Poteat Supports Crop Walk

Sunday afternoon October 3 was a beautiful day for any outdoor activity, but it was especially inviting to the people who walked in the annual CROP WALK. A city-wide walk from Meredith's amphitheater to the State Capitol, many Meredith students participated by either walking themselves or sponsoring someone else.

In support of this program to aid local and world hunger, the women of Poteat Dorm created a competition between halls to determine which one could raise the most money. With 95 percent of the dorm's residents contributing, a total of $200 was pledged and collected under the leadership of Deena Lancaster and Debbie Seals on first floor, Susan Pearson on second, and Cindy Neal on third. Both second and third floor reached 100 percent of their goals with first floor following close behind.

The actual walk itself began on Sunday at 2:00 p.m. with Fran Allen, Kim Causey, and Linda Otten walking as representatives for Poteat. The entire dorm enjoyed a celebration party on the following Tuesday at which time Dorm President, Kim Causey, declared the competition a complete success and thanked everyone for their participation.

Housing Essay

As part of an ongoing program to raise awareness of current housing issues on the nation's college campuses, Fred Napolitano, president of the National Association of Home Builders, today announced a national essay contest for college students.

"More than any other group of Americans," Napolitano said, "today's college students have the most to lose if national priorities are not set to reverse a serious erosion in housing opportunities for the young."

Napolitano said he hoped the contest would elicit from students their ideas about the kind of housing they would like to find after graduation and the trade-offs they would be willing to accept in order to make housing more affordable.

Students entering the contest are asked to describe in 500-1,000 words: "What do you expect in terms of location, density, design and financing in tomorrow's homes and how will these affect your lifestyle?"

Napolitano said that although builders were already constructing less expensive townhouses, duplexes and walk-up condominiums to reduce housing costs, they welcomed new ideas and suggestions from members of the community who would be looking for affordable, yet dynamic housing alternatives in the next few years.

The first-place winner of the essay contest will receive $1,000 and a trip to Washington. Second and third place winners will receive $750 and $500 respectively.

To be eligible, entries must be from registered full-time college students and received no later than November 30, 1982 by the National Association of Home Builders, Public Affairs-Student Program, 15th & M Streets, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005.

Winners will be selected by an independent panel of judges and notified during the last week in December. All essays become the property of NAHB.

Schafer to Speak

Alice T. Schafer, retired professor of mathematics, will speak at convocation on Monday, November 8. Ms. Schafer is one of the founders of the Association for Women in Mathematics (AWM) and served as its second president from 1973-75. Ms. Schafer has served as chairperson of the Committee on Women in Mathematics which is sponsored jointly by the American Mathematical Society and the Mathematical Association of America from 1975-81. She has also been involved in the work of Committee W on the Status of Women in the Academic Community in the State of Massachusetts and later as chair of the National Committee.

Alice T. Schafer, Professor Emeritus, Wellesley College.

New History Program Planned

The Department of History and Politics has announced a new job Track under the American Civilization major, according to Frank Grubbs, department chairman. This is the Prelaw and-or Preparalegal Track. Although professors have been advising individual students already in prelaw and preparalegal studies, this is the first organized job Track.

The Track was worked out by Dr. Sarah Lemmon, lawyer Emily Johnson, and Dr. Frank Grubbs.

The Track gives a student a major in American Civilization while preparing her for a law-related occupation.

The Track will provide law related courses from many departments other than history and politics and will include Legal Research, Legal Survey, and Introduction to American Law, all taught by Emily Johnson. Introduction to American Law can be taken only in the junior year; Legal Research and Legal Survey in the senior year. A minimum of a B grade must be achieved in these courses for paralegal credits. Prelaw credit remains the usual college grading.

The new job Track will not only prepare a student for law-related occupations but will also allow a student to take seven hours of the paralegal program while working on her B.A. degree. This leaves only nine hours to be taken for paralegal certification after the B.A. degree.
