

Letter to the Editor: Congratulations to juniors

Dear Editor:

I am writing to congratulate the junior class on their victory at this year's Cornhuskin! I am a junior and have traveled the long road to first place this year at Cornhuskin' along with the rest of the class of '97.

It took our first two years to learn together that unity among our class is what can make it the best. Our co-chairs, Megan and Deborah, used their powerful leadership and outstanding motivation to get the junior class PUMPED UP! In the true Meredith spirit of hard work, perseverance, and positive attitude, Megan and Deborah helped us focus the past learning experiences of our class into a determination that obviously could not be stopped.

Yes, our Cornhuskin' performance was close to perfection, and naturally, it is human nature for those who do not win to blame their losses on anything but themselves. I speak for the entire class when I say we, the class of '97, understand this because we know how feels to work hard and not achieve what is "rightfully" ours.

Cornhuskin' is a time not only for individual class unity, but unity among all classes. The classes of '97 and '99 congratulate the classes of '96 and '98 on a job well done!

A special congratulations to the junior class for this year's hard-earned victory at Cornhuskin' 1995!

Sincerely,
Sarah Katherine Rumney

• USA Today is looking for 60 full-time students to be named to its All-USA Academic team. Students will be featured in a two-page color insert in the newspaper, and the top 20 will receive cash prizes as well. The deadline for nominations is Nov. 17. Nominations are to come from faculty members. They are looking for students who excel not only in scholarship but in leadership roles on and off campus. Students will be judged on an outstanding original academic or intellectual product. Students need recommendations from the nominating professor. Nomination forms and a contact number is located in the Honors office.

• The National Conference on Undergraduate Research (NCUR) is promoting undergraduate research, scholarship and creative activity by sponsoring an undergraduate research conference on April 18-20 in Asheville NC. The deadlines for abstracts is Dec. 10, 1995. Open for students in a wide variety of disciplines.
