Campus NewsNotes

MEESE OKAYS A COMPROMISE LIBRARY FOR REAGAN AT STANFORD.

In a recent letter, Edwin Meese told Stanford the White House wants to put the presidential library at Stanford, and said he was confident he could agree to a compromise over Reagan's insistence the library include a "public policy center."

Stanford has said it wants the library, but not any such policy center or museums.

Stanford's trustees will vote on Meese's suggestions in February.

AN ALL-MALE YALE SECRET SOCIETY DECIDES TO KEEP BARRING WOMEN.

Wolf's Head, one of the 3 remaining all-male clubs left on campus, decided by alumni vote in January to keep women out.

A court excused a Princeton eating club from antisexism rules in 1981 because the club was private and voluntary, as is Yale's Wolf's Head.

DISCIPLINE IS A FAKE ISSUE, MANY EDUCATORS SAY.

Many colleges began crackdowns on discipline problems in the late seventies, says Scott Rickard of the University of Maryland, and therefore don't really need to do more now.

In the wake of President Reagan's recent speeches calling for an assault on "unruly behavior," former U. Wisconsin researcher Ellen Jane Hollingsworth contends very few schools have discipline problems they don't already have the means to handle.

Hollingsworth co-authored a new book called "School Discipline," finding most discipline "problems" are in fact minor infractions, and that "very few" of them end up in court.
