Five Teams To Compete at Annual Corn Huskin'

Campus Prepares For Corn Huskin'

Tonight, October 31, Meredith College will observe its thirteenth annual Corn Huskin' Bee. Sponsored by the Athletic Association, this program originated in 1945 from an idea suggested by Miss Doris Peterson, head of the department of physical education at that time.

Corn Huskin' really begins with a special supper in the dining hall, to which Dr. and Mrs. Campbell, Dean and Mrs. Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. Belcher, and the judges have been invited. After the welcome has been given by Bobbie Conley Carpenter, social chairman of the A.A., entertainment will be presented.

After the dining hall program is over, students, faculty, and friends move to the gym. Everyone is supposed to come dressed in some appropriate costume, and points will be given for the most original costume. The four classes and the faculty will be competing in five contests besides costumes; these contests will begin after a period of group singing.

New Contest Added

Hoola-hooping has been added to the list of contests this year, and pie-eating and cow-milking have been dropped. Other contests include hog-calling, sing-song, tall tales, and the corn-husking itself. After the contests are completed, there will be another period of entertainment while the judges decide on a winner. This winner will be determined by the number of points gained in each contest.

Judges Chosen by AA

The General Steering Committee for Corn Huskin' are Bobbie Carpenter, chairman; Carolyn Barrington; and Mrs. W. K. Massey, supervisor. Carolyn Barrington also directs the contests; Anna Fay Jackson is in charge of decorations; Jane Manning is the invitation and program chairman; Mariana Proctor has publicity and photography; Jenny Lou Taylor heads the refreshment committee; Kathleen Simmons

Expansion Goal Set

The Meredith College board of trustees has announced a long-range $5,000,000 expansion program. The program will include the construction of new buildings and renovation of the present plant. Also, an increase in the endowment of the college is planned.

Proposed new buildings will include a library, dormitory, student activities center, science building (now under construction), heating plant and warehouse, infirmary, gymnasium, and home economics building.

In line with the renovation of existing buildings, dining accommodations will be enlarged and improved. Alterations in Johnson Hall, the administration building, will provide for additional classroom space.

The increased endowment will provide for additional faculty and staff members. Salaries of faculty and staff and operating expenses will be increased. Dr. Carlyle Campbell, president of the college, has said that Meredith's high scholastic standing depends upon her faculty. The increase in endowment will enable Meredith to continue to maintain her present standard, one of the highest in the South.

The expansion of campus facilities will continue the work begun with the building of Jones Auditorium and Joyner Hall. This past summer the work was continued with renovation of the ground floor of Johnson Hall, an enlarged student supply store, and a new post office.

FOUNDERS' DAY CELEBRATED

Dr. John Marsh

DR. JOHN MARSH WAS SPEAKER

Dr. John Marsh, principal of Mansfield College in Oxford, England, was speaker for the Meredith College Founders' Day program held Thursday morning, October 30, in Jones Hall. The program marked the beginning of the college's sixtieth year.

Dr. Marsh who holds degrees from Edinburgh University and from Oxford University, is considered by many one of the leading theologians living today. Among other positions he has been lecturer, tutor and chaplain, and professor, at Mansfield College. He has also served as lecturer at Westhill Training College, as professor of Christian Theology at the University of Nottingham, and as visiting lecturer at Union Theological Seminary in New York, as well as on various committees and commissions of the World Council of Churches. Some of his publications include The Living God, Congregationalism Today, and The Fullness of Time.

Educated at Skinner's School, Tunbridge Wells, at Yorkshire College and the University of Marburg in Germany, Dr. Marsh was also Prizeman and Scholar at Edinburgh and received his master's degree with first class honors in philosophy there and another master's degree and his Ph.D. at Oxford. On October 27-29, he delivered the James A. Gray Lecture in York Chapel of the Duke University Divinity School.

RECEPTION HELD

Other Founders' Day events included an informal reception given by the trustees and faculty in the college parlors in Johnson Hall. The Committee on Social Functions composed of Dean Louise Fleming, Miss Ellen Brewer, Miss Mae Grimmer, Miss Jennie M. Hanyen, Mrs. Bobbie Hunter, Mrs. Vera Tart Marsh and Mrs. Tom Waters was in charge of the afternoon reception.

The Founders' Day Program has become an annual event and friends of the college are invited to attend.

EUROPEAN TOUR PLANNED

Mrs. MaBelle Smith, assistant dean of students, is interested in taking a group of students on a European tour next summer. If enough girls sign up for this trip, the group can select its own tour; a small group will join a tour from the University of Kentucky or from Cornell. In order for Mrs. Smith to arrange such a tour, it is necessary for all interested students to discuss the proposed trip with her as soon as possible. The initial payment must be made by January 1.

Mrs. Smith toured eleven European countries last summer by bus. Her group traveled with a conductor-guide and found it very helpful to have the same guide for the entire trip. Traveling by bus gave the group the opportunity to take various side trips which would not have been possible by train. Thus Mrs. Smith recommends the same type of tour for the student group.
