MEREDITH COLLEGE, RALEIGH, N. C., SEPTEMBER 28, 1967

No. 1

Three Meredith students inspect the progress of the new Carlyle Campbell Library.

Construction of Library Begins Campus Development Program

President E. Bruce Heilman and the Institute of Advancement are currently involved in the three-year $5 million development campaign for Meredith. The Carlyle Campbell Library, a dormitory, a college center, and a physical education facility are included in the plans.

A library construction contract for $723,097 was awarded to the Clancey and Theys Construction Company of Raleigh during the summer. Furnishing and equipment for the library, when added to construction costs, will bring the total to less than a million dollars. The new library will be named for President Emeritus Carlyle Campbell who retired in 1966 after serving as president of the college for twenty-seven years. Construction is expected to be completed in time for use at the beginning of the 1968-69 school term.

The new dormitory, providing space for an additional one hundred resident students, and the physical education building are to be under construction as soon as Meredith receives final approval from the Baptist State Convention.

Plans Made to Expand New Exchange Program

Six Raleigh Colleges Will Participate

Plans for expansion of the Meredith and North Carolina State University inter-institutional cooperation to involve all Raleigh colleges and universities won approval at the meeting of the Meredith College Board of Trustees Tuesday, September 26. The trustees continued Tuesday morning a semi-annual session begun Monday night at a dinner meeting.

The group also approved a new program providing the local community opportunity for "culture under the stars" through expanded use of the McIver Amphitheater. The amphitheater will be made available to the Raleigh community for such activities as operettas, dramas, and pop and symphony concerts, as well as civic and church conferences.

A move was also begun to increase student fees, effective next year. The executive committee asked that fees be raised $150 per semester, with 100 going for tuition and $50 for room and board.

Expanding the inter-institutional cooperation program will mean involvement by not only Meredith and NCSU, but also Peace, St. Mary's, St. Augustine's, and Shaw University. The presidents of all six colleges have already begun meetings

"Censorship" Chosen as Theme Concerts, Lectures Planned

"Censorship in a Democratic Society" will be the theme for the 1967-68 concert and lecture series at Meredith College.

First speaker on the program will be Sam Ragan, executive editor of

The News and Observer and The Raleigh Times. Ragan's topic will be "The Courts and Obscenity." He will speak at 8 p.m. on November 9 and his lecture, like other events in the series, will be held in Jones auditorium and will be open to the public.

Dr. Oron J. Hale, professor of history at the University of Virginia, will speak at 8 p.m. on December 5 on "The Censorship Policies of the Nazi Government."

Dr. Daniel Lord of the well known marionette artists firm, Lords Internationale, will appear at 7:30 p.m. on January 26.

Although no date has been scheduled, the speaker for February will be Jesse Helms, executive director of Capital Broadcasting Company of Raleigh. Helms will discuss news censorship. The speaker in March will be United States Senator Sam Ervin, who will discuss the overall theme of the series, "Censorship in a Democratic Society."

Dr. and Mrs. George Lucktenberg of Spartanburg, S. C., known professionally as "The Lucktenberg Duo," will present a program of chamber music at 8 p.m. on April 17. Dr. Lucktenberg is a member of the music faculty at Converse College.

The final lecture in the series will be given by Dr. R. Baird Shumann

Kappa Nu Sigma Announces Acceptance of New Members

The Kappa Nu Sigma Honor Society announced the acceptance of new members in the annual spring meeting. Among the members were recent graduates Frances Bridgers, Blanche Noel Perry, and Judy Jones Perry. The seniors include Judith Alexander, Theresa Ayers, Barbara Bailey, Nancy Boyd, Carole Evans, Ann Hill, Brenda Carole Jones, Beth Porter, Beth Smith, Ginny Sutton, and Jane Waller.

Membership in the society is based on scholastic standing maintained over a period of two or more years. The members work together throughout the year to encourage and uphold high scholastic excellence on the campus. Among the activities planned for this year are a chapel program in the fall and a lecture by a distinguished speaker in the spring.

Serving the society as officers this year are Carole Evans, president; Beth Porter, vice-president; Ginny Sutton, secretary; Theresa Ayers, treasurer; and Brenda Carole Jones, reporter. Dr. Norma Rose is the sponsor.

Radio Program
Every Sunday at 5:30 p.m., WPTF will air a Meredith College program. Mrs. Faye Humphries, as well as Dianne Jackson, Charlotte Schaible, and Mary Helen Simms plan and tape the five minute resume of campus events.

New Members Fill Vacancies In College Faculty, Staff

Appointment of fourteen new faculty members and three staff members has filled vacancies created during the spring and summer by retirement, resignation, and a leave of absence.

Dr. Charles A. Davis, a former instructor at North Carolina State University, has been named assistant professor and head of the mathematics department. He received his B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. at NCSU.

Other new faculty members include:

Mrs. Janie S. Archer, instructor in health and physical education. A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, Mrs. Archer has taught previously at Mount Olive Junior College, Converse College and East Carolina University.

Dr. Gloria Blanton, assistant professor of psychology. She will also be a member of the administrative staff as co-ordinator of long-range planning and a consultant in counseling and educational testing. She received her B.A. degree from Wake Forest University, her M.A. from biology. A graduate of Campbell College and Candidate for the M.S. degree at NCSU, Mr. Smith is the former Head Residence Counselor at NCSU and has also taught in Wake and Harnett counties.

Mrs. LaRose Spooner, instructor

"Vittles and Fiddles"

Square dancing and live country music were featured at the "Vittles and Fiddles" supper held Sunday night, September 24, in the Hut. The proceeds, amounting to $200, will be donated to the North Carolina School for the Blind.

English Instructor Honored by Group

Dean Louise Fleming has announced that a donation to be known as the Carolyn Peacock Poole Gift is being given to the American Association of University Women. This contribution, from the Raleigh branch, honors Mrs. Poole, instructor of English at Meredith. Although gifts honoring certain A.A.U.W. members for special service are widespread, this is the first presented by the local branch.

Mrs. Poole was selected because during her term as fellowship chairman for the branch, the contributions were the highest in the history of the local organization. During her term as president, the branch made one of the most significant changes in its history by inviting to its membership all eligible Negro women in the area.

Five hundred dollars will be given to the A.A.U.W. to be awarded to women throughout the world who are doing doctoral or post-doctoral work. Dr. Lois Frazier, the present fellowship program chairman, said that it is possible the award may be added to the endowment of the Elizabeth Avery Colton Fellowship.

Very few North Carolina women have received this honor, although Dr. Leslie Syron was a recipient in 1959.
