

As part of their continuing effort to beautify the town, Garden Club members and volunteers gathered at the Pine Knoll Shores firehouse in early December to create wreaths and swags to decorate public areas around town. In the foreground: Lisa Park (right) and Susan King.—Photo by Jean McDanal

A family visit. Joan Lamson (center) is pictured here with her twin sisters, Jeanette Neudorff (left) and Joyce Weyers. The twins were part of a large family gathering in Pine Knoll Shores to celebrate Joan's birthday—and must be a couple of the most interesting sisters around. Jeanette and her husband spent 30 years traveling the country in a motor home, joined by Joyce for the last 22 years of that adventure. At one point their traveling companions included a dog and seven cats. Jeanette and Joyce have given up the road and live in Denver now.—Photo by Carroll Beckham

2016 Pine Knoll Shores

Families and friends gathered at McNeill Park in early December for the Pine Knoll Shores Flotilla. To the delight of spectators, colorful boats cruised the canal, and Santa arrived to help get the holiday season off to a good start.—Photos by Dan Law

From left: Teresa Stanton-Law, Kelly Clark and BJ Peter work to wrap gifts donated to the Pine Knoll Shores Angel Tree effort. Gifts were donated to 20 families of wounded warriors.—Photo by Dan Law