Honor Council Explains Procedure

by Bonnie Bugnar, Honor Council Chair

"I do solemnly pledge my honor that as long as I am a student at Meredith College, I will faithfully uphold the principles of the Honor System and will respect and observe its requirements. . ." Many of you may remember repeating this pledge as you stood with lighted candle beside your new-found classmates and friends at your Freshman Honor Code Ceremony. Upon signing this pledge, you took your final step in becoming a member of the Meredith Community. For the majority of you, this may seem like your last confrontation with the Honor Code. However, during your time at Meredith, you have no doubt enjoyed the benefits of this system - take-home tests, no meal cards, etc. The backbone of this relationship of trust is your commitment to the Honor code and the personal integrity which it requires.

We, on the Honor Council and on your Student Government Association, realize that the last contact most of you have had with the Honor Council was during Freshman Orientation. We recognize that many Meredith students are unfamiliar with the council, and we believe it would be beneficial to reinform you about its members and proceedings.

The Honor Council makes up one of the three branches of the Student Government Association. The council is responsible for protecting the rights and privileges of the majority of the Meredith students from the abuses of a few.

The proceedings of the Honor Council actually begin when an infraction of the Honor Code has occurred, and a student is reported or reports herself to the Solicitor General. It is the duty of the Solicitor General to represent Meredith and her student body. She will determine if there is enough evidence to suggest that the student is in violation of the Honor Code as it is set forth in the Student Handbook.

All Honor Council hearings are scheduled

Seniors Take Superbowl, 12-0

by Hannah Simonds

On Monday, October 21, the teams from Third Barefoot and Third Stringfield squared off in a very physical battle to determine which team would be the superbowl champs of this year's intermural flag football, sponsored by Meredith Recreation Association.

The first score of the game came mid-way through the first-half when senior Laura Watts ran the ball in for a touchdown; however, the two point conversion failed. But the freshmen came back tough and enthusiastic on offense. Third Stringfield was on the verge of scoring with a touchdown pass when senior Laura Watts jumped in for the interception. The seniors continued their march down field, threatening to score again. However, the defense of Third Stringfield hung on, and Laura Watts was unable to hold on to the touchdown pass from Martha Inscore. Third Stringfield then took the first timeout of the game to plan the strategy for their final march down field before the half. The freshmen almost completed a successful drive, but the final pass into the endzone to Lynn Langdon was broken up by senior Martha Inscore.

After a ten minute break, the second-half began with the seniors kicking off to the freshmen. About four minutes into the half, the seniors struck again. Laura Watts rushed the ball in for the touchdown, widening the point margin between the seniors and the freshmen to 12-0. But Third Stringfield continued to play hard. However, senior Mia Matthews made an important interception. With about two minutes remaining in the game, the seniors almost converted again, but Martha Inscore's pass was dropped. However, Third Stringfield kept up the intensity. The next play, a pass by senior Laura Watts, was deflected and intercepted by Third Stringfield. The pass was almost run back for a touchdown and brutally stopped by the seniors. By this point the seniors and their fans knew they were to win, and with the last tick of the clock, the seniors of Third Barefoot had won the 1991-92 Superbowl with a score of 12-0.

Even though the Superbowl had been scheduled for last week in conjunction with picnic provided by ARA, Kitty Pate, president of MRA, still felt that the Superbowl was a success. She realized that since last week's rainy weather forced the game to be rescheduled, the attendance would be lower than desired. However, she felt that "it turned out well because there was a lot of spirit shown by both teams but on a positive aspect." Pate also went on to compliment Rhonda Herman, Sled Shelhorse, and Crystal Strickland, the MRA Intermural Coordinators, for the excellent work in putting all of the games and events together.

Thus, the classic confrontation of the Superbowl is over, and it is only fitting that Third Barefoot (the only senior hall to field a team) are champions of this year's superbowl. But the future intermural competitors of this year had better look out for Third Stringfield, for they are enthusiastic, tough, competitive and ready to win!
