MEET OUR NEW NEIGHBORS

Arlene and Felix Caggiano moved here about one and a half years ago. They live on the canal at 106 Elm Court. The house is unusual with a blue roof and the front in the shape of a ship's prow. Felix, better known as Fil, was the house designer for the unusual lot.

Fil was an estimating engineer in heavy construction for the Pegno Construction Company at College Point, Queens, New York. They moved here from Hicksville, Long Island, New York, where they had 5 children, 2 boys, 3 girls, and a total of 14 grandchildren. One son lives in West Virginia, one son in Pennsylvania, one girl in Arizona and two girls on Long Island, New York.

They first looked at Western North Carolina. Then they visited friends at Cape Carteret and fell
