

January Grads To Begin New Roles

By JEAN HEGE

Approximately fifteen January graduates will begin new careers as homemakers, career girls, and schoolmarm. Most of these Meredith alumnae will stay in their home state of North Carolina.

Betsy York, a sociology major from Asheboro, will work for the Randolph County Welfare Department and also will stay busy planning an April wedding.

Also planning an April wedding will be Mary Ann Wolfe of Burgaw. Mary Ann will stay in Raleigh and teach the first grade at Effie Green Elementary School.

Sylvia Rose Warren will travel to the state of Georgia and join her husband in Atlanta. Sylvia is an elementary education major from Snow Hill.

Returning in June for graduation, Dianne Simmons Squillario will be playing the role of homemaker for her husband, Doug, in Greensboro after the semester is over.

Beki Griffin, a sociology major from Monroe, plans to "rest for a month" after graduation and then work for the North Carolina Public Welfare Department.

Billie Parker Barbee will join her husband in Maysville and teach the sixth grade there beginning the first of March.

Norma Hamrick, a religion major from Kings Mountain, is planning a March 16 wedding and will also take two correspondence courses and return for graduation in June.

One student will engage in graduate study in the field of guidance and counseling. Elizabeth Peterson will be attending classes once more at North Carolina State College.

Margaret McGuirt will most likely return to her hometown of Monroe and teach during the spring semester.

Donna Yancey Dellinger will join her husband who is doing graduate work at Appalachian State Teachers College in Boone. She will either teach or attend graduate school.

Ann Carol Sanders hopes to teach in one of the Raleigh schools. Plans are in the making for a late February wedding.

Jean Hege, a religion major from Winston-Salem, will return to her native city and teach the second grade at Oak Summit Elementary School.

Several day students are among the January graduates. Most of these will remain in Raleigh.

Sylvia Jeffcoat will be teaching

Semester Exams Begin Tomorrow

First semester examinations will begin at 9:00 a.m. on Saturday, January 19, and will end at 11:00 a.m. on Friday, January 25.

Friday, January 18, has been set aside as reading day. Begun two years ago, reading day provides for the students a day free from classes in which they can organize their materials and begin to review for the week of exams which will follow. So far the reading day has been successful in helping students prepare adequately for the finals. Faculty members find this day a good one in which to grade papers and to complete records.

Student-Faculty Teas

Student-faculty teas, which have been a part of exam week in years past, will be given on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, January 21-23. Held in the Blue Parlor from

Exercises, To Be January 26

Degrees will be conferred upon those seniors who have completed the work toward their graduation at 11 a.m. on January 26, 1963, in the small auditorium of Jones.

This is the second of such exercises to be held in several years. Before this January service was held, it was customary for those graduating early to return for the June services.

At the exercise, which will be attended by family members and close friends of the graduates, approximately thirteen seniors will receive their diplomas. The major address will be delivered by Dr. Carlyle Campbell, President of the college.

Mrs. C. Brewer, Wife of Former President, Dies

Mrs. Charles Edward Brewer, wife of the late Dr. Charles Edward Brewer, who was president of Meredith from 1915 to 1939 died on January 5, 1963.

A graduate of Chowan College, Mrs. Brewer was originally from Shawboro. Living in Raleigh, she was quite active in the First Baptist Church.

For a time she was president of the Woman's Missionary Union and for many years taught a Sunday School class of young women. Mrs. Brewer served at one time as State Chairman of Community Missions for the W.M.U., and she had been on the executive committee of this organization.

Her daughters, Miss Ellen Brewer and Miss Ann Eliza Brewer teach here in the home economics and foreign language departments respectively.

BSU To Hold Retreat Feb. 1-3

Lectures, discussions, and recreational periods will highlight the Baptist Student Union retreat to be held on February 1-3. The theme of the retreat, which is to be held at the Terraces, an Episcopal retreat area in Southern Pines, is "A Study of the South Through Literature and Religion."

To lead the literature phase of the retreat is Alton Buzbee, chaplain at Campbell College. Dr. Sam Hill, head of the religion department at the University of North Carolina, will be in charge of the religion phase.

On Sunday afternoon, the group of approximately sixty students from North Carolina, State, and Meredith Colleges plus a number of students from other college campuses will evaluate the work of the B.S.U. for the first semester.

Joyner Art Gallery Displays Student Work

An exhibit of art work from the first semester students will be shown January 21-February 2 in the art gallery in Joyner. Works from painting, creative design, drawing, beginning art, and sculpture classes will be on exhibit.

