

Vocational Interest Week Held Here, April 13-20

Vocational Interest Week, which began April 13 and ended today, April 20, was opened last Friday at a general session in the auditorium by Dr. Neill A. Rosser, who spoke on "Choosing a Vocation."

This week was designed to help all the students choose a vocation suited to their interests and abilities and was set up so that the students could hear one speaker each day from 10:20 until 11:05. Throughout the week the faculty was available for group and individual conferences.

The following groups met during the week:

Monday, April 16 — Art — Designing, Interior Decoration, Teaching, Commercial Art and Art for Culture. Education — Kindergarten, Primary Education, Elementary and High School Teaching. English — Radio, Television and Journalism.

Tuesday, April 17 — Home

Economics — Dietetics, Teaching, Clothing, Home Demonstration, and Interior Decoration. Religion — Missionary Work, Religious Education, Religious Music Work. Foreign Language.

Wednesday, April 18 — Music — Teaching and Public School Music. Mathematics — Statistics and Teaching. Sociology — Social Work, Recreation, and Civil Service.

Thursday, April 19 — Business — Secretarial, Accounting, Retailing, Buying, Advertising, and Teaching. Physical Education — Therapy and Recreation. History — Archives, Teaching, and Government Service.

Friday, April 20 — Armed Services. Psychology — Clinical, Psychiatric Work, and Personnel Work. Science — Laboratory and Medical Technicians and research. Library Work.

Crowning of Grimes and Reveley Highlights Play Day Activities

"You bet I can stand on my head!—longer than you, I'm sure!" (This contest is typical of those taking place yesterday.)

Mary Edna Grimes and Dr. David Reveley were crowned Duchess and Duke, respectively, of the annual Faculty-Student Play Day, which was held yesterday, April 19, in the court and on the athletic field.

The crowning which took place at 2:00 p.m. on the dining hall steps opened the day's activities. Next, members of each dorm, the faculty, and the day students competed in the best cheer and best song contest which preceded the volleyball game.

During the afternoon, individual and group challenges were played off with the softball game concluding the matches.

A picnic supper in the court was followed by the potato and sack relay races and announcement of winners in all events of the day.

After the day's release from stress and strain (books, lab, practicing, etc.), everyone returned to her studies with memories of the day and happily anticipating next year's Play Day.

STUDENTS ATTEND CONVENTIONS

Glenda Eddins has returned from Mississippi State College for Women in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, where she represented Meredith at a conference of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments. The meeting was held April 12-14. The S.I.A.S.G. is composed of Southern girls' schools and Meredith is a member. This is the meeting for which the planning conference was held on Meredith campus this past fall.

The National Student Association Carolinas-Virginia Regional Conference is being held at North Carolina State College April 19-21. Meredith is not a member of this group but will send Anita Hiatt, Glenda Eddins, Shirley Strother, JoAnn Selley and Faye Wheeler as delegates. Others are planning to sit in on the discussion groups. The theme for the conference is "Campus Problems and the Student's Role in These Problems."

Mary Jo Pinner and Lenora Nye were Meredith's representatives at the NCEA meeting in Asheville, March 22-24.

They attended general meetings and F.T.A. meetings which presented a panel on problems in student teaching and how to solve these problems. They also attended the F.T.A. banquet and the square dance after the general session on Friday night.

In addition to hearing many good speeches concerning education, Mary Jo and Lenora enjoyed the beautiful mountain scenery!

Plans Made For Hospitality Weekend

Along with preparations for Meredith's May Day celebration have come those for her annual Hospitality Weekend, May 5-6, for which time high school seniors interested in attending Meredith next year have been invited to be guests of the college. Most of these girls will arrive and register Saturday morning, and they will be entertained by a horse show early in the afternoon, in which the college equitation students will perform, followed by the traditional May Day ceremony. The Meredith College Chorus will present its annual spring concert that night, after which the student government is planning an open house honoring the prospective Meredith students.

The visiting girls will be accompanied the next morning by their hostesses for the weekend to the churches of their choice.

As the month of May draws closer, everybody is thinking about the big annual event. The high school students who will be our guests on that weekend will form an integral part in helping us celebrate May Day.

Meredith Graduate To Appear in Play

Becky Calloway, who was president of the student government at Meredith College last year, will appear in the Raleigh Little Theatre's new comedy, The Fifth Season, April 27 - May 4.

The play by Sylvia Regan centers around the wholesale dress firm of Goodwin-Pincus. Menasha Skulnik and Richard Whorf were seen in the Broadway version in 1953.

Miss Calloway will take the role of Miriam, a young but very understanding bookkeeper. Off stage, she is employed as a copy supervisor for Radio Station WPTF.

For the first time in the history of the United States, the number of students registered in American colleges and universities will pass the 3,000,000 mark this year, according to the commissioner for education.

Neptune's Court Is Theme of Annual Junior-Senior Banquet

Guests at the head table busily engaged in conversation at the Junior-Senior Banquet.

Wide-eyed freshmen watched from their windows as upperclassmen and their dates walked through the court to the Junior-Senior Banquet last Saturday night, April 14. A sign above the dining hall door welcomed them to "Neptune's Court." Big green sea horses and various other forms of underwater life were placed all about, and octopi (you call them octopuses?) — pink ones, red ones, green ones, and blue ones — graced the tables. Each Meredith mermaid received a red rose corsage and each boy a matching boutonniere.

Junior Class President Faye Wheeler gave a toast to the seniors and Senior Class President Charlene Smith responded. Nancy Young welcomed the dates and Bobby Noel gave the response for the dates. The invocation was given by Dr. Campbell.

The Statesmen of N. C. State College furnished music during the dinner. A scene from Neptune's Court
