

Honor Societies Induct Members

by Jenny Barker

Recently honors were bestowed on several Meredith students for their high scholastic achievements. The Beta Beta Beta Biology Honor Society inducted twelve Meredith women in its annual survey of future biologists. The new members are: Leanne Blake, Susan Britt, Elizabeth Cooper, Lillia Davenport, Elizabeth Dawkins, Pamela Dickens, Margaret Edwards, Susan Furgison, Susan Foster, Peggy Patrick, Mary Stone, and Sandra Vall.

Induction is based solely on scholastic merit. Each student must have a 3.5 average in biology and a 3.2 average overall. The Society also presented Dr. Bunn, Dr. Kepler, and Dr. Reid honorary memberships. Dr. Bunn strongly feels that having an honor society within an individual department gives the students "a sense of family -- a sense of belonging." Certainly such an honor induces students to strive for the best.

The Gamma Rho Chapter of Delta Mu Delta, the honor society for business majors, also recently inducted new members. The ceremony was held on March 31 in the Alumnae House. Several proud parents and Dr. Weems, an honorary member of Delta Mu Delta, attended the ceremony conducted by Susan Jones and Susan Wessels.

The new members include: Lori Cowan, Susan Davis, Susan Eason, Virginia Gentry, Katherine Harless, Allison Honeycutt, Kimberly Robinson, Cheryl Steele, and Cheryl Whitesides. Members must be in the top twenty percent of their class, have completed twenty-one hours in their major, and have a 3.2 average in business. Dr. Frazier is very proud of these students and recognizes their induction as a "significant honor."

Quest for Fire

For years motion pictures like "Star Wars," "Star Trek," and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" have excited our imagination by taking us far into the distant future.

Now 20th Century-Fox presents a motion picture which takes us to a time that is just as unknown and mysterious... the distant past.

"Quest For Fire" is a spectacular science-fantasy adventure set 80,000 years ago, a period when men lived as members of fiercely loyal tribes, scattered throughout a vast, unexplored world. These tribes -- some of them savage, others peaceful -- battled each other and their environment for survival.

The key to their survival was fire -- to warm their campsites and drive off attacking tribes and predatory animals.

"Quest For Fire" is the extraordinary adventure of three courageous warriors who venture beyond the safety of their tribal campsite when their fire is destroyed during a battle with a rival tribe. Although these warriors possessed fire, they did not yet know how to create it. In the course of their perilous journey to find another source of the sacred, life-giving flame, they encounter vicious beasts, cannibals who nearly take them captive and -- most important of all -- they discover the secret of how to make fire anew.

In its initial engagements in New York and Los Angeles, "Quest For Fire" broke attendance records previously held by "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." The visual beauty and excitement of this magical re-creation of an alien, primitive world stunned audiences and impressed critics, who called it "the next 'Star Wars'" and "the movie adventure of a lifetime."

"Quest For Fire" continues to create excitement as it opens at theatres across the country.

Although it is rated R, the film has been applauded by educators as a unique and important production, teaching us about our ancestors and the beginnings of our civilization while entertaining us with its spectacle. In France, where "Quest For Fire" had its world premiere, the book upon which the film was based is required reading in the public schools, and the film itself was endorsed by numerous scholars as an event which all students should have the opportunity to experience.

The French Academy of Motion Picture Arts & Sciences voted "Quest For Fire" the Best Picture of the Year Award (the equivalent of our Oscar), and in this country the film was voted a special Best picture prize by the Academy of Science Fiction, Fantasy and Horror Films.

"Quest For Fire" is now playing (or will soon be opening) in your city. A Michael Gruskoff Presentation of an ICC-International Cinema Corporation Production, the Jean-Jacques Annaud Film stars Everett McGill, Rae Dawn Chong, Ron Perlman and Nameer El-Kadi. Annaud directed from a screenplay by Gerard Brach, based on the novel by J. H. Rosny, Sr. The music is by Philippe Sarde.
