

proposal), and decided to send a letter to the Legislature, detailing their feelings, since the bill by Indian Beach has apparently been received favorably by the House already, and Board hopes are that the Legislature will not act on this matter in this session.

Residents who feel strongly on this matter are urged to write letters of their own to the Legislature; they may be sent either to Rep. R. E. Mason or Senator D. Livingston Stallings in Raleigh as soon as possible because the session will wind up around the middle of June.

The Commissioners accepted a contract with A. C. Davis of PKS for mowing the areas along the street rights-of-way.

KEN HALLER and BILL MACDONALD drummed up this thing of going to DRUM Inlet for a fishing day, passed the word casually among PKS-ers, and soon 18 were signed up to spend a day together casting in the waters off Drum Inlet. TOM KERR, on his first adventure in surf fishing, caught the biggest keeper, winning the pool, KEN KNIGHT got a 9 foot shark, BETH JOHNSON got the first fish of the day, and her father, FRANK, got the most sharks, a dubious honor indeed, one supposes.

1921 FURNITURE CO. is a neat new concept in merchandising combined with woodworking that has opened doors in the old depot on Arendell. Steve Evans, the man who works with wood, does it in a sort of closed off half of the building (but you can peek in and watch) while his finished wares are on sale in the other half.

A sturdy, whimsical rocking horse sat in front of the place when we visited it; inside were handsome desks, tables, and dry sinks, as well as some splendid small pieces like hang-on-the-wall cabinets, a simple pine waste basket, a two drawer box (maybe for jewelry?) with nails for drawer pulls. Mr. Evans also does macrame, carries handmade pottery, will be selling plants soon. If you see something you like but want it with an extra door or maybe two inches higher, special order it; he won't keep you waiting more than a couple of weeks either.

Want to order some of your staples at lower-than-super-market prices and be able to get more variety as well? (Like whole wheat spaghetti or unadulterated apple butter???????) Join the CARTERET COUNTY FOOD CO-OP! Call Robert Kornegay - he is kind of in charge of it - 726-6944. The group will meet next at the Webb Library in Morehead City at 7:00 P.M. on Tuesday, June 10th to decide what their order will be. (There is a minimum so they welcome more people into the fold to spread the burden a bit). One young man we spoke with told us it is a great group of folks and a fine way to meet new friends in the community.

New residents on Hickory Court on the canal are MILDRED and HAROLD SMITH, originally from North Carolina, but more recently from Washington, D.C. where they have been counseling psychologists. They worked together there, guiding disabled veterans, veterans, their wives and dependents, toward more useful lives and careers. The Smiths have a beautiful German Shepherd named Blade, enjoy music (Mildred plays the piano) walking, and reading. "Smitty" hopes to, as he says, re-learn fishing, do a bit of writing, and Mildred is enjoying cooking more since she is not working outside her home full time

LARRY JEROME sent us the following information about the long range land use plan under the Coastal Management Act:

"Our town is presently engaged in preparing a long range development and land use plan, under the direction of the Planning Board and Mr. Paul Foster, a professional planning consultant. Substantial preliminary work has already been done. Inasmuch as the plan must reflect the desires of our residents to the extent that they are compatible with the Coastal Area Management Act, questionnaires have been sent to the owners of all residential property in the town. The answers to this questionnaire will help establish the town's goals and objectives upon which the land use plan will be based.

"As a follow-up to the questionnaire, a public meeting will be held in the last week of this month (June). The exact time and place will be announced in the Carteret County News-Times. At this meeting, the results of the questionnaire will be discussed and a tentative statement of goals and objectives will be presented. Every resident should plan to attend because the outcome of this important meeting could have considerable influence on the basic nature of the town's future development."
