

Annie and Helen in a moving scene in which Helen first realizes the meaning of hand-lettered and signaled words.

MIRACLE WORKER OPENS

THE MIRACLE WORKER opens this week slated for two nightly productions on Wednesday, April 4, and Thursday, April 5, at 8:00 p.m. in Jones Auditorium. Starring Ruth Anne Stephenson as Helen Keller and Pam Faison as Annie Sullivan, the play is free of charge to Meredith students and faculty. A small admission fee will be charged to the general public.

A scene from the production of THE MIRACLE WORKER with (left) Ruth Anne Stephenson as Helen Keller and (right) Pam Faison as Annie Sullivan.

THE TWIG

Newspaper of the Students of Meredith College

Vol. XLVII

MEREDITH COLLEGE, RALEIGH, N. C.

APRIL 5, 1973

NO. 23

Meredith delegation to NCSL wins award

An award for "Best Small College Legislation" was presented to the Meredith delegation to the North Carolina Student Legislature on the final day of the session, April 1, at the Sir Walter Hotel. Sponsoring a bill for protection of information or sources received and used by a newspaper, the Meredith delegation received the honor by a special committee consideration of the N.C.S.L. The award for best legislation from a large school went to UNC-CH for a medical care reform bill. At the session, John Prevette of Wayne Community College was voted "Best Delegate," Brent McKnight of UNC-CH received the "Best Senate Debater" award, and Ken Hammon of East Carolina won the "Best House Debater" award. Walker Regan, of Duke University, was voted in as 1973-74 Student Governor of NCSL.

President Chuck Bunn convened the five-day 36th Annual Session of the North Carolina Student Legislature on Wednesday, March 28, at the Hotel Sir Walter in Raleigh. Approximately 250 students representing 30 North Carolina colleges and universities were attending the session. Supreme Court Justice Susie Sharp administered the oath of office to the student legislators at the opening session, followed by the first convening of the Senate and House at 2:30 on Wednesday. A reception was held at NCSU Chancellor Caldwell's residence on Wednesday afternoon, and an evening reception was given for members of the General Assembly, student legislators, and their advisors and sponsors on Wednesday night at the executive mansion.

Governor Holshouser spoke to the group at 2:30 on Friday, preceded by Speaker Jim Ramsey at 2:00. In the Governor's Proclamation released on Wednesday, Governor Holshouser stated:

Today, we convene the 36th Annual Session of the North Carolina Student Legislature with 30 institutions of higher education being represented. Since the state Student Legislature was created in 1936, it has provided an opportunity for students to learn the legislative processes and practical problems in state government.

This year legislation will include a bill to improve school bus safety, a proposal for a state library, a government reform package, a bill to give rehabilitated ex-felons the right to vote, an act to allow death with dignity for those who are living only with the

(Continued on Page 4)

Marine archaeology topic for program

On Monday, April 9, the Cultural Affairs Committee will sponsor a program on marine archaeology. Representatives of Underwater Archaeological Associates, Inc., whose purpose is "...the scientific and meticulous exploration, documentation, and excavation of underwater archaeological sites, followed by the exacting preservation and analysis of the artifacts recovered..." will be presenting the program which will include slides and exhibits.

(Continued on Page 4)

TWIG newsbriefs

ELECTIONS

Voters in the Second Slate of the General Election of SGA Officers probably noticed a different kind of ballot -- a computer card. The Elections Board has been trying to make efforts to improve the elections system at Meredith College and felt an improved method of counting votes was the first step to take. The computer card voting system offers a greater accuracy in the vote count since human error is eliminated. Also, the time required to count votes can be divided by 2 or 3, depending upon the election itself. The only hang-up in the system involves the voter -- she must mark her card very darkly with a number 2 pencil. Otherwise, her ballot gets thrown in the reject column and requires an Elections Board member to re-mark the card. The method presently in use involves having the computer cards punched by a 514 Reproducer and sorted by a machine.

RECITAL

Miss Elise Davison Wall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher H. Wall, Jr., of 110 Webster Drive, Lexington, will present her junior voice recital Tuesday, April 10 at 8 p.m. in the recital hall of Jones Hall. The recital is open to the public free of charge.

Miss Wall is a junior voice major. She is a member of the Meredith Chorale and Ensemble, vice president of Sigma Alpha Iota, an honorary music fraternity, president of Faircloth Residence Hall and a member of the Astrotekton Society.

Works included in the program will be by Handel, Mozart, Faure, Depare, Gibbs and Massenet.

Flic and his Orchestra will be performing a blanket concert Friday night, April 6, at 8:00 p.m. in the Court. The concert is sponsored by the College Center Association.

Lemmon honored by Piloters

Pleasant surprises often come in small packages and at the most unexpected moments, as Dr. Sarah Lemmon of the Department of History would undoubtedly attest. Dr. Lemmon was recently honored by the Pilot Club of Raleigh as the Woman of the Year for her varied civic and professional contributions. On March 19, she was given a plaque at a banquet for that purpose and was totally unaware of the honor until the speech introducing the winner began to sound too familiar!

Dr. Lemmon, herself, a Pilot many years ago, was induced to go to the banquet by a member who often asked both

Miss Lemmon and her mother to attend affairs sponsored by the club. Interestingly, Dr. Lemmon herself had nominated a local woman for the honor; this was another impetus to attend the meeting. After arriving at the meeting, the two conversed with some old friends and Dr. Lemmon noticed that her friend was taking several photographs of her. She thought this odd, but dismissed the thought as the banquet began. As the time to award the plaque approached and introductory speeches began, Dr. Lemmon received a note on a program congratulating her for her fine work in the community. Puzzled, she thanked her congratulator. Later, she realized that this was to warn her that she had won and thus give her time to regain her composure. But even by the time she had recognized herself in the speech and had heard her name called, she was overwhelmed with disbelief and admits that she was quite at a loss for words. She accepted the honor with a short, simple expression of gratitude. It was a perfect surprise. Even the presence of other co-workers on the Oakwood project had been explained so as to allay any suspicion.