

Beth Porter Wins Award Given by Kappa Nu Sigma

The Kappa Nu Sigma recently honored sophomore Beth Porter by presenting her with the Helen Price Scholarship.

This one hundred dollar scholarship, named in honor of a former sponsor of the organization, is given to the student who achieved the highest scholastic average during her freshman year. The scholarship is awarded early in the fall of each year.

Beth is a music major from Roseboro. In a recent interview, she said that this honor came as a big surprise to her. In speaking of the future, Beth said she had made no definite plans but she hopes to continue her study of music after she graduates from Meredith. Beth likes to read and explains that she is taking organ lessons this year, which she enjoys so much that it does not seem like work.

Embarrassing Situation

Since she is a music major, Beth has had to wait to take several freshman courses. She explained that she was sitting in her western civilization class one day after being awarded the scholarship and a freshman told her that she did not know that Beth was that smart since she was in a freshman history class. Beth laughed at this remark and added that she did not study all the time but finds time for other activities.

The Kappa Nu Sigma is the honorary scholastic organization on campus. Its purpose is to promote scholarship at Meredith. Present members include Bonnie Eicher, president; Martha Mills, vice president; Nancy McClenny, secretary-treasurer; Judy Riley, reporter; Sandra Flynt; Becky Shaver; and Janet Morris.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA MEETS AT MEREDITH

Meredith College was host Saturday, October 9, for a regional meeting of the Beta chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, a society for women educators.

Dr. Lemmon Plans

Miss Margaret Flintom of Charlotte was in charge of a workshop presentation on "Development of Creativity." Dr. Sarah Lemmon, chairman of Meredith's department of history, was in charge of general arrangements.

The session dealt with how professional educators may recognize and deal with creativity in children and youth from the beginning to the end of the formal schooling period.

Dance Club Formed New Members Inducted

The Dance Club, a new organization on campus, is planning several activities for the coming year. Each week at the meetings two members do techniques for warm-up, and two do composition sketches. Teachers from other schools are planning to give several lessons to the club members. In the spring a recital by the Dance Club will be given on campus. The members are also planning to be in a concert.

Officers

The officers of the club are Kay Lambeth, president; Clare Young, secretary; and Dukie Vierson, business manager, responsible for the scrapebook and tickets.

New members include Betty Boyette, Julie Monrve, and Patti Arapage. These girls were chosen after appearing before the members of the club in an audition. They were not told they had been selected until their names were announced in chapel.

CIVIL RIGHTS PARTICIPANTS SPEAK AT WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP SERVICE

Two participants in the civil rights movement in Mississippi spoke to the Presbyterian Westminister Fellowship Sunday, October 3, at 7:00 p.m., at the Presbyterian Student Center on Horne Street. One speaker was Miss Wilmina Rowland, an ordained Presbyterian minister and a native of Augusta, Georgia. She recently served four months in the Mississippi Delta Ministry of the National Council of Churches. The other was Mr. Curtis Hayes, a representative of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and native of McComb, Mississippi. Together they interpreted the aims of church-related and civil rights organizations now at work in the deep South.

Professor at UNC-G

Miss Rowland has had an active career of work with students from many countries and was once a professor of religion at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro. During World War II and afterwards, she helped to administer world relief funds for students in Europe and elsewhere. She is presently Director of Educational Loans and Scholarships for the United Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia.

"Outsiders Are Indispensable"

From this latter position Miss Rowland took a four-month leave of absence to participate in the "Delta Ministry" of the National Council of Churches. Her job was to help interpret to the white community of Greenville, Mississippi, the Council's concern for economic, educational, health, and civic problems of the Negro in this region. In a recently circulated report on her four months in Mississippi, she stated, "I returned from Mississippi with the conviction that outsiders are indispensable to the solution of social problems there. The outsider's role is first and foremost to help the Negro to believe in himself as a person."

The presence of the National Council in Mississippi has aroused much criticism from church people, especially in the South, during the past year and a half. Miss Rowland and Mr. Hayes discussed this criticism and responded to questions raised by the audience.

DR. JOHN YARBROUGH TO SERVE ON BOARD

Dr. John Yarbrough of the science department has been asked to be a member of the board of examiners for Mr. Barasai Muhammad, who is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at the University of Madras in Madras, India. Mr. Muhammad's research is concerned with interspecific hybrids in the cultivated peanut; and since Dr. Yarbrough has done extensive work with the peanut, his advice and knowledge would be helpful.

Also asked to serve on this board was Dr. W. C. Gregory of North Carolina State University.
