Challenge '65 Inaugurated at Wake Forest

Challenge '65, the Wake Forest Symposium on Contemporary World Affairs, will present its inaugural program beginning March 11, 1965.

To Study Major Issue

Challenge '65, in this, its inaugural year, devotes itself to a study of a major social phenomenon which has been the focus of national attention in recent years — "The Emerging World of the American Negro."

Essentially, the symposium will focus attention on the new role of the American Negro as that role relates to politics, the ghetto, the church, education, communications, employment, elections, and the judicial system. It is the goal of Challenge '65 to present as comprehensive an overview of the problem as can be synthesized in the brief duration of the symposium by the well-qualified men who are to participate. The views to be presented will be widely divergent and conflicting — variant philosophies and geographical locations are necessary preconditions to the success of our efforts.

Challenge '65 does not seek to answer the diverse questions or to solve the many problems to be posed in the very nature of its being. It does seek, however, to provide the raw materials upon which an increased awareness may be built—a starting point from which those who choose to penetrate more deeply the many complexities of the problem may begin.

The Department of History and Political Science has been notified that Meredith College, through the courtesy of Senator Sam Irving, has been placed on the government's mailing list to receive copies of the Congressional Record. The department also hopes to get Meredith placed on the State's mailing list to receive copies of the North Carolina Legislative Journals.

Meredith Bill Passes Both Houses at Student Legislature

"Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of personal privilege."

"State your privilege."

"Request that delegates be seated."

"Delegates may be seated."

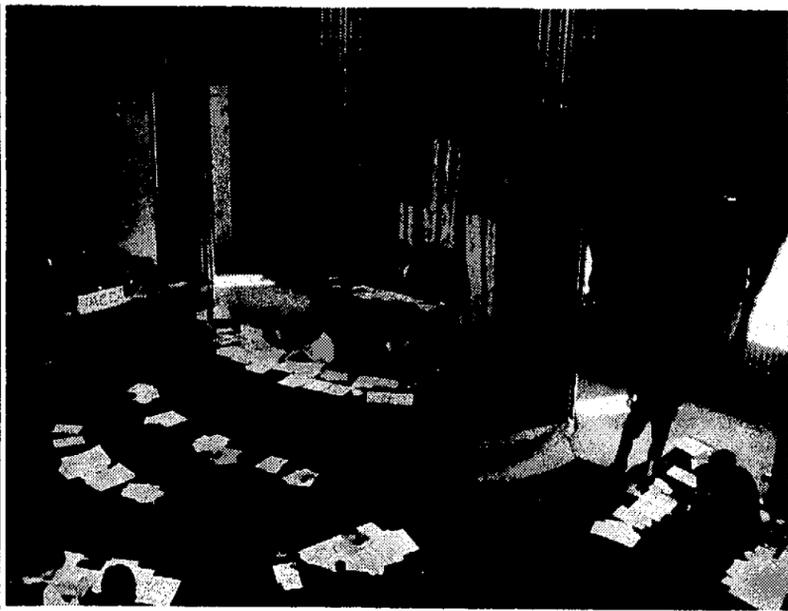

Last week in Raleigh these sounds were frequently heard as the Capitol echoed once again with the voices of legislators when lawmaker-students from twenty-seven of North Carolina's colleges held sessions there. The delegation from Meredith included Doris Young and Linda Arledge in the House of Representatives and Beth Peacock and Barbara Koch in the Senate.

Polly Finan was Senate alternate and Mimi Holt was House alternate.

Gov. Moore's Address

On Thursday, February 18, the Meredith delegation began registration at the Sir Walter Hotel of the representatives from all the colleges. This lasted from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. at which time the opening plenary session convened. Governor Dan K. Moore addressed the joint meeting of the student legislators and told them that they were engaging in the serious business of government and would learn much both from their mistakes and from their victories during their State Student Legislature experience. After Governor Moore's speech, the Senate and House met separately to elect their officers. Bo Edwards of UNC-CH was elected Speaker of the House, and Leon Spencer of Wake Forest was elected President of the Senate.

On Thursday night, a banquet was held for the delegates at Leazar Hall on the State campus. Al House, President of the YDC of America, was the speaker and shared some of his experiences with the group. At 9:00 p.m., a party featuring music by the Embers was held at the Sir Walter. This gathering, so the Meredith delegates, who had to return to school by the usual closing time, understand, lasted until 1:00 a.m., as many dances do.

