

The Pine Knoll Shores Women's Club will meet at 10 a.m., on Friday, July 27, at the Town Hall. This will be an informal discussion meeting centering around two topics. First will be the question of activities to entertain visiting grandchildren. We will share experiences and suggestions of things available in the PKS area. Second, we will talk over problems that newcomers to Pine Knoll Shores encounter -- not big problems, but small things like places to shop for your favorite spices or brands you used back yonder and can't seem to find here. Members who have lived here for several years may have suggestions or may know that you might as well forget it.

Karolyn Cleveland has asked Shore Line to publish the following:

"To all Pine Knoll Shores residents, the family of Wayne P. Cleveland wishes to thank all who made possible the memorial fountain and pond in front of the Town Hall.

"It will certainly evoke memories of the site as it was, the selecting and clearing of the area, the ground breaking, watching the building grow and finally the dedication of the building as envisioned -- dreams of many came true.

"Thank you all."

"If only you could see it through my eyes, you'd be a much better neighbor! It's true that 15 years ago Pine Knoll Shores was a dream of space and privacy. But, now, with so many nice new neighbors, we have to be much more caring about one another.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

"We consider ourselves intelligent, enlightened, etc. But we "dump out the back windows" just like Harlem! In the east end of the canal somebody has repeatedly dumped grass clippings. They float in 20-foot wide mats and take days to rot. Somebody also dumps whole large fish!

Couldn't grass and fish be used in a compost pile, or bagged for garbage? Also in the east end of the canal soap suds are too often seen. Two weeks ago there was a 1,000 foot fluff of soap suds. Our canal is polluted. Be a good neighbor and clean up your act. No dumping!
