

Five Leaving

Faculty Members Retire from the Meredith Community

By BLUE MCKETHAN

At the end of this school year, several members of the faculty and administration who have served here for many years are leaving Meredith. These people have helped to make Meredith what it is through their hard work and efforts to improve the college, and they deserve recognition especially now that they are retiring.

Mrs. Dorothy Pope Greenwood has been an English instructor here for six years. She originally came to Raleigh to teach at Saint Mary's Junior College and married while teaching there. She also taught at North Carolina State College and the State School for the Blind. When asked about her plans for the future, she replied that she will stay home and enjoy life, read lots of books, and look forward to visits from her students. Mrs. Greenwood studied at Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Tulane University, and did graduate work at Columbia University.

Going to Have a Good Time

Mrs. Martha J. Whilden came to Meredith in 1951 as Assistant House Director. She had worked for a nearby school for a year before coming here. Mrs. Whilden said that she has no intention of sitting home after her retirement and that she will "have a good time until my money runs out!"

lege), spent several years as a field worker for the Sunday School Department of the Southern Baptist Convention in which capacity she did much travelling. After her husband's death she worked with the State Baptist Convention for five years before coming to Meredith in 1955 as Assistant Dean of Students. This summer will mark her tenth year as Dean of Students at summer school. After her retirement, Mrs. Smith expects to spend much time with her family and to live at her home in Goldsboro.

Rest and Vist Friends

Dr. Susanne H. Freund, Associate Professor of Foreign Languages, plans to read, rest, and see her children and friends after this year. Dr. Freund studied in Germany and got her Ph.D. degree in economics from the University of Heidelberg. She taught in the School of Military Government in Charlottesville, Virginia, and one year at Campbell College prior to coming to Meredith in 1947. While here she has been a faculty advisor, sponsor of the Meredith Christian Association, and founder and sponsor of the French Club. She is a member of the Modern Language Association, American Association of Teachers of French and German, and the American Association of University Professors.

Mad Hatter Going to Campbell

Dr. Ernest F. Canady, Professor of Math, received degrees at William Jewell College at Liberty, Missouri; University of Missouri; and he received his Ph.D. from Duke University. He taught at South Dakota University for four years and then spent a year in the Army during World War I. He came here in 1920 and has been head of the department of math for forty-five years. From 1920 to 1925, he taught in Summer School at Missouri Central College. During World War II, he taught at Meredith until 12:00 noon and then at North Carolina State in the afternoon. He is a member of the National Math Fraternity Pi Mu Epsilon and the North Carolina Academy of Science. After this year he will join the faculty at Campbell College.

Hopes to Travel

Miss Jennie M. Hanyen, Associate Professor of Home Economics, received her B.S. and M.A. degrees in Home Economics at Columbia University and also did some work toward her Ph.D. there. She has taught at Hood College, Fredrick, Maryland, and Elmire College, New York and done summer work at several schools and universities. She came to Meredith in 1931 to find that she and Miss Brewer had been classmates at Columbia University but did not know each other. Miss Hanyen had traveled in Puerto Rico, Bermuda, and Europe. She is a member of the American and the North Carolina Home Economics Associations, and the American Association of University Women. She plans to visit Lake Ariel, Pennsylvania, as she is a native of that state, and to be with her sister in Radford, Virginia, after her retirement.

Not Going to Get Bored

Miss Ellen Dozier Brewer was a student at Meredith when her father became the third president. She returned to Meredith to teach English after the war in 1919 and later got her B.S. and M.A. in Home Economics at Columbia University. In 1922, she came back again to be head of the home economics Department. The Home Management House was built and named in her honor in 1960. She is a member of the American Home Economics Association, the North Carolina Home Economics Association in which she has held every office, the American Association of University Women, and the International Congress on Home Economics. She attended the Baptist World Alliance in Stockholm with a group of North Carolinians. Miss Brewer plans to read and put more time into church work after this year. She said that she agrees with Miss Ida Poteat who said there are too many interesting things to do to ever get bored with life. However, Miss Brewer said that she would continue to come to Meredith for every program and that her heart will always be with Meredith.

Fashion Features

Whether the year has been intolerably long or unbelievably short, the end is in sight. Not only a school year at Meredith, but also a shopping year at Mac Josephs is drawing to a close.
