Theme Given For Forums

The theme of the Baptist Student Union Supper Forums this year is "The Church and Society." Religious, political, and civic leaders of the area have been invited to speak to the members of the Meredith and N. C. State University BSU's on issues concerning the problems of today.

Occasionally prominent men who hold opposing views on controversial subjects appear together and explain their opinions. On October 8, William Finnator, pastor of the Pullen Memorial Baptist Church, and Leo Stannis, pastor of the North Street Baptist Church, spoke on the church and social issues.

Noted Speakers

Other speakers for the 1965-66 Forums are Raleigh city councilman John Winters, who spoke October 22 on the church and race relations; Marse Grant, editor of the Biblical Recorder; and Samuel S. Hill of the religion department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Friday Night Supper

Supper is served at six o'clock on Friday evening. The cost is seventy-cents per person. The program begins at seven-thirty. After the speaker for the evening presents his topic there is a period of discussion which is usually followed by a fellowship hour. The programs are highly informal, and both the speeches and the discussions which follow have proved to be interesting and enlightening. Rides are furnished for Meredith girls at five-thirty and also at six-thirty, for those who do not wish to eat supper at the student center.

Music, Art Convention Held on Meredith Campus

On October 29-30, Meredith College was host to the Baptist Music and Art Department's Convention held every two years as an activity of the Council of Christian Education of the Baptist State Convention. Participants in the meeting were the teachers in the art and music departments of the seven Baptist schools in the Baptist State Convention: Mars Hill, Gardner-Webb, Wake Forest, Wingate, Campbell, Meredith, and Chowan.

Reason for Meeting

The meetings were established about twelve years ago by Ben Fisher, the predecessor of the present executive secretary, as a means of bringing the problems of various departments in the several schools together into open discussion.

About fifty-five teachers were expected to attend the meetings in which the problems of the art and music departments were discussed. On Friday, Ben Fisher, executive secretary of the Council spoke in the Alumnae House at the opening meeting after which the Meredith Ensemble presented a short program of music.

Special Speaker

Of particular interest to Meredith students was the Saturday morning lecture and discussion at 9:15 in the Alumnae House at which Mr. Max Smith, organist and artist in residence at Southeastern Seminary, spoke on "Communication of the Arts."

There was also an Art Exhibit in the Joyner Gallery and a talk by Mr. Leonard White of the Meredith art department on Saturday.

Mr. Edwin Blanchard was head of the arrangements committee for the guests from the participating colleges.

SILVER ATTENDS LIBERTY MEETING

From October sixth through the eighth, Dr. George Silver, Meredith's business manager, attended the ninth annual Baptist Religious Liberty Conference in Washington, D. C. This conference, sponsored by the Baptist joint committee on public affairs, dealt with the use of government funds. Dr. Silver participated in the section of government aid to Baptist colleges owned and controlled by various Baptist conventions. The majority of the members of his group believed that federal aid was already part of the educational system since it was a law. They also believed that if small Baptist schools are to survive, they must have financial aid from the federal government.

Meredith Alumna Speaks

A highlight of the conference was a discussion with Dr. Elizabeth Miller, a Meredith alumna and an ordained minister, who is director of social concepts for the American Baptist Convention.

Besides attending many fund raising meetings, Dr. Silver will speak to the Charlotte chapter of the Meredith Alumnae on recent events and plans for the future.

Meredith Hosts English Teachers

Meredith College was host to the North Carolina English Teachers' Association Saturday, October 30, for its fall meeting. Approximately one hundred English teachers represented high schools and colleges throughout North Carolina. Dr. Campbell addressed the morning assembly, and Dr. Edwin L. Peterson of the University of Pittsburgh spoke on "Using the Overhead Projector and Transparencies in the Teaching of Composition." Following a luncheon in the dining hall, discussion groups led by chairmen of the NCETA standing committees and a business meeting completed the afternoon itinerary.
