

Draper people need only a glance to recognize this happy young couple. Both were born and reared in Draper and have a host of friends there. The young lady was, before her marriage, Miss Arlene Hatley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hatley. After 14 months of service overseas Seaman Clay Barrow returned home on leave and the young couple were married. Your many friends wish you all the happiness possible, Arlene and Clay.

A robber was holding up passengers on a Pullman car.

"Out with your dough, or I'll kill all the men and molest the women," he shouted.

An elderly man said indignantly: "You shall not touch the ladies."

Just then an old maid in an upper berth yelled out, "You leave him alone —HE'S robbing this train."
