Fourteen Seniors Named For "Who's Who" Honor Leadership, Service Among Selection Criteria

Dean L. A. Peacock has recently announced the selection of fourteen seniors who are to be included in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges for 1967-1968. The students were chosen by straw ballots from members of the Senior Class and by votes from the members of the faculty. The faculty committee on student government was responsible for final tabulation and scoring.

The students selected display excellence and sincerity in scholarship, leadership and participation in extracurricular and academic activities, citizenship and service to the school, and promise of future usefulness. The number of students chosen is based on a quota of the total enrollment.

The following students were selected: Susan Chapman, religion major from Spencer, president of the Meredith Christian Association; Hope Glover, sociology major from Lake Waccamaw, chairman of the Nominating Committee and editor of the Meredith College Handbook;

Lynn Dodge, history major from Lynchburg, Virginia, president of the Meredith Recreation Association.

Also elected were Alma Jo Hall, history major from Raleigh, president of non-resident students; Brenda Carole Jones, math major from Oxford, former secretary of the Judicial Board; Jane Leonard, English major from Lexington, editor of THE TWIG; Carolyn McGrady, religion major from West Jefferson, chairman of the Judicial Board; Shan Pruitt, English major from Louisville, president of the Senior Class.

Court Censorship of News To Be Reviewed by Ragan

The first speaker in this year's concert and lectures series is Mr. Sam Ragan, executive editor of the Raleigh News and Observer. Mr. Ragan, who will speak November 9 at 8:00 p.m., has been with the newspaper since 1941.

Besides work in journalism, he teaches courses at North Carolina State University on contemporary issues and creative writing. His versatility shows itself in one of his books, The Tree in the Far Pas- ture, a poetry collection.

The topic of Mr. Ragan's lecture will be "The Courts and Obscenity," one aspect of a problem he has been studying for several years. He has published several magazine articles dealing with censorship and a book entitled Free Press and Fair Trial.

BULLETIN

The faculty committee of the Student Government Association has approved the Legislative Board's proposal concerning the extension of curfew hours. If the proposal is passed by the student body, college closing hours will be changed to 12:00 p.m. on Friday, 1:00 a.m. on Saturday, and 11:30 p.m. on Sunday.

THE TWIG will include more details about the change in the next issue.

Juniors Place Second; Faculty Shines as "Hippies"

Class of '68 Scores Corn Huskin' Win

The Class of 1968 took first-place honors in the annual Corn Huskin' competition on October 26. Their winning theme, "Literature through the Ages," was supported by their varied costumes. Students and guests were reminded of Beowulf's fight with Grendel, the journey of Chaucer's pilgrims, and the tea parties in Cranford. The seniors took first place in costumes, hog-calling, tall-tale, song, and attendance competition with ninety-nine percent of the class present.

The juniors' theme, "Sisters through the Ages," won second place. In individual competition the juniors won first place in corn husking, two second places in apple-bobbing, and song, and two third places in costume and tall tale. They tied with the freshmen for second place in attendance.

Sophomores entertained the audience as cartoon characters assuming various campus roles. They won three second places in costume, corn husking, and tall tale competition. They also placed third in four events: apple-bobbing, hog-calling, song, and attendance.

Freshmen exhibited a colorful parade based on their theme, The Wizard of Oz. The underclassmen captured a first place win in apple-

Proposed Growth Of Trustee Board To Be Considered

Meredith College trustees will propose to the Baptist State Convention that the number of trustees be increased from the present twenty-eight to thirty-six.

Dr. L. M. Massey of Zebulon, chairman of the Board of Trustees, and President E. Bruce Heilman said the increase is desirable in order to give Meredith wider representation throughout North Carolina.

The proposal provides for adding two trustees per year until the maximum of thirty-six members are serving. The Baptist State Convention appoints all trustees, and if the Meredith proposal is approved, would this year name nine instead of seven persons to the Meredith board and would follow this practice for the next four years.

Artists Plan Meeting Here

North Carolina Group Sets Annual Show at Meredith

Professional artists and interested art patrons throughout North Carolina will gather on the Meredith campus Sunday, November 26, for the annual meeting of the Associated Artists of North Carolina. After a business session and special program led by Mr. Leonard White, president of the organization, the members will begin the eighth annual open exhibition.

This non-profit organization, the only association in North Carolina which fosters the interests of professional artists, promotes education in art and serves the community in its artistic endeavors. The eighth annual open exhibition will attempt to fulfill their organizational purposes.

Holding four major exhibitions a year, the Associated Artists of North Carolina chose Meredith College for the location of this one major showing. Whereas the other three main displays during the year exhibit paintings of a select group within the association, this exhibit will have works of any member who chooses

Noffsinger to Speak Here On "Emotional Maturity"

Dr. Jack R. Noffsinger, pastor of Knollwood Baptist Church in Winston-Salem, will be the first speaker in the post-orientation counsel group meetings at Meredith. He will speak November 7 in Jones Auditorium at 6:45 p.m. His topic will be "Emotional Maturity."

He is the author of a book written for young people, It's Your Turn Now, and has been a member of religious focus week teams at various southern colleges. He has spoken to numerous State Baptist Union conventions and has often participated in student week at Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly.

Dr. Noffsinger, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, graduated from the University of Richmond and from Colgate-Rochester Baptist Theological Seminary. After being ordained in 1942, he served three years as a Navy chaplain, winning a citation for the Iwo Jima campaign. He later taught and directed religious activities at the University of Richmond.

After serving in Florida, he came to Knollwood Baptist Church of Winston-Salem in 1957.

A Meredith trustee, he has served on the Winston-Salem Board of Trustees of Wake Forest University.
