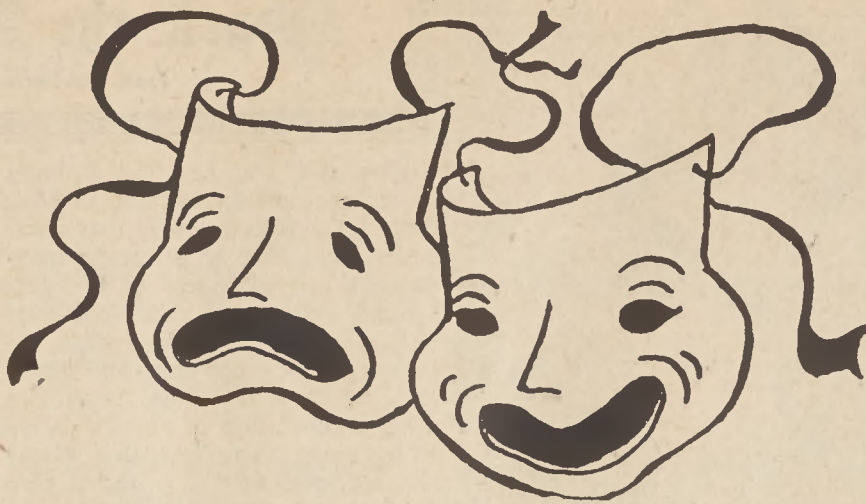

Seventy-four per cent of the nation's students admitted taking a nip every now and then, but more than 90 per cent proved to be very moderate imbibers. Students at "dry" colleges which outlaw alcohol ran up an average drinking score only six per cent below the national average, and they demonstrated that when they do drink, they get drunker than students at "wet" colleges.

The report also said students at women's colleges drink more than women at coeducational institutions. Most common reason given by the women for their drinking habit was that it helped them get along better on dates.

Miss Baity's Mother Continues Very Ill

Mrs. Baity, mother of Miss Hazel Baity, Meredith librarian, remains critically ill at her home in Mocksville. Mrs. Baity, who is 82 years of age, suffered a stroke in May and was a patient at City Hospital in Winston-Salem during the summer. Miss Baity has been absent from the Meredith library most of this semester because of her mother's illness.

BACK STAGE WITH SHEL

In case you've been wondering why a group of girls scurried to the auditorium every night about seven o'clock, I'll let you backstage for a minute. It's the practicing cast of our fall play, Shakespeare's As You Like It. From now until opening night plots are thickening behind the footlights. Members of the cast and their parts are: Duke, in banishment, Sonya Hamilton; Frederick the usurper, Dorothy Hampton; Jaques, lord attending banished duke, Ann Cashwell; first lord, Janette Huneycutt; second lord, Rovilla Meyers; two pages, Shirley Newton and Dorcas Hatcher; Le Beau, Joyce Bailey; Charles, the wrestler, Jeanne Grealish; Oliver, Kitty Brown; Jaques, Peggy Smith; Orlando, Bennie Farquharson;

Adam, servant to Oliver, Delores da Parma; Dennis, servant to Oliver, Mary Edna Grimes; Touchstone, Jean Pace; Sir Oliver Martext, Kay McCosley; Corin, Pat Eberhart; Silviris, Barbara Stanly; William, Catherine Atkins; Rosalind, Margaret Tucker; Celia, Emily Newman; Phebe, Edith Johnson; Audrey, Kitty Waynick.

Ruth Barnes is serving as assistant director and Betty Ball as business manager. Here's wishing them all good luck and a full house on opening night.

Hope you are going to help fill the house on November the sixth when the Barter Theater presents Ah! Wilderness.

"What's the good word backstage anyway?" you ask. It's this, "See ya' at the play!"

Captain Danger Wins In Reidsville Show; Campus Beauty Places

Captain Danger, one of the most prized horses in Meredith Stables, recently won the Ladies' Harness class division in a Reidsville horse show. The fine bay horse was driven by Miss Mary McKay, riding instructor at Meredith.

Captain Danger also placed third in the Fine Harness Championship Stake of the same show.

Campus Beauty, another Meredith horse placed second in the Juvenile Three-gaited division of the Reidsville show. Bertha Johnson, a town student, was rider.

Ah, Wilderness! O'Neill's only comedy, is filled with sentiment and good feeling. Written about home life in 1906, it tells a tale of rebellious adolescence and tremulous young love. The cast includes a spinster aunt and a tipsy uncle which add a gay lift to the production.

The Barter Theater production here on February 24 will be Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona.
