

Fashion Show to Feature Latest Student Creations

By PATRICIA PETERSON

A preview of the latest fashions will be presented at a meeting of the Home Economics Club on Thursday, February 20. Scheduled for seven o'clock in 103 Joyner, the fashion show will feature the latest creations made by students enrolled in sewing classes. Freda Hartness, president of the club, has extended a cordial invitation to all students and members of the faculty to attend the show.

Freshmen students will be modeling one-piece dresses. The students began the course by making blouses and later advancing to sewing complete dresses.

The Juniors will model wool suits made in tailoring classes. The original suits are sewn according to precise tailoring techniques and require many hours of work. Though not as expensive as a ready-made suit of the same type, Miss Hanyen, associate professor of Home Economics, reports that her students would not sell the suits for any amount of money.

Nancy Jones (standing) and Nancy McLenny give a "sneak preview" of the Home Ec. Club fashion show.

Student Teachers Rated High by Several Educators

According to Harry K. Dorsett of the Meredith College education department, a checklist for determining how Meredith-trained teachers compared with teachers from other institutions was sent to sixty-eight principals and supervisors. The areas to be compared were teaching efficiency, understanding of children, participation in community activities, and teaching the Christian and democratic way of life. The following results were obtained:

- (1) Teaching efficiency
Average: 20 per cent
Below average: less than 1 per cent
- (2) Understanding of children
Average: 23 per cent
Below average: less than 1 per cent
- (3) Participation in community activities
Average: 32 per cent
Below average: 0 per cent
- (4) Teaching the Christian and democratic way of life
Above average: 85 per cent
Average: 15 per cent
Below average: 0 per cent

Dr. Dorsett pointed out that the Meredith record is indeed one of which to be proud. Normally, the above average and below average ratings are expected to be equal to each other, with the highest percentage falling in the average range. Yet, over two-thirds of the group polled gave Meredith-trained teachers an above average rating in each of the four areas.

Colin Wilson To Speak Here

Colin Wilson, Information Secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, D. C., will be guest speaker on campus on Tuesday, February 18. The lecture is slated for 7:30 p.m. in Joyner 103.

Visiting the campus at the invitation of the history department, Mr. Wilson will visit Charlotte prior to his stop in Raleigh. From Raleigh he will travel to Greenville, N. C., for another speaking engagement.

The lecture, National Health Program, is expected to be based on socialized medicine, according to Tom C. Parramore, a member of the history department.

Educated in his native country, Mr. Wilson attended Ulverston Grammar School, Wadham College, and Oxford University. He entered the Foreign Service in 1955 and served the British government in Peking from 1956-1958. More recently, he has been with the British Military Government in Berlin.

anity versus Traditional Morality." The second seminar, led by Dr. Roger H. Crook in Vann Parlor, is entitled "Toward a Theology of Sex." A Meredith religion professor, he is also the author of three books: No North Or South, The Changing American Family, and Let's Get Married. Mr. Ernest B. Lowrie conducts the third seminar, "Essentials of the Christian Faith," in the Blue Parlor. The fourth seminar "Contemporary Literature," which meets in Vann Faculty Parlor, has a different leader discussing a different book each night. On Tuesday the Reverend Mr. Donald Niswonger conducted a study of Rabbit Run by John Updike. Mr. Niswonger, who received his B.A. in history and philosophy from Baylor University, his B.D. from Southeastern Theological Seminary, served as the pastor advisor to the Meredith BSU. On Wednesday Bread and Wine, a Nobel prize winner by Ignazio Silone, was discussed by Dr. Don Shriver, the Presbyterian University Pastor in Raleigh. Dr. Shriver was formerly national chairman of the United Christian Youth Movement and a delegate to the Third World Conference of Christian Youth in South India. His book on Christian Ethics for high school young people, entitled How Do You Do—And Why? is to be published soon. Thursday night a discussion of La Dolce Vita by Federico Fellini will be led by the Reverend Mr. John David Stewart, from Belmont, N. C. Mr. Stewart, father of two children, is Assistant Pastor of White Memorial Presbyterian Church. He received his B.S. from Davidson and his B.D. from Union Theological Seminary in Virginia. Mr. Stewart's hobbies are golf, shooting, motor sports, and water-craft.

Dr. Blake Smith led special seminars for the Day Students during Religious Emphasis Week. The informal discussions were held on Tuesday and Thursday at 1:00 in the Hut. The faculty seminar, "Objectivity in the Classroom and Christian Perspective," was led by Dr. John W. Hallowell, professor of political science at Duke University since 1942. The discussion was held on Wednesday evening in 103 Joyner. Dr. Hallowell, who received his B.A. from Harvard, M.A. from Duke, and Ph.D. from Princeton, was a Fulbright and Guggenheim Fellow at the University of Munich in 1955-1956. He is the author of three books: Main Currents in Modern Political Thought, Moral Foundations of Democracy, and Modern Canterbury Pilgrims.

An informal tea was held on Wednesday afternoon in the Blue Parlor for guests, faculty, staff, Raleigh ministers, and students. One of the purposes of the event was to provide opportunity for rewarding personal contact with the men who were conducting student meetings.

Fashion Features

Pat Griffin and Sandra Searcy are seen tearing open boxes containing wearing apparel from Mac Josephs' new spring collection. Thinking and planning ahead for those early spring days, these two girls have chosen versatile suits which can be worn for almost any type of occasion.

Exclamations are heard from her friends as Sandra displays a navy suit ensemble which is made of a polyester and rayon material simulating denim. Sandra's suit, consisting of a straight skirt and a blazer type collarless jacket, can be modified by substituting a double pleated skirt or an overblouse with a red and white checked ascot.

For further possibilities with the suit, Mac Josephs offers red and white checked vests and long sleeve blouses of the same fabric. In addition to her new "Tara tweed" bermudas and slacks from Mac Josephs, Pat has also bought a suit of the same material. While the suit can be "dressed up" with a more tailored jacket, the all purpose blazer coat with the suit can also be worn with the bermudas and slacks. Sandra and Pat are especially delighted with the practicality of their new fashions and are equally pleased that they shopped at Mac Josephs where there is such a wide clothes selection from which to choose.
