

VOCATIONAL EMPHASIS BEGINS MONDAY

Vocational Information Week on the Meredith College campus will be highlighted by guest speakers in chapel periods and in special interest group meetings sponsored by college departments. Extended chapel periods during the week of April 2-6 will be used to inform students of the occupational opportunities for college graduates.

Two Guests Will Speak

Guest speakers will be on campus for two chapel periods. On Monday, Dr. Maxine Garner, chairman of the Department of Religion at Sweet Briar College in Virginia, will talk to the student body. Dr. Garner is a former member of the Meredith Religion Department and served as BSU director while she was a member of the faculty here.

On Friday Mrs. William M. Watts will talk about what Meredith alumnae have done. Mrs. Watts is a former president of the College Alumnae and a former chairman of the Board of Trustees.

Students Will Follow Their Interests

Special vocational interest group meetings will be held on Wednesday and Thursday of the emphasis week. "The Challenge of Librarianship" will be the topic of a meeting sponsored by the library staff, the department of English, and the department of foreign languages. Mrs. Mary Peacock Douglas will speak to students interested in library work and related occupations. Also, on Wednesday Dr. Marion Stanland will talk on the subject "It's Fun to Work With People" and Charles Justice will discuss the question "What Can I Do Besides Teach?"

Group meetings on Thursday will be sponsored by the departments of religion, biology and chemistry, and education. The business and economics department will sponsor a vocational guidance meeting on Thursday in which two alumnae will speak. Mrs. Faye Lee Samuels and Mrs. Mary Moss Baker will discuss "Using Business in a Position." Group meetings on Wednesday and Thursday are being held at the regular chapel time and in place of a general chapel session.

Committee Plans Program

Dr. Leslie Syron is chairman of the Vocational Information Week committee. Working with Dr. Syron in arranging for guest speakers and compiling mimeographed materials for distribution are Miss Joyce Causey, Mr. Harry Dorsett, Dr. Lois Frazier, Mrs. Phyllis Garriss, Dr. Ione Knight, and Dr. Ralph McLain.

HARKNESS WILL SPEAK TO STUDENTS ON APRIL 9

The Meredith chapter of Kappa Nu Sigma will have as guest speaker Georgia Harkness for a lecture April 9 at 8:00 p.m. in Jones Hall.

Miss Harkness, a native of New York, received her A.B. degree at Cornell University and her M.A., M.R.E., and Ph.D. degrees from Boston University. She has also studied at Harvard, Yale, and Union Theological Seminary.

Miss Harkness, an ordained Methodist minister, has taught philosophy and religion in several colleges around the nation. At the present time she is a visiting professor at Garrett Biblical Institute in Evanston, Illinois.

Miss Harkness has also been active in the modern ecumenical movement, having attended the Madras Conference of the International Missionary Council in Madras, India, and the Amsterdam Conference of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam, Holland.

A Phi Beta Kappa scholar, Miss Harkness is the author of several books including Understanding the Christian Faith and Prayer and the Common Life.

BOSTON POPS WILL PERFORM SATURDAY NIGHT

Closing its season, State College's "The Friends of the College" series is presenting the Boston Pops Tour Orchestra on Saturday, March 31, in the Reynolds Coliseum. The orchestra which is conducted by Arthur Fiedler has gained world acclaim in the field of light classical music.

The program for the concert tomorrow night is as follows: "French Military March, Saint-Saens; Overture to 'La Gazza Ladra,' Rossini; 'Air on the G String,' Bach; 'Suite from Gayne,' Aram Khachaturian; 'Piano Concerto No. 2, Opus 23,' Kabalevsky; 'Les Preludes,' Liszt; selections from 'West Side Story,' Bernstein; 'Kid Stuff,' arranged by Hayman; and 'Mac the Knife' from 'Threepenny Opera,' Weill. The piano concerto will be performed by soloist Ozan Marsh with the accompaniment of the orchestra.

Before 1952 the Boston Pops could be heard only on records or in their native city of Boston. However in 1952 the Boston Pops Tour Orchestra was inaugurated by Fiedler, and now for the seventh year the orchestra continues to thrill audiences throughout the nation.

Missiles Exhibit To Be at State

CAMERON STATION, Alexandria, Virginia — Residents of the Raleigh area will have an opportunity to acquaint themselves with America's growing missile arsenal when the U. S. Army Missiles Exhibit opens locally at North Carolina State College on April 6.

Admittance to the display — designed and built by the Office of the Chief of Information — will be free of charge. The exhibit will continue through April 7.

One of the highlights of the Army exhibit is an electronic defense map of the United States, showing how fense missiles can track and destroy enemy aircraft approaching our country's borders.

Another phase of the exhibit traces the history of rocketry from the thirteenth century to the present era of missiles and satellites. Still another attraction is a color motion picture depicting the dramatic firing sequences of Army missiles. Unclassified performance data and tactical use of the Army's missiles will be presented.

Student Body Elects Second Slate Of Officers for 1962-63 Year

On March 22, the student body elected the second slate officers for the 1962-63 school year. This slate included the officers for the major organizations that were not elected on the first slate on March 8.

McGee To Lead Judicial Board

Vice-president of the judicial board of S. G. will be Velma McGee. Velma has been freshman representative to S. G., treasurer of S. G., secretary of B.S.U., recipient of the Helen Price Scholarship, and an associate member of the Silver Shield.

Parker, Fisher, and McPhaul To Head Dormitories

Anne Parker and Ann Carper were the nominees for president of Brewer dormitory with the former winning the election. Aiding her as vice-presidents of Brewer will be Sandra Wallace, first floor; Becky Matthews, second floor; and Peggy Fish, third floor.

