The fellowships program is the oldest non-university program in the United States and the largest in the world exclusively for women graduate students.

Meredith College adds a vocational focus to its liberal arts approach to education this year with the implementation of a Human Services Program and a bachelor of science degree program in business administration.

"We are continuing to put major emphasis on our liberal arts program," said Dr. Allen Burris, "but we are now trying to add vocational focus in a more direct fashion. Our educational thrust is basically the same but students may now receive specific assistance toward a vocational area."

The Human Services Program will be under the direction of Eugene Sumner, sociology instructor. Sumner will plan and coordinate the program that could provide students of any academic discipline with entry-level skills into the labor market.

Under the bachelor of science degree program in business administration, women would be encouraged toward and prepared for movement into the business management field.

The Placement Office is posting a bulletin board this year in the post office. Part-time off-campus jobs are listed for students' benefit.

Joyce Martin's Black Perspective

The National Fellowships Fund is offering a limited number of graduate fellowships to Black Americans who intend to pursue a career in higher education. These fellowships are offered as part of a broader Foundation program of assistance to historically disadvantaged minorities (such as Black Americans), whose opportunities for participation in higher education have been limited as the result of racial discrimination and/or other factors.

In order to be considered for one of these fellowships, applicants must meet all of the following qualifications:

1. They must be citizens of the United States.
2. They must be enrolled in or planning to enter an accredited U.S. graduate school offering the doctoral degree in their field of study.
3. They must be currently engaged in or planning to enter a career in higher education.

Eligibility is limited to (a) applicants who plan to pursue full time study toward the doctoral degree in the Arts or Sciences or (b) applicants who hold a first post-baccalaureate professional degree—such as the MBA, MPA, MSW or M.Ed.—and plan to continue on to the doctoral degree in preparation for a career in higher education.

These awards are for one year only, but are renewable upon reapplication if the fellow maintains satisfactory progress toward the doctorate. The fellow will be expected to study full time and to complete the requirements for the doctorate as soon as possible.

Fellowship awards for 1974-75 will include the full tuition and fees required by the graduate school, an allowance of $300 for books and supplies, and a monthly stipend of $250 to help meet living costs. A married fellow may apply for an additional stipend of $50 a month for his/her spouse and each dependent child, provided that dependency can be substantiated. Applicants receiving

Everyone is welcome.

Dissertation-Year awards may apply for a research allowance in lieu of the book allowance.

Twelve-month awards are available for applicants planning to study full time during the summer session 1974 and the academic year 1974-1975, starting with July 1974. Ten-month awards are available for those planning to study full time during the academic year 1974-1975, starting with September 1974.

All applicants are required to submit Graduate Record Examination Scores for the Aptitude and Advanced Tests and are advised that these tests will be administered on October 27 and December 8, 1973, and that the deadlines for registering for them are October 2 and November 13, 1973.

Arrangements for taking the tests should be made by the applicant directly with the Graduate Record Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 955, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Applicants should request that their scores be sent directly to "The Ford Foundation, Graduate Fellowships, Code Number R2251."

The deadline for submitting completed applications and all supporting documents is January 5, 1974.

The names of the winners will be announced on March 25, 1974.

Application forms must be requested by the individual applicant. No applications will be sent to intermediaries. For application forms and additional information write to:
