

Here is a family group that we all hope will soon be reunited. T/5 Leonard Tillie is now in Japan and before entering service in September, 1944, was employed in the Towel mill Weave room. Mrs. Leonard Tillie and her two daughters, Linda Lee and Judy Mamie, are three good reasons why T/5 Tillie would like to come home. Mrs. Tillie is employed in the Knitting department of the Hosiery mill.

John F. Tinsley Speaks To Council

John F. Tinsley, president of Crompton and Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, Mass., addressed the members of the Carolina Cooperative Council at their monthly meeting Thursday evening, March 21, in the Central Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Tinsley advocated increased production as a preventive against inflation and as the surest way to prosperity. He described some of his experiences working on war projects and some of his company's activities in connection with the war effort. He outlined recent developments in the textile field and gave a preview of things to come in the textile machinery future.

A director and past president of the National Association of Textile Machinery Manufacturers and founder of the New England Industrial Research Foundation, Mr. Tinsley during World War II was a member of the Advisory Board of the War Department and a member of the Management Service Staff Headquarters, Army Service Forces. He has been decorated by several nations and honored by many universities.

Mr. Tinsley was introduced by Woodrow W. Lambeth, superintendent of the Towel Mill and a member of the Council program committee.

Wedding Lesson

There's nothing like a wedding
To make a fellow learn—
At first he thinks she's his'n,
But later learns he's her'n.

Training Department Notes of Interest

The Draper Public Speaking Class had a dinner at the Meadow Green Country Club at 6:30 p. m., Friday, March 22, to complete their work in this course. The Public Speaking Class composed of men from the Marshall Field General Office, Personnel Department, Engineering Department, and Wage Bureau were their guests. Each man who had taken the course took an active part, and short talks were given by Mr. H. W. Whitcomb, Mr. M. P. Miller, and Mr. D. A. Purcell. Both of these classes were under the direction of the Training Department, and a third class is under way at the Training Department conference room.

At our Draper mills, beginning March 25, a Course for Instructors will be given. The purpose of this course is to inaugurate a new method of training employees for the different occupations at this plant. An instructor for each of the important functions will be trained, and it will become his duty to transfer the knowledge to the new people. This is the second plant to inaugurate this type of training, as Karastan utilized this method of training early last fall. All the training at the Karastan was carried on in the plant, and, in contrast to this, the Blanket and Sheeting mills plan to use the Vocational School for some of their training.

An evening class in Business English and Correspondence is being started at Draper for office personnel. This will be conducted at the Y. M. C. A. in Draper and will be given each Wednesday night for several continuous weeks.

Classes in Work Simplification are now being conducted for assistant foremen at Spray and Draper, for hourly employees at Fieldale, and for Wage Bureau and Engineering employees at Spray. In addition, a course in Supervisory Training is being conducted for the foremen and assistant foremen at the Karastan and Bedsread mills.

The Public Speaking Classes, the Instructor Training Classes, the Supervisory Training Classes, and part of the Work Simplification Classes are being conducted by Lawrence E. Richards, Director of Training. Work Simplification Classes are being conducted by Mr. E. G. Michaels, and the Business English and Correspondence course will be conducted by Miss Della Hawkins.

Modern Mother Goose

Jack and Jill, dressed fit to kill,
Went driving on a bender.
And fit to kill, drove off a hill,
For salvage there's one fender.
