

Facts From The College Grapevine

What senior student at Meredith has a boyfriend named "Bugar"?

Who is that tall dark male stranger that frequents the Meredith cafeteria? (We know you've seen him!)

Congratulations to the cast (as of now, unannounced) of "The Sound of Music."

And what about the senior suite that "bit the dust" at the same time?

Congratulations Emily, Sue, Martha, and Mrs. Elliot.

What junior student made her debut at the Mourning Room singing "Cotton Fields"?

Where were you when the lights went out in New North on night of Sept. 8?

Did you hear about the new topless dancer on First Faircloth? Booba-looba!

Did you know that the Meredith students own at least twenty-five per cent of the Player's Retreat, due to their generous contributions to the Budweiser and Schlitz foundations?

What freshman hall tried to start a water battle when the sophomores were singing, "We love you freshman" last Thursday?

Meredith College was well represented at the ball game last weekend on the bleachers, under the bleachers, behind the concession stands, on top of the concession stands, in the air, in the arms of her date, etc.

What Meredith junior has been sharing so generously her boyfriends' talents with the Meredith community? Thanks Chris!

Dr. Joyner Entertains

On Monday, September 20, Dr. Charles Joyner, Associate Professor of History at St. Andrew's College in Laurinburg, N. C., spoke to the Meredith community on "Folk Lore and the American Experience."

Dr. Joyner had a variety of instruments including wind instruments and percussion. He explained the origin of the instruments and played on selection of his own choice on each one.

After a brief history of the origins of folk music as we know it today, Dr. Joyner surprised the audience by playing songs familiar to the public today that were actually written hundreds of years ago.

The audience participated in the singing of several songs, including "Come By Here, Lord."
