MEREDITH GIRLS TO BE VOLUNTEERS

Seven Meredith College students have been selected from 1,400 applicants to be North Carolina Volunteers this summer. The following girls will be among the 250 college students in the 1965 program: Johnette Ingold, Pris Macomber, Crystal Hartness, Carol May, Susan Grant, Linda Arledge, and Sylvia Stoudemire.

After a 5-day orientation program at Duke University beginning June 13, the Volunteers will receive their assignments and will be transported to their fields. Volunteers will work in teams, under the direction of adult advisors and local public-service agencies. These teams, working in 15 North Carolina communities, will start programs of welfare, education, health, and other services to help North Carolina's underprivileged families.

The seven Meredith Volunteers anticipate an eventful summer of service and new experiences. "The interviews," according to Johnette, "had been so 'unusual' that I had no idea. . . . When I opened the letter, I just screamed!"

"Days in May" Is Successful

Due to the cooperation of both faculty and students, the drive to raise money for the Carlyle Campbell Library was a huge success. The week's activities included a play, wearing bermudas, smoking in the cafeteria, and a faculty auction. A grand total of approximately $2,500 was collected during the week. Five hundred dollars was collected for bermudas, $270 for the play, $12 from smoking, and $1,700 from the auction. Mr. Eads, Dr. Cochran, and Mr. Coffey respectively brought $200 each. All in all the week proved that student-faculty participation and cooperation can achieve successful results.

LITTLE SISTERS HONOR JUNIORS

Friday, May 7, 1965, the annual big sister-little sister breakfast was given by the freshman class for their big sisters on the lawn of the Alumnae House. The "Wild West" was the theme of the banquet. Emily Bryant was chairman of the committee for the breakfast, and several members of the freshman class dressed as cowgirls. Betty Pritchard, president of the freshman class, gave the blessing. The big sisters were given souvenir paper boots which read, "M. C. Sisters, 1965."

The big sister-little sister breakfast is a traditional occasion which is the little sister's way of thanking her big sister for the guidance given her as a freshman sister throughout her first year at Meredith.

Krummel and Beza To Study Abroad

Miss Mary Eleanor Krummel who is an assistant professor of foreign languages at Meredith will be studying abroad for the summer with the help of the small study grant which Meredith has awarded her. The seven weeks of study at the University of Madrid will be concentrated on two courses in Spanish language and literature. While attending the University, Miss Krummel will be living in acolegio mayor, part of the school's housing project, with other students on the graduate and under-graduate level. During her studies at the University in the summer of 1958, Miss Krummel made many Spanish friends. She now looks forward to seeing them again during the ten days of traveling which she will crowd into the end of the summer. Good luck for a most rewarding summer of study and fun.

Mrs. Beza to Be in Paris

Mrs. Jacqueline Beza, also a member of the foreign language department at Meredith, will be studying for the month of June at the Alliance Française in Paris. Following her studies which will be aided by a small Meredith study grant, Mrs. Beza and her husband have tentative plans to travel throughout France, Switzerland, Italy, and Germany. We wish her a good summer, but hope she is not fascinated by Europe! Meredith needs her language professors!
