Concert, Lecture Committee Reveals Project '68 Plans

The concert and lecture committee for 1967-68 has made changes and improvements concerning its next season. As a result of recent student government legislation, the faculty committee on concerts and lectures, headed by Dr. Frank Grubbs, will have formal student representation for the first time. A group of interested students will work with Judy Kornegay, student chairman, Dr. Grubbs, and his committee to help plan and direct future concerts and lectures at Meredith.

A poll conducted among faculty members and meetings with students, who worked with Directions '67, revealed that a program of mixed cultural and lecture events is desired. Students involved in the Cybernetics Symposium have recommended that lecturers be chosen for their ability to communicate with their audiences and that their topics fit the interests of the Meredith community.

The major cultural event will be the presentation of "Lords International," a professional marionette show, which should be of special interest to the departments of education, art, and speech.

Lectures will be centered on Project '68, planned similarly to the 1966-67 Cybernetics Symposium, Directions '67. Project '68 will be

Sale of Faculty "Slaves" Nets $1636 for New Library

Auction Brings Funds, Fun

By ANNE STONE

Members of the Meredith student body, faculty, and administrative staff combined their efforts on May 10 to provide an evening of merriment and to boost the fund for the proposed Carlyle Campbell Library. The occasion was a faculty auction, which brought an approximate total of $1,636 in student contributions.

The auction was the last in a series of four major projects sponsored by the student library fund committee, headed by junior Mary Arakas. Previously, a "flea market" and the Play Day carnival netted approximately $270. In addition, the committee has organized the collection of S & H Green Stamps, which are to be applied later to the purchase of furnishings for the new library.

Mrs. Helena Allen of the health and physical education department, and Margaret Hall, senior, served as auctioneers for over forty services and articles put "on the block" in the "Ye Olde Meredith Jail" setting. Services sold included waiting tables in the dining hall by Dean L. A. Peacock and Dr. John Yarbrough, laundry done by Miss Jane Greene of the library staff, and two hall concerts by President E. Bruce Heilman and his "One Man's Family." Some groups purchased dinners to be prepared and served at faculty and staff homes; others bought baked goods to eat at hall parties

Film To Depict Development Drive, Campus Life

Movie Highlights Meredith

By MARY WATSON NOOE

Filming has begun for a thirty minute film combining the story of life at Meredith and a description of changes that will occur during the three year development plan. The movie will be used by television stations, alumnae, civic clubs and other organizations as part of the public relations aspect of the development campaign.

The film, which will cost over $10,000 to produce, is a gift to Meredith College by Jesse Helms, executive vice-president of the Capital Broadcasting Company of Raleigh. Joel Lawhos of WRAL-TV community affairs department is producing the movie. Provision of the script material and filming schedule have been a joint project of Grover Andrews, Mrs. Carolyn Robinson, and Mrs. Faye Humphries.

Mr. Andrews explained that the film is being made in two portions. While both emphasize the development campaign, one twenty minute segment will be of more general interest. This part of the film will be shown in chapel and used for alumnae and civic programs. The second portion will be broadcast by WRAL-TV shortly before the official launching of the Raleigh area development drive.

Some twelve minutes of the first portion of the movie has been prepared. This is centered on the activities a prospective student at Meredith would observe if she visited on the campus. In addition to President E. Bruce Heilman, Dean Louise Fleming, and Dean L. A. Peacock, many students, faculty, and friends have been involved. The black and white production will be narrated by Mr. Lawhos, Dr. Heilman, and others. It will be produced in mid-summer.

faculty fellowship for international studies by the Ford Foundation. Mr. Oliver Williams, instructor of political science, has received a summer travel and study grant from the Institute of the Study of the American States.

Dr. Gates will spend the academic year of 1967-1968 at Duke University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in a cooperative program, designed to encourage post-doctoral reading and research.