The presidency of Faircloth will be held by Sandra Fisher, and the vice-presidents will be Nan Phipps, first floor; Betty Hooks, second floor; and Margaret Houghton, third floor.

Candidates for the presidency of the new dorm were Libby Bullard, Frances Gorham, and Ellen McPhaul, who was elected. In the election of vice-presidents for this dorm, Amy Robinson was elected over Norma Hamrick for the first floor. There will be a run-off for second between Harriet Cole and Elizabeth Haywood and a run-off for third between Gretchen Leffler and Carolyn Miller.

York To Lead Activities Board

Candidates for vice-president of the student activities board were Joyce Tripp and Betsy York, with the latter winning the election. Betsy was a sophomore representative on S. G., is presently serving as vice-president of First Stringfield, and is on the business staff of the Oak Leaves.

Crowder And Ennis To Handle Money

Treasurer of the day students will be Jo Crowder, while Sue Ennis will hold the same position on S. G. Other nominees for the treasurer of S. G. were Betty Godwin and Sue Ann James.

Woodall To Work With B.S.U.

Keeping the Meredith Playhouse in order will be June Leonard, president, and representing Meredith as the college marshal will be Helen Daniel. Anne Pope will handle the business affairs of the newspaper as TWIG business manager.

Bunn To Preside Over This

Brenda Bunn was elected president of the Philaretian society, and the Astrotektons had to vote yesterday in a run-off between Mary Lou Davis and Joan Strickland.

Groups To Sponsor Special Student Tours To Europe and Mexico At Low Prices

The post office bulletin board now holds notices of special European or South American tours, and many faculty members have posted such information outside their doors.

One such plan is that sponsored by Professor Jack L. Fitzgerald, instructor in Spanish at Wake Forest College, who will guide a trip to Mexico this summer. The ability to speak Spanish is helpful but not required for the trip.

Fitzgerald, who has spent two years in Mexico, points out that there is great merit in traveling with a group, both for saving money and for seeing and learning to best advantage.

The total cost of the trip will range from $419.00 to $539.00. Depending on the choice of living accommodations and the number of field trips taken. Broken down, the costs are as follows: registration, $50.00; round trip bus fare, $130; tuition at the University of Mexico, $100; room and board, $100-$200; books, $10.00; and field trips, $49.00. Spending money required will depend on the individual's weakness for shopping.

The group, though studying at the university, will live in private homes, for there are no dormitories on campus. Fitzgerald will personally supervise the selection of residences, placing students with families of which they will be real members and providing opportunity for putting Spanish to practical use.

Courses in language, literature, art, and history will be offered, with credit being given up to eight hours. The session begins June 25 and ends August 11.

Further information may be obtained from: Jack L. Fitzgerald, Department of Romance Languages, Box 7332, Reynold Station, Wake Forest College, Winston-Salem, N. C.

For those who are interested in European travel, the Institute of European Studies opens its application for three 1962-63 study programs from Monday, April 2, through June 15.

The programs are located in three centers: Vienna, Paris, and Freiburg, West Germany, and are open to undergraduates. At the University of Vienna the "European Year" will be conducted with classes in German and English. Three study trips covering western Europe are included.

The program in Paris is an "Honors" program limited to sophomores and juniors with some ability in French. Intensive language sessions will be conducted in Paris before classes open, and two study trips through the Low Countries, France, and Italy are planned.

German fluency is required for "Das Deutsche Jahr," the Institute's program in Freiburg, West Germany. Pre-semester language instruction will provide preparation for junior-level, German-taught courses at the University of Freiburg. Students will visit various cities and historical landmarks in West Germany, on an introductory "field-study" trip.

While in Europe, students live in private homes and dine either in Institute dining rooms or in student restaurants. Cost including round-trip ocean transportation, tuition, room, board, and study trips, range from about $2,000 to $2,500. Robert T. Bosshart, president, said the Institute selects applicants for enrollment on the basis of their academic achievement, intellectual and emotional maturity, and recommendations by faculty members of the American college or university.

The Institute is a non-profit educational organization which has been conducting overseas study programs since 1950. Additional information can be obtained from the Institute of European Studies, 35 East Wacker Drive, Chicago 1, Illinois.

NEWS FLASHES TO BE READ SUNDAY

Paul Newman and George Hamilton will speak in chapel Monday and will visit around campus afterwards.

Spring holidays have been extended from one week to one month. (Seniors need not return; your diplomas will be mailed to you.)

All class cuts will be excused for sun bathing.

APRIL FOOL, of course!

MR. CLYBURN TO PRESENT PIANO RECITAL

James Clyburn, a member of the Meredith College music faculty, will give a piano recital tonight in Jones Auditorium. The concert will begin at 8:00 p.m. The concert, originally scheduled for February 22, had to be postponed then until the present date because of Mr. Clyburn's illness.

Mr. Clyburn is a native of Charleston, South Carolina, and is a graduate of Juilliard. He is well known in the concert halls of North and South Carolina. Recently he participated in the Art Gallery Series in Columbia and Charleston.

Mr. Clyburn's recital tonight will include the following selections: "Tocatta in D Major," by Bach; "Adagio in F Major," by Haydn; "Sonata in F-sharp Minor, Op. 11," by Schumann; "Intermezzo in B-flat Major, Op. 76, No. 4," by Brahms; "Scherzo in E-flat Minor, Op. 4," by Brahms; and "Vallee d' Obermann," by Liszt.