On exhibit February 6-20, special projects from the class in studio problems may be seen. These projects consist of library research coupled with the girls' own experimental work with techniques and media.

Jack Noffsinger Heads List of Speakers For Religious Emphasis Week In February

During the week of February 11-15, Meredith students will participate in the Meredith College Religious Emphasis Week, the theme of which is "The Double Search: God's Search for Man and Man's Search for God." Carol Cox, chairman for the week, and the various committee heads have formulated the following plans for the week's activities.

Noffsinger to be Main Speaker

The double theme will be developed separately, one phase in chapel, the other in the nightly seminars. The main speaker of the week, the Reverend Jack Noffsinger, pastor of the Knollwood Baptist Church in Winston-Salem will explore the theme "God's Search for Man" during the chapel periods.

Mr. Noffsinger is a native of Harnett County. He received his education at Wake Forest College and Southeastern Seminary. In the past he has served as chaplain at North Carolina State Hospital in Raleigh, at North Carolina Baptist Hospital, Winston-Salem, assistant pastor of the Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Alabama, and in his present capacity in Winston-Salem.

Other Speakers

The Reverend Harry Smith, Chaplain to the Presbyterian students at the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church, the Reverend Truman Smith, director of student activities at Southeastern Seminary, the Reverend Edgar Christman, Wake Forest College B.S.U. advisor, Professor Allard Lowenstein of the department of social studies at North Carolina State College, Dr. James Warren, assistant minister at Fairmont Methodist Church in Raleigh, and Dr. Carlyle Marney, pastor of the Myers Park Baptist Church in Charlotte will also serve as speakers during the week.

Morning Perspective

Each day will begin with "Morning Perspective" held in the Rose Parlor and led by Dr. Warren. This informal devotional period, which will begin at eight o'clock will be preceded by coffee and doughnuts at 7:40.

"God's Search for Man"

"God's Search for Man," the topic of the morning chapel services, to be presented by Mr. Noffsinger will relate the needs of the contemporary Christian student to a God relevant in the age of science. The Meredith College Chorus under the direction of Miss Beatrice Donley will provide special music for the services.

Evening Seminar

The evening seminars, which will be held from 7:00 to 8:00, Monday through Thursday will feature various topics. There will be seminars on contemporary literature conducted by Harry Smith, Communism led by Professor Lowenstein, and Existentialism under the direction of Edgar Christman. In addition, the seminar entitled "Concepts of Life," which will deal with the questions of capital punishment, birth control, and mercy killing will be led by Truman Smith, with the morning speaker, Mr. Noffsinger, conducting a discussion of the theological questions involved. All of these seminars will develop the second half of the theme, "Man's Search for God."

Day Student Activities

There will be discussions for the day students at one o'clock in the hut led by Mr. Christman, Mr. Noffsinger, and Professor Lowenstein. Dr. Carlyle Marney will speak to the faculty on Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in Joyner Lounge.

More informal activities will be provided in order that the students and the speakers may become better acquainted. At ten o'clock on Monday night in Society Hall, there will be an informal party at which the faculty members, the speakers, and the members of the Religious Emphasis Week committee "will display their various and unusual talents."

Tea is Planned

On Wednesday afternoon in the Blue Parlor, there will be an informal tea for guests, faculty and staff members, Raleigh ministers, and students. In addition, students will get a chance to meet the speakers at dinner each evening when they will sit at various tables in the dining hall.

Books pertaining to the theme of the week will be on display in the library and on sale in the Bee Hive.

Committee Heads

The following committee heads helped Carol Cox with the week's plans: Worship, Polly Finan; Program, Mary MacManus; Student Seminars, Kitty Kelly; Faculty Seminar, Judy Wicker; Publicity, Mary Ruth Dobbins; Social Functions, Freida Harkness; Arrangements, Virginia Browning; Music, Elizabeth Holland; Books, Nancy Jane Spenser; Hospitality, Clarence Roberson; Day Students, Virginia Costner. A steering committee under the direction of Carol Cox and with the advice of Mrs. Miriam Prichard, Meredith College B.S.U. Advisor, co-ordinated the program. Serving on this committee were Sue Ennis, Nancy Williams, Frieda Farmer, Betty Sodeman, Scott Beaver, Nicky Childrey, and Beth Woodall.

January graduates, Jean Hege, Beki Griffin, Betsy York, Sylvia Rose Warren, and Mary Ann Wolfe discuss their after-graduation plans.
