

Playhouse Entertains New Students On Stage

New students were entertained by the Playhouse at the annual On-Stage Party on Tuesday, September 24. Miss Peg Gorsage, sponsor of the Playhouse, and Katie Joyce Eddins, president, greeted the neophytes on the stage of Jones Auditorium and introduced the officers of the drama group:

Vice-President: Pat Maynard.
Secretary: Betty Ann Chandler.
Treasurer: Susan Moss.
Social chairman Fay Chandler of Apex, Belinda Foy of Bradenton, Florida, and Sue Matzner, South Boston, Virginia, delighted the guests and hostesses with Drury Lane doughnuts and Palace punch. After a game of impromptu skits, tryouts were held for the fall production, "The Silver Cord" by Sidney Howard.

Day Students Welcome Thirty-five

Laughter and noise slowly on second-floor Johnson Hall mark the beginning of the new year for day students. With Katherine Hudgins as president, Edna Hollman as vice-president and Catherine Fontaine as 2nd vice-president, they are looking forward to a year of study and fun.

New faces were in evidence as nine freshmen and twenty-six transfers were welcomed to the group. Plans are now being made for a get-acquainted party, a wiener roast in the hut. Entertainment is being planned by the new students.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

ing. The board also adopted the budget under which the college is to operate this year. Twenty-four of the twenty-eight board members were at the meeting. Also attending was Mr. Robert G. Deyton, newly-appointed vice-president and director of public relations. Mr. Deyton assumed his duties here on October 1.

The recommendation concerning dancing adopted by the board reads as follows: 1. That no permanent procedure as to the matter of dancing to be established at this time. 2. That the action taken last year (permitting informal dancing and dancing as a part of the entertainment program at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet, under faculty supervision) continue in force for the current year, permitting the Executive Committee to make such modification of this action as it may later feel appropriate. 3. That a special committee be appointed to have a conference with Dr. M. A. Huggins, and the Executive Committee of the General Board if possible, to explain the action of the board in this matter.

FRESHMEN NOMINATE OFFICERS

The freshmen have made nominations for their class officers, Betty Ann Hudgins has announced. Elections are to be held on Tuesday, October 8.

Nominees for president are Elizabeth Ann Brown, Jenny Lou Taylor, and Helen White. Elizabeth Ann is from Jacksonville and held positions in her high school of president of the student body and glee club accompanist. She was elected Most Outstanding Senior. Jenny Lou, from Deep Run, was valedictorian, annual editor, delegate to the national FHA convention, and winner of the D.A.R. award. Helen, from Greensboro, held offices including student council representative, president of the orchestra, and member of the All-State Orchestra.

Running for vice-president is Bette Liles, Ann Stallings, and Barbara Lee Wenberg. Bette, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, was an honor roll student and a member of the annual staff and SAA. Ann, from Smithfield, was a marshal, a class officer, a member of the annual staff, and a superlative. Barbara Lee, from Wilmington, served as a member of the student government and annual staff. She was also a cheerleader and a class officer.

Those girls nominated for freshman representative to the student government are Ann Covington, Celia Daniel, and Jean Primm. Ann, who is from Wadesboro, received honors as valedictorian, winner of the Voice of Democracy contest, winner of the Woodmen of the World History award, and a delegate to S I P A. She also served as co-editor of the yearbook. Celia, from Snow Hill, worked as vice-president of the student council, county Beta Club president, marshal, and representative to the N. C. Student Council Congress. She was the winner of the scholastic medal. Jean, coming from Sanford, was a member of the student council, a participant in the glee club, a delegate to Girls' State, and a cheerleader. She also worked on a public service radio program.

Those girls who have been nominated for secretary of the class include Harriet Hafer from Hickory, Kathleen Simmons from Mt. Airy, and Patricia Watson, who hails from Franklinton. According to their high school record of extra-curricular activities, these students also proved to be prominent.

Nominees for treasurer are Sara Sue Bowers from Knightdale, Gail Brinn from Sanford, and Ann Britt from Snow Hill. There is a long list of activities after these girls' names.

Pictures and detailed accounts of the positions the nominees held in high school are to be posted in Johnson Hall. It is suggested that all freshmen consider the qualifications of each candidate before they vote.

a leader in church and civic organizations. He was chairman of the board of deacons at Hayes Barton Baptist Church, president of the board of directors at the local YMCA, and chairman of the executive committee of the Meredith board of trustees. In praise of Mr. Deyton, Dr. Tribble, president of Wake Forest College, says, "He came to Wake Forest when we were at a crucial point in beginning our construction program. We needed a man of outstanding ability and experience to direct all phases of the new campus construction. . . I congratulate Meredith on securing his services and rejoice in the promise of continuing fellowship with him in the cause of Baptist higher education in North Carolina."

MRS. SMITH PLANS EUROPEAN TOUR

Like a tour of Europe? Then you would be interested to know that Mrs. MaBelle Smith, assistant dean of students, is organizing a tour which she will accompany to Europe next summer.

The 58- to 60-day tour (including steamship crossing) will start from New York early in the summer. A trained escort will accompany the group all the way to help with traveling and language difficulties. The tour now being considered includes stops in France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Holland, England, Scotland, and Monaco.

Naturally, the group will visit the most famous places — Paris, Rome, Naples, and London. Also on the list are Heidelberg, a trip on the Rhine, the mountains of Switzerland, and the canals of Venice and Amsterdam. "We are especially excited," says Mrs. Smith, "over the fact that tickets are included in the price of the tour for opera or follies in Paris, open-air opera in Rome, the William Tell Folk Play at Interlaken, and a Shakespearean play at Stratford-on-Avon." There will also be an opportunity to buy tickets and attend the Edinburgh Festival and a Wagnerian opera at Bayreuth. Art students will be interested to know that a special guide will take the group through the galleries and cathedrals in Paris, Florence, Milan, Rome, and London.

When the announcement of the dates for sailing arrives, Mrs. Smith will call a meeting of those interested to decide upon the most suitable dates. In the meantime, outside of office hours, she will be glad to talk with those interested in the trip.

Watch the bulletin board for further notices.

TWIG STAFF HOLDS PICNIC

Journalism and hamburgers were found to mix quite well when the TWIG staff got together for a hamburger try at the chimney on Wednesday, September 25. Dr. Norma Rose, staff adviser, presided at the grill and handed out the juicy patties as fast as the would-be journalists came with their open buns. For a while the hungry staffers munched in comparative silence, but then Peanut began pinning things to their backs and started a ruckus. Each one had to find out which newspaper, magazine, or columnist's name was on her back. Dr. Rose took the prize when in two tries she guessed that hers was the magazine Confidential. Next came a spelling bee and a hilarious game of making headlines from fragments of other headlines. A grand time was had by all, and the year seemed to promise a TWIG staff that would work together for the best paper ever.
