

Athletic Association News

Volleyball season has gotten well underway, and plans are being made for a class tournament which is to begin soon. There is already keen competition between the classes — especially between the sophomores and the seniors. Each team welcomes support at practice games as well as tournament games so come out and support your class either as a player or as a spectator.

Ball Boy Purchased

Good news comes from the physical education department for tennis players. The department has recently purchased a ball boy to be placed at the tennis courts. This machine will toss balls across the net — thus making an excellent partner for stroke practice. Maybe B.B. will develop some pro players for us.

Allens Welcome Baby Boy

Another addition to the physical education family is an Allen boy by the name of Ross. He tosses baby food now, but at the rate he is growing he'll soon be tossing footballs. Next time you see Mrs. Allen stop her and ask about Ross — she just might happen to have a picture handy to show you.

Coming soon, C.H.B.

Colton English Club To Discuss Drama

This year the Colton English club has planned a series of programs centered in American drama. The next meeting, to be held October 20, will feature the works of Eugene O'Neill.

Movie Scheduled

The club will sponsor in Joyner Hall on October 15 "Chaucer's England," a thirty-minute motion picture in color. There will be two showings of the film, at 5:00 and 7:00 p.m.

On October 16 and 17 Meredith will be host to the English professors from the six other North Carolina Baptist colleges — Campbell, Chowan, Gardner-Webb, Mars Hill, Wake Forest, and Wingate.

College Representatives Attend Defense Meeting

Mrs. Vera Tart Marsh and Mrs. Edna Hurst attended the Raleigh-Wake County Civil Defense Council luncheon at Scandia Village on Thursday, September 24, 1959. Mrs. Marsh is the official representative from Meredith College on the council. She also is chaplain for the organization and for a number of years has been listed on the Civil Defense Speaker's Bureau. Mrs. Hurst is the associate representative from the institution and also represents the Business and Professional Women's Club of Raleigh.

The program was conducted by state officials of the organization under the leadership of Colonel David L. Hardec, after which plans for the year were formulated.

IMPROVEMENTS NOTED

The campus drives and parking areas have been paved, and asphalt has been put on the drive to Hillsboro. Additional areas for loading have been added behind Stringfield, and additional sidewalks have been added to last spring's improvements.

Aside from such specific projects, the college followed its usual summer policy of repainting and repair work in the dorms and in the administrative building.

ORIENTATION WEEK FILLED WITH ACTIVITY

Hot, tired daddys going up and down stairs; shouts of "where am I going to put all these things?" and sniffled farewells to loved ones could be heard all over the campus as the new girls arrived on Wednesday, September 9, to begin their school days at Meredith.

Yes, their school days began with a well-filled Orientation Week. As a kick-off, a "Get Acquainted" picnic was sponsored by the Athletic Association on Wednesday night. Later in the evening, the "new girls" were visited by the upper-classmen who were to serve as their group guides throughout the week.

President Campbell Speaks

Orientation got into full swing on Thursday morning when Dr. Carlyle Campbell, president of the college, conducted convocation in Jones Auditorium. Throughout the week the freshmen and transfer students were given tests, student government training, guidance, health orientation, and library training. The new students were also presented to the college officials at a formal reception. The Big Wheel party, hall parties, and a bus tour of Raleigh were among several of the week's highlights.

The purpose of Orientation Week on the Meredith campus is to help acquaint all the "new girls" with Meredith and the Meredith traditions.

CIVIC MUSIC DRIVE HELD

The Raleigh Civic Music Association has again sponsored a campus drive for student memberships. The Association, now in its thirtieth year and one of the oldest organizations of its kind in the Southeast, will present the following artists during the 1959-1960 season: Robert Casadesu; the Pittsburgh Orchestra, with William Steinberg as conductor; the American Ballet Theatre; and Eleanor Steber, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera.

Membership cards will be distributed at the alumnae house when the drive has been completed.

Buying at Burton's

Autumn is here; school spirit is at its peak; and football fever is in the air. When I anticipate those festive occasions, my mind immediately wanders to what would be the most appropriate outfit for the event. I decided that for the first big game of the year I would have to have a new fall outfit; so my next stop was Burton's. My eye was caught by a stylish brown shirt-waist winter cotton of the popular paisley print with the new rope stretch belt. This is the perfect outfit for these Saturday afternoon games while the weather is in its Indian Summer stage. To go with the brown cotton, I found in Burton's shoe department truffle beige lizard heels with a large matching handbag.

When the weather gets cooler, I know that one would delight in having the lightweight wool jersey, brown and blue striped sheath with roll-up sleeves, belted below its slightly bloused back, to wear while cheering Carolina or State on to victory. The sporty little gad-about with the "Queen Anne" heels would be a nice added attraction.

Later on, I knew that I would long for more than one of those dyed-to-match skirt and sweater outfits. I was amazed to see that these co-ordinate ranged from tones of gray and dull brown to bright red—with a choice of straight or pleated skirts. I was especially struck by one of the dress-maker type fuzzy sweaters with four patch pockets, to go with a skirt of dull green. That green is very collegiate this year, and I have seen girls wearing it all over the campus.

Burton's has a wide variety of exciting separates that some of the Meredith girls who have frequented the store have been raving about. I saw what they meant when I spotted the ivy league rust, tan, tweed, and plaid skirts to complement a beautiful moss green crew-neck displayed on the counter.

I was all dressed for the game, but I began to wonder what I would wear to the fraternity party at Carolina afterwards; for one just must keep up with those co-eds at U.N.C. I wandered over to the sports-wear and was amazed at the rack after rack of bermudas and slim slacks. I took a closer look and suddenly spotted about the sharpest bermuda outfit which I have seen this season. Brass-colored pinwheel corduroy bermudas with matching, loose-fitting weskit, worn with one of the blending paisley print blouses would be just the ultimate for that after-the-game fraternity party.

As usual, I left Burton's that day with visions of fun and gaiety in sharp-looking clothes for this fall season and with visions of how pleased I'd feel to make my appearance at the first big game in my outfit—bought at Burton's.
