ED MEADOWS, recently from Raleigh, and his aunt, Mrs. Clara Bullock, have moved into that tall house on Salter Path Road near the Mimosa Beach. Ed's business was the H. and H. Tire Co. in Raleigh; he is a former Duke and Chicago Bear football player. His aunt, who plans to divide her time between here and Raleigh, enjoys bridge.

ALMOST BUT NOT QUITE RESIDENTS, the LOUIS (call him Tony) DE VIVOS are building a house on Arbor Vitae into which they hope to move in about five years. You'll see them a lot this summer as they expect to commute between here and their near Washington, D.C. home in Adelphi, Maryland, where Tony is an accountant with the Naval Ordnance Lab. Yolonde is Tony's wife. With them during this visit are two of their three daughters: Annette Gray and her husband of W. Laurel, Md., and Elena De Vivo, a spring graduate of the U. of Maryland. The other daughter, Yvonne Dewald, lives in the Washington area, too.

....GROUP THERAPY SESSIONS are in order for newcomers to PKS. The first words anyone ever utters when he answers the doorbell are "Please excuse the mess; we aren't settled yet". And then it's off on the tales of the unfinished paneling in the bedroom, the lost-en-route kitchen sink, the lists of things the movers broke, the path of planks that is serving as a front walk --The best treatment for this kind of problem is a gathering of all these poor things under one roof. Then they take turns telling what upsets them most and by the time they've verbalized it all, they feel much relieved and almost ready to face the next crisis (which will probably be that their ice cube maker is somehow plugged into their W.C.)

THE PINE KNOLL SHORES GARDEN CLUB picked its name from its town when it met Thursday, May 24 at Elizabeth Ames' house, with Peg Knight as co-hostess. Those present also voted to affiliate with the Garden Club of North Carolina, to limit their membership to 25, in order to be able to meet in homes (although they will hold some open meetings), to meet on the 4th Monday of each month at 10:00 AM, and to accept as their first challenge the fixing up of the little island on Mimosa's entrance to PKS..... Elizabeth Ames was elected President, Newell Haller, Vice-president, Kay Jerome, Secretary, Peg Knight, Treasurer, and Martha Flynn, Project Chairman. Interested gardeners may still become members, as there are several openings; diligent diggers are definitely desired. The next meeting will be Monday, June 24 at Louise Aponyok's, with Mabel Hemphill as co-hostess. Guest speaker: Randy Turner.

Got a question about your soil? Wonder why birds aren't coming to your bird feeder? Want to know what to plant to avoid erosion? Take advantage of your local SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE OFFICE, in the post office building in Beaufort (mailing address, P.O. Box 125, or call 728-3193) where you can talk with Mrs. Margie Carraway and find lots of folders and readables to take home and mull over. One we have is called "Invite Birds to Your Home", put out by the Soil Conservation Service of the Dept. of Agriculture. It describes trees and bushes that attract birds, tells you where and when to plant them, how to obtain them, when they bear fruit-----The N.C. Dept. of Agriculture offers a series of pamphlets containing recipes for using various locally produced goods; each is titled "An Old American Favorite", and underneath is noted the specialty in the particular folder. For example: honey recipes, sweet potato recipes, etc. Wriet: Markets Division, N.C. Dept. of Agriculture, P.O. Box 27647, Raleigh, N.C., 27611. Locally, stop in at the Agricultural Extension Service office in the courthouse annex building in Beaufort; see Jim Bunce there.
