Plans after Graduation: Going to London for graduate school in the fall! I'm going to get my Masters in Political Communication, Advocacy, and Campaigning at either Kingston University or the University of Greenwich. I really don't have a plan for after I leave school, but hope to stay in London for a while or join the Foreign Service at the U.S. State Department.

Advice: Have fun but do your work!

Plans after Graduation: I plan to attend graduate school to get my masters of education degree in special education. Still waiting to hear from graduate school though!

Advice: Make as many moments as you can and try your best to remember each of them...take tons of pictures, you will regret it if you don't...go to class even though you would rather be anywhere else...get your work done early so you can party like a rock star every night...always remember that the friends you will make at Meredith are some of the best you will ever have...keep your head up when you feel like you are drowning because you have so much work to do, you will get it done even though it will not seem that way at 4 am when you are still writing furiously and the paper is due at 8 am...above all else...CHERISH EVERY SECOND...TIME WILL FLY BY!

Favorite Meredith Memory: It is impossible to decide what my favorite Meredith memory is because there are so many...but a few that really stick out and I think about every day now that my time here is coming to an end are all the lazy Friday afternoons spent on 4th Vann watching movies with the girls and picking out outfits together for our crazy weekend ahead, all the semi formals and formals, late nights on Frat court, father- daughter dance, putting on our rings together, late night Cornhuskin' practices, Playmakers after our last Cornhuskin', class meetings, lil sis serenades...I could go on forever but I will close now by saying thank you Meredith College and the class of 2005 for the memories...I will miss you!

Advice: Incoming Freshman, go into the college experience with an open mind. Take advantage of meeting new people and making friends. Use the resources provided if you have a question. Talk to your professors – that is what they are there for. Talk to an R.A., go to the career center, and remember there is always going to be someone to listen to you. If you are not a morning person do not take an 8:00 AM class, you will not go! Procrastination is inevitable, but try and pace yourself. Learn your independence. Make the most of the opportunities presented. Study abroad, do an internship, get involved in something! Lots of naps and coffee will help you get through the years. Embrace the traditions of the school. Most of all, enjoy and have fun because it goes by SO fast!!
