

Dr. B. Ratchford Explains Banking On Richmond Trip

On Wednesday, December 6, Mrs. Evelyn Simmons, a teacher in the economics department, accompanied several members of the money and banking class to the Federal Reserve Bank in Richmond, Virginia.

The vice-president and senior advisor of the Bank, Dr. B. U. Ratchford, whose daughter Julia attends Meredith, planned the activities for the group. Mr. Wyatt, the public relations director of the bank, spoke to the group and showed them the new movie, "Money on the Move." Then a tour of the entire bank was made. The students were shown, among other things, the oven where six million dollars is burned daily. The money which is burned is unfit currency. They also saw the vault which contains reserves of currency. After lunch in the executive dining room, a discussion of monetary policy and decision-making problems followed.

Dr. Ratchford is in charge of the Economic Research Department of the Bank. He also edits the Monthly Review and other economic booklets which the bank publishes.

Members of the class who went to Richmond were Nancy Campbell, Carol Galloway, Jane Parrish, Judy Pierce, and Jenny Winfield.