Friday was the day when nearly all of the bills and resolutions were presented. The first one was a bill to require four years of physical education in the public high schools of North Carolina.

This bill was brought by Elon College and was passed by both the Houses and the Senate. During the morning, N. C. State, Catawba, and Atlantic Christian College presented their proposed legislation.

light. Polly Finan, serving as Senator, presented the resolution from Meredith and gave the eight-minute speech defending the proposed legislation. She then had to answer whatever questions the delegates from the various schools chose to ask. After being on the Senate floor for nearly an hour, the Meredith resolution passed with amendments. The final form of the Meredith resolution, after being presented in the House by Doris Young and passed and after being discussed by the Conference Committee of which Barbara Koch was a member is as follows:

A resolution to form a commission concerning the amending of Article IV, Section 14 of the North Carolina Constitution concerning the

"Face the World—" Theme At Conference on Missions

"Face the World—If You Dare" is the theme of the Eighth Annual Student Missions Conference to be held at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, February 26-28, 1965. The crucial world situation of our times forces us as Christians to look at our world anew. Seeing a world torn by hatred, disease, and war should call forth our genuine concern, and this concern should seek to manifest itself in Christian action. This conference is especially for all college, medical, and professional school students who are concerned about their place and responsibility as Christians in such a world. The conference will offer a unique opportunity for confrontation and fellowship with outstanding Christian leaders and students who are keenly aware of world problems and needs.

Conference Speakers

Speakers for the conference will be William M. Dual, Jr., Dr. G. McLeod Bryan, and Dr. Glendon McCullough. Dual, who will deliver the keynote address Friday evening, is the Director of Organization for the Christian Life Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention. He also serves as non-governmental observer at the United Nations. Dyal and his wife have served as missionaries to Latin America. In 1960 he was named Field Representative for southern South America; he has served as Associate Secretary for Missional Personnel at the Foreign Mission Board.

Dr. Bryan, professor of religion at Wake Forest College, will address the conference Saturday morning. In 1959 Dr. Bryan made a tour of Africa where he lectured and conducted research. During the summers of 1961-1963 he participated in the national project "Operation—Crossroads Africa." During 1964 he gave a series of lectures in African universities under a grant from the U.S. State Department. His latest book is Whither Africa.

The closing address of the conference will be given on Sunday morning by Dr. McCullough who is secretary of the Department of Missionary Personnel of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board. He formerly taught at Seinan University, in Fukuoka, Japan.

Seminars

A major aspect of the conference will be the seminars led by leaders from the Home and Foreign Mission Boards and also missionaries from both boards. Of special interest will be a seminar on the Peace Corps led by several Southeastern students who have participated in the Corps.

manner in which Justices of the Supreme Court of the state of North Carolina are selected for office.

Whereas: The Justices of the Supreme Court of North Carolina should be conscientious, able, eminently qualified men who can carry on judicial actions without being pressured by outside forces, and

Whereas: Independent judiciaries will be able to serve on the bench who heretofore have been reluctant to engage in a political campaign or have not had the support of a political party, and

Whereas: The Justices of the Supreme Court should be experts who seek to provide equal justice under the law for all citizens of the state, rather than partisan representatives responsible only to the citizens who elected them, then

Be it therefore resolved: By the North Carolina State Student Legislature that the Justices of the Supreme Court of North Carolina be appointed by the Governor with confirmation of the General Assembly. This justice shall hold his office from the date of confirmation until he attains the age of sixty-five. Any clause of Article IV, Section 14, that is in conflict with the provisions of this resolution is hereby null and void.

Best Speaker Award

On Saturday, the final day, the North Carolina Film Board showed a movie, entitled "The Ayes Have It," dealing with the N. C. General Assembly proceedings. Lt. Gov. Bob Scott also addressed the group. In the final plenary session Pete Wales of UNC-CH was awarded a plaque as best speaker in the House. Ken Bass of Duke received this award for the Senate. Gavel were presented to Bo Edwards and Leon Spencer and to Bob Spearman of UNC-CH, President of the 1965 State Student Legislature. Catawba College and UNC-CH received awards as the best small and large college delegations, respectively. The award for the best legislation presented resulted in a tie between the Duke Men and Salem College. This award uses as criteria the amount of debate a bill stimulates and the background work that went into a bill.
