

The Mayor also said the town was taking action on the nuisance and illegal parking of vehicles on roadways and rights-of-way. He said letters had been sent to residents who are violating the town's ordinance and urging their compliance with the law.

The matter of vehicular traffic on the beach also came up for discussion as the result of a visitor being run over recently. Mayor Cleveland has asked Winston Seale to organize a delegation to attend the meeting of the County Commissioners requesting that such vehicles be outlawed on the beach.

And finally, Mayor Cleveland urged residents who wish to express an opinion concerning the repeal of the state's Intangible Tax to write to their state legislators. A bill to repeal this tax, H.B. 1164, is currently being studied by the legislature.

SPECIAL CAMA MEETING A large crowd gathered at Town Hall on Monday, September 28, to hear a discussion of the town's proposals and policies for the implementation of the CAMA Land Use plan. In addition to the commissioners and committee members who drew up the plan, the meeting also was attended by Gaile Pittman, staff representative of the Coastal Planning Board.

Planning Board Chairman Curt Johnson introduced Art Browne, former town commissioner and past member of the Planning Board, who presented the "areas of concern" in the proposal, which was followed by the policy statement concerning each item. The concerns were: resource protection, economic and community development, provision of services to the town, waterways maintenance, continuing public participation in town affairs, and resource production and management.

Commissioner Larry Jerome then spoke on the importance of supporting and maintaining the policies if the town is to continue as a desirable residential area in the future. However, he said there are two areas over which the town has little influence. They are, he said, the town's water supply and sanitary treatment plants. With respect to future growth of the town Mr. Jerome said projected population in 15 to 20 years can be expected not to exceed 9,000 persons.

Both Paul Foster and Ms. Pittman complimented the town on its presentation and the thoroughness of the plan, and predicted acceptance by the Coastal Resources Commission.

The Board of Commissioners then voted the approval of the plan, and it was announced that copies of the plan would be mailed to all property owners later this year.
