Building honors Harris

by Cynthia Washington

In addition to enabling the construction of a campus chapel, The Visions Program has also made possible the construction of a new business building. It will be called the Shearon Harris Business Building, named after the late Meredith trustee.

A member of the Board of Trustees at Meredith, Shearon Harris was president of the Chamber of Commerce, chairman of Carolina Power and Light Company, and a member of the board of directors for a number of corporations. "It is appropriate that the building be named after him," said Dr. Lois Frazier, chairman of the business department, "because he has done a lot for Meredith and was an outstanding business leader."

Officially plans for construction of the Harris building have been going on for about six to eight months. The red markers near Joyner and Cate Center are possible sites for the building. Construction is expected to begin in the Spring of '81; the Harris building should be ready for use in the fall of '82.

The new campus addition will be electronically sophisticated with computer terminals, seminar rooms, and a large meeting room seating approximately 100 persons. The business department will share the Harris building with one other department, which is not known at present.

"I am excited about the building," said President Weems, "because it will increase classroom space by 40 percent (10 or 12 additional classrooms), and it allows us to build on the frontier of technology."

Lisa Sergio, internationally known news analyst will address the Mayor's Committee for United Nation's Week here at Meredith.

1981 Oak Leaves news

Yearbook pictures scheduled

The photographers from Yearbook Associates will be here soon! Senior portraits will be taken October 20-24.

Outdoor portraits will be made October 20-23, while indoor portraits will be made October 24. Only outdoor portraits will be used in the Oak Leaves. A sitting fee of $2.50 pays for both indoor and outdoor shootings. Sign-up sheets for sitting times will be posted in the cafeteria October 15. Club pictures will be taken November 3-7. Club presidents will be contacted by the Oak Leaves staff as to when and where the picture will be taken. There is no charge for club pictures this year. Underclass portraits will be taken November 10-14, 17-18. Juniors are scheduled for November 10-11, Sophomores are scheduled for November 12-13, and Freshmen are scheduled for November 14 & 17.

November 18 will be a make-up day for any indoor portraits. Underclassmen pay a sitting fee of $2.50. Sign-up sheets for underclass sitting will be posted in the cafeteria November 5. Portraits are taken in the Light Studio (122 Jones). All students are encouraged to have their portraits made at this time. The photographers will be on campus again in January, but not as much time will be set aside for student portraits. If you have any questions concerning this schedule, or are interested in being on the Oak Leaves staff, contact Jill Kibler, 828-4300, 203 Poteat.

the class or the lecture, call 782-7583.

Betty Bullard and Ambrose Brasilton are speakers on campus during the next week. If questions, contact the Education or Physical Ed. department.

Sergio addresses mayor's committee on MC campus

by Sandra Vail

Meredith will host the Mayor's Committee for United Nation's Week Observance for all North Carolina chapters at a dinner October 16 at 6:30 p.m. in Belk Dining Hall. Lisa Sergio, international news analyst, will be the guest speaker. Her topics will be "Can the UN Survive the 80's? A Challenge to the Young."

Ms. Sergio will remain on campus and will be participating in various activities the following day.

Dr. Rosalie Gates, chairperson for the Wake County chapter since 1972, and Paula Wetherington, student coordinator, are in charge of the event commemorating the National UN Day (October 24) and the United Nation's 35th anniversary. This year the UN's emphasis will be on world hunger, and the Mayors' committees will hold fundraisers throughout the year for this cause.

In preparation for the upcoming banquet, the Meredith Historical Society invited Dr. Keith Peterson, representative from the UN, to speak on the composition and function of the organization. Meredith students are urged to attend the dinner. Resident students may obtain free meal tickets by contacting Paula Wetherington, 828-6536 by Thursday, October 8.

Nonresident students may purchase a ticket for $2.50, and tickets for the general public are $6.00.

Many Meredith students are participating in the event. Those involved are Paula Wetherington (student coordinator), Cindy Rinker (program cover design), Jackie Revels (publicity), and serving as hostesses are Terri Hoffman, Rona Still, Debra Still, Anna Holland, Teresa Deshields, Kim Ball, Deanie Griffin, Sandy Ensley, and Cathy Anderson. Additional volunteers are needed to serve as hostesses. For further information, contact Paula Wetherington, 828-6536.
